RUSSIA INVITES WORLD TO SIGN ECONOMIC PACT

Lays Depression to Dumping by Powers.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, May 18.—Dumping by the capitalistic powers is what has wrought on the world business [illegible] Litvinov, soviet commissar of foreign affairs, told members of the league commission of inquiry into the Pan-European project today. At the end he produced two concrete suggestions for the committee to act on. The first was that European powers adopt a convention binding themselves to compulsory cuts in the home markets at prices no higher than on foreign markets. The soviets, Litvinov said, would sign such a convention. He asserted that it would raise the buying power of the masses and help them absorb production.

Proposes Economic Truce.

His second proposal was this: "In order to relieve the atmosphere of mutual jealousy that has been poisoning the crisis, all nations could sign a pact of 'economic non-aggression' along the same lines as the Kellogg pact outlawing war. The text of a protocol of such a pact was submitted to the delegates. It called for several customs truce, among other things.

"In suggesting a cure, Litvinov did not go to the capitalist business man for the tall and told what is wrong with the beast.

"It is the capitalist system itself," he declared.

"In spurning this easy generalization to undertook to show, as Pope Pius did the other day, how capitalism is retreating below its own standards.

Price Dumping and Armaments.

"The disorganization of world economy during the war, the system of reparation, international debts, and armaments, are all aggravating factors in the present crisis, he said. "But above all there is dumping. Even the victims of his attack appeared to their seats, the 'unscrupulous bolshevik produced statistics drawn from capitalist sources to show how Czechoslovakia, Poland, and Germany dumped sugar. He also took a veiled shot at the United States farm relief and similar tactics.

"But prices prevent the absorption of surplus," he declared, and he [illegible]

2 INDICTED WITH KIRKLAND HELP PROSECUTE HIM

Their Testimony Ends State's Case.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., May 18.—[Special.]—The state closed its case against Virgil Kirkland today with the presentation of a mass of new evidence connecting the 20 year old Gary youth with the rape and murder of 17 year old Arlene Draves.

Two youths under indictment with Kirkland for the slaying turned state's evidence against him. The remaining two were placed on the witness stand but refused to testify on the ground that they might incriminate themselves.

Paul Barton, 21 years old, son of wealthy parents, and Henry Shirk, 24 years old, were the two witnesses against Kirkland. Leon Stanford and David Thompson, their co-defendants, remained mute when brought into the courtroom.

The testimony of Barton and Shirk depicted Kirkland as a primitive being with uncontrollable brutish impulses under the stimulus of alcohol.

So revolting at times was the picture of the young defendant painted by his former friends that the courtroom crowd shuddered and cast curious glances at Kirkland. Kirkland maintained a grave calm, gazing steadily at the witnesses and betraying no signs of anger or fear.

According to the testimony of Barton and Shirk, Kirkland ravished Arline repeatedly during the night which ended in her death. He then invited his friends to follow his example.

One of the strongest points made against Kirkland during the day's testimony was in the testimony of Barton that Kirkland wanted to flee to Chicago after a doctor had pronounced Arlene dead. During the first trial, which ended in a sentence of life imprisonment for Kirkland, the defense had contended that Kirkland, after the death, went immediately to Arlene's home to notify her relatives.

Deny Deal with State.

Both Barton and Shirk, under cross examination, declared they had been promised nothing by the state in return for their evidence. They admitted when quizzed by Defense Attorney Ronald Oldham, that their admissions made them guilty of rape and murder and therefore subject to a death sentence.

When Stanford and Thompson were brought into the courtoom they informed Judge Grant Crumpacker that they did not wish to testify.

"Well, I can't make you testify," commented the judge. "You may stand aside."

The state ended its case with a reading of Kirkland's confession to the jury. In this confession, Kirkland admitted having relations with Arlene but insisted she was acquiescent and conscious at the time. He accused Thompson, Barton, Stanford, and Shirk of attacking the girl without his knowledge.

The defense will open tomorrow. Kirkland's attorneys said they were not ready to reveal what evidence they will offer but hinted that "a big surprise" was in store.

Barton Nervous on Stand.

Scores were struggling for entrance into the packed courtroom when Barton, a pale faced youth, took the witness stand at the opening of the morning session and was sworn. He avoided Kirkland's steady gaze. He was examined by Prosecutor Underwood:

Q.—Do you recall a party held at the David Thompson home in Gary last Nov. 29? A.—I do.

JUDGE CRUMPACKER—It is my duty to warn you that you need not testify. A.—I wish to testify.

Q.—Tell about the party. A.—I went in my automobile and got to the party about 8:30 p. m. It was a rainy, cold night out and slippery underfoot.

At the request of the prosecutor, Barton named most of the guests at the party and told about the drinking, talking and dancing which was going on. A temporary bar had been established in the kitchen, he said, and a gallon of alcohol and a gallon of wine were at the guests' disposal.

Q.—Did you see Virgil Kirkland and Arlene Draves? A.—Yes, I noticed them lying on a davenport in the front room.

The Trip in the Car.

Q.—What happened about midnight? A.—David Thompson proposed going for some sandwiches. We went out to my car and as we were driving away, I noticed for the first time that Kirk-

Ex-Governor Osborn Adopts His Secretary

Sylvester, Ga., May 18.—[Special.]—Chase S. Osborn, former governor of Michigan, "the Iron Hunter," statesman and millionaire, has adopted his scholarly secretary, Miss Stella Lee Brunt, as his daughter.

CHASE OSBORN. [N. & E. Photo.]

The former governor, who is in his 72d year, appeared in Worth county Superior court, here, with Miss Brunt, for the formal legal procedure in connection with the adoption, explaining his literary and research work has been increasing to such an extent that he required Miss Brunt's services permanently as an assistant.

Ranks High in Scholarship.

Miss Brunt ranks among the University of Michigan's most brilliant graduates. In 1922 she was graduated with the highest distinction given by the university literary college, a summa cum laude bachelor of arts degree. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. She took a master of arts degree last year and has been working toward a doctor's degree in English.

In recent years, aside from assisting Osborn, she has been an office editor and contributor in the department of social economics for the supplement of the New International Encyclopedia; assistant of Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, as editor of Good Health magazine, and has been aiding in the revision of the official publication of the University of Michigan.

Friends here describe Miss Brunt now to be known as Miss Osborn, as a "moderate, immodern modern." They say:

"She has achieved all she has done without learning to use lip stick or rouge or to smoke or drink or swear."

Miss Brunt is 37 years old. She was born in Hamilton, Ont., and next year will receive second papers which will make her an American citizen.

Osborn's Georgia home is at Possum Poke in Possum Lane, near Sylvester. This will be Miss Osborn's legal residence.

Separated from Wife.

In the adoption the girl became the daughter of a "civilized barbarian," as the "Iron Hunter" described himself. When Osborn and his wife were separated in 1922 it was by mutual agreement, the former governor explaining he is "barbarian" at heart and that Mrs. Osborn, his companion of 40 years, was weary of the adventurous life.

FIGHTING IN THE RAIN GIVES POLICEMAN A RING REPUTATION

Patrolman Philip McGuire of the South State street station, who has been on the force only five months, was walking through the rain last night when, at 13th and State streets, he saw a man lying alongside the curb. McGuire reached down and shook the man. The shake was like a spark of dynamite.

McGuire's head jolted back from a solid punch delivered by the suddenly revived inebriate. The young policeman swung in reprisal and landed. He received two blows in return. For several minutes the two battled in the storm, without a witness. Law eventually triumphed, the professional took the count.

He was revived ten minutes later. He identified himself as Anton Waytulonis, 25 years old, of Crystal Falls, Mich., His ring name is Tony Mack. As he sat rubbing his face and head, he mentioned he had fought one hundred ring battles, but never met a better man than McGuire.

"We socked each other," said the professional boxer disconsolately, "but that cop's punches got stronger toward the end. The last one was a wow. I wonder what it was."

In another room Policeman McGuire was narrating the story of the battle. "It got so I had to slap him with this," he concluded.

McGuire patted his night club.

EVANSTON BARS ALDERMAN WHO OWNS CITY DUMP

Evanston's city council last night voted to deprive John La Bahn, elected to that body on April 7 as representative of the newly created 8th ward, of his seat. Following the election one of the defeated candidates, Robert Risch, raised the legal point that La Bahn was ineligible as an alderman because at the time he held a contract with the city, renting to it a city dump. The council judiciary committee reported that he could not hold his office legally. No date for an election to fill the vacancy has been fixed.

Boy Scouts Suck Poison from Snake Bitten Lad

Baltimore, Md., May 17.—(AP)—Poison left by the fangs of a copperhead was sucked from the hand and leg of 9 year old Howard Bates by his two Boy Scout brothers, Charles, 13, and William, 15, at the family camp on the Patapsco river. Doctors at the hospital expect the boy to recover.

REGINA, Sask., May 18.—Farmers of the Imperial district, unable to get more than ten cents a pound for dairy butter, are using the product as axle grease on their farm implements. The butter is working efficiently.

Wife Divorces Ralph N. Isham in Reno, Report

Reports from Reno last night were that Ralph Nelson Isham, millionaire aviation enthusiast and prominent in Chicago society, had been divorced in the Nevada city by his wife, the former Grace McCall, on charges of cruelty. Isham could not be reached at his Lake Geneva home to verify the report and at the Isham apartments at 70 Cedar street it was stated that Mrs. Isham had not been there for some time.

Rumors of Trouble.

That the marital affairs of the Ishams were likely to get into the divorce courts has been rumored in society circles for several weeks, but when asked about it some time ago Mr. Isham declared there was "nothing to it." Information sought at the home of Mrs. John W. McCall, mother of Mrs. Isham, in Marquette, Mich., at that time brought the statement that nothing was known of a contemplated divorce.

The marriage of the Ishams in New York on Feb. 20, 1930, came as a surprise to friends of the couple in Chicago and Marquette. The wedding took place in the First Presbyterian church of New York City, with only the bride's and groom's immediate relatives present. The couple went on a honeymoon trip to Europe and returned to Chicago on May 12, 1930.

Member of Old Family.

Mr. Isham is a member of one of the oldest of Chicago's pioneer families. His grandfather, Dr. George Isham, came to Chicago in 1855. He is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. George Snow Isham of Lake Geneva.

Mrs. Isham before her marriage was actively interested in social service work in Chicago. While here she lived at the Illinois Women's Athletic club.

MOB'S ATTACK ON JAIL BEAT OFF BY RIFLE FIRE

Elberton, Ga., May 18.—(AP)—Rifle fire and tear gas bombs were used by National Guardsmen tonight in beating off a mob which attacked the jail where a Negro was under arrest, charged with attacking a white woman. Two civilians were wounded.

Refusing to retire from the jail at the command of the guardsmen, the crowd drew closer and the troops threw tear gas bombs. These proving unavailing, when the mob hurled them back, the guardsmen opened fire.

Tear gas bombs were resorted to after the fire department had attempted to drive away the mob by turning the fire hose on them. Members of the mob took the hose from the firemen and turned it on the troops.

The two local units of the Georgia National Guard, one a machine gun outfit, were ordered on duty following appeals to Gov. L. G. Hardman in Atlanta from the mayor, sheriff, police chief and judge of the Elberton City court.

Doak Says Any Pay Cut Would Justify Strike

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor William N. Doak today declared that any move on the part of industry to lower wages would be considered a violation of confidence by the administration. Such a move, Mr. Doak asserted, would justify a demand for higher wages and opposition by strikes on the part of organized labor.

Mr. Doak referred to the agreement which he said President Hoover obtained from industry late in 1929 to maintain wage scales during the depression. Any departure now from that agreement, according to the labor secretary, would be regarded by the President as a violation of faith.

"Rumblings" of impending wage reductions had been brought to his attention recently, Mr. Doak said, adding, however, that he had been advised of no specific movement by any employer to lower pay rates.

Calls Move Sporadic.

"The administration has done everything possible to preserve the existing levels of wages and resist reduction," he said, "and as a general rule no reductions have been made by any of the major industries."

As far as he knew, according to Mr. Doak, no leader of industry has proposed a reduction in wages. Such suggestions, he said, have come from bankers, and are based on the opinion that workers' pay should be lowered to conform to the low price levels which have resulted from the depression.

Mr. Doak asserted that he had not been formally advised of the statement last week by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to the effect that a move to reduce wages on the part of industry would be met by demands for higher pay on the part of organized labor.

Cites Recent Strikes.

Mr. Doak attributed the "rumblings" of impending wage reductions which he has heard recently to the fact that labor difficulties inevitably occur in times such as the present. He attributed the current controversies between workers and employers to the expiration of agreements, and added that in nearly every case the difficulties have been amicably settled. Six impending strikes, which were brought to the attention of the labor department last week, were averted by the department's conciliation service, Mr. Doak said, and in every case, a return to the existing wage scale was effected.

German Flyer Plans New Hop to N. Y. Via Greenland

BERLIN, May, 18.—(AP)—The foreign ministry today announced that Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, who last year flew to New York via Greenland, will make a similar flight at the end of August to study weather conditions and determine the feasibility of an air traffic route from Europe to America via Greenland. The flight will start from Reykjavik, Iceland.

ARMY FIGHTERS TO ARRIVE FOR WAR MANEUVER

Armada Will Land at 5 Airports.

BULLETIN.

The flying weather bureau at the Chicago airport at 6 o'clock this morning reported flying conditions between Chicago and Dayton were excellent.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The United States army air corps in its full fighting strength of 500 planes will descend upon Chicago this afternoon to prepare for the first big maneuver of its national exercises on the lake front tomorrow morning.

The air force is due to arrive in scattered squadrons, flying different routes from their concentration base at Dayton, O., and is expected to appear over the city between 12:30 and 4 p. m. Units of observation and bombardment planes will land at Ford-Lansing and Chicago airports, while the remainder will fly in separate groups, some following the lake shore and cutting across the north side and others taking a circuitous route around western suburbs, to their temporary bases at Palwaukee, Curtiss, and Sky Harbor airports.

Vanguard Reaches City.

The vanguard of the air fleet arrived here yesterday afternoon to complete arrangements for tomorrow's maneuvers. Nineteen headquarters planes bearing 50 officers flew here from Dayton, arriving at noon. Twelve of the group landed at Chicago airport, while the remainder flew to the other four bases.

There was a bare possibility yesterday that the army's attack upon the Chicago sector may have to be postponed or curtailed on account of possible bad weather. However, Maj. O. W. Griswold, press officer for the air division, expressed the opinion that the storm area moving eastward from the southwest would not interfere with their operations.

Will Take No Risks.

"It may rain a little," he said, "but that won't stop the flight. If the weather becomes so bad that flying is not advisable, the Chicago engagement will be canceled, for the army will take no unnecessary risks during these maneuvers. Cancellation, however, is unlikely."

Last night's scattered thunder showers will move across the path to be followed today by the army armada, but the weather bureau here expressed the belief that storms would not prevent the flight.

All preparations were completed yesterday for the reception of the planes and their personnel of 1,100 men. No extensive entertainment is planned for the visitors, however, for the army flyers are engaged in a serious war maneuver and have orders to attend strictly to the business of flying.

Stay at Two Hotels.

Officers and men will be quartered at the Stevens and the Edgewater Beach hotels. Fleets of automobiles have been engaged to transport them to and from the airports.

The schedule for the two weeks of nationwide maneuvers and especially for the period of the Chicago demonstration, will permit of little extraneous activity. The fleet is scheduled for combat practice and final review at Dayton this morning, proceeding to Chicago in the afternoon.

The first pursuit wing will clear Fairfield airport at Dayton between 11:15 and 12 and land at Curtiss airport by 2:30.

The 11th bombardment wing of 28 giant planes departs between 11 o'clock and 12:15, landing at Ford-Lansing airport between 1:45 and 2:30 p. m., the second bombardment group coming in first and the 7th bombardment group following.

Other Units Are Timed.

The third attack group will leave Dayton around noon and land at Curtiss airport about 2:30.

The 21st observation wing will leave by 12:45 p. m., landing at Ford-Lansing airport from 1:45 to 3 p. m. The 23d observation wing will clear its base at 12:45 and one group will be at Sky Harbor at 3:45 p. m., the other group going on to Palwaukee by 3:40 p. m.

The 31st transport group will land at Ford Lansing airport not later than 12:30 p. m. Two amphibian transports will arrive at the Chicago airport not later than 1 p. m., reporting upon arrival to the airdrome officer for rescue duty. An ambulance plane will land at Curtiss field not later than 1 p. m.

Their routes across Ohio, Indiana, and into Illinois will follow generally a direct course, although there will be some divergence because of the varying speeds of the different types of aircraft. The planes in separate formations—heavy bombers, observation, pursuit and attack planes—will appear here at intervals over a period of four hours, but will all be tied down, refueled and serviced by nightfall.

Tomorrow morning the planes will clear their bases between 8:45 and 9:45 a. m., the division forming along a route which will follow in the air over Plainfield, Eola, West Chicago, Spaulding, Glencoe, Winnetka, Wilmette, Evanston and the north side to the Navy pier, where the review proper will begin about 10:11 o'clock.

With Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, commanding general of the division, leading his staff the fleet will thunder on down the lake front past the Stevens hotel, where, on the roof, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker and a group of military men will observe them from the official reviewing stand.

The lineup of the parade, places of honor, exact formations, and detailed route will be announced here tonight after the planes are safely in their fields.

Will Parade Over Water.

The aerial parade will be held for the most part over water, for division review is usually executed at altitudes of less than 300 feet. Heading the column will be a group of heavy bombardment planes followed by fighter bombers, attack ships, observation and pursuit groups. Staff planes and transports will bring up the rear.

When the parade has passed a demonstration of air combat will be enacted over the lake opposite Navy pier by three crack groups including the 94th pursuit squadron from Rockwell Field, Cal., commanded by Capt. F. O. D. Hunter, one of the few remaining war aces in the service, the 11th bombardment squadron from Rockwell Field and the 13th attack squadron from Galveston, Tex.

When the review is completed, the division, with the exception of the National Guard observation planes, will return to Dayton to prepare for the trip to New York the following day. The National Guard ships will go to Cleveland and take the northern route to New York.

READY TO LEAVE

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fairfield Air Depot, Dayton, O., May 18.—[Special.]—The army's greatest air show will move into Chicago tomorrow. More than 500 fighting planes, by far the largest group ever assembled for such a demonstration, will wing their way across the countryside to drop in on five airports in the metropolitan area in preparation for the first formal review over the city Wednesday.

MAJ. GEN. FECHET.

Only bad weather can mar the trip and the flying officers are anxiously scanning the reports.

There was a final training flight of the division here this morning in which the 500 pilots who will take part in the Chicago maneuvers received special instructions for the trip and the ten mile long parade over the city. The airmen rested during the afternoon and tomorrow morning will be spent in preparing for the almost 300 mile flight to Chicago, the first ship leaving here at 11:15 a. m., Chicago time.

Improve at Rehearsal.

The second dress rehearsal this morning for the Chicago show found the pilots almost clocklike in their precision. At one time the entire air armada stretching across the sky for ten miles stood out against the clouds in full view of the ranking officers gathered on the field. The air parade was twelve minutes in passing a given point, moving along at more than 100 miles an hour.

There was not a mishap to mar the rehearsal, and with the exception of four Selfridge Field [Mich.] pilots who met a new enemy—the mumps—every fighting plane and pilot is ready and eager for the first big town show. There are 672 planes concentrated here, but only the fighters and necessary transports are going to Chicago.

Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, head of the air corps, reviewed the dress rehearsal this morning and announced his satisfaction with the manner in which it was run off. The general said that it was an almost perfect training review and that the Chicago parade and maneuvers should be even more clocklike.

Weather reports, it was announced at Fairfield headquarters, were none too favorable for the Chicago trip, but it was declared the planes would push through unless the reports should grow considerably worse. Here in Dayton the sun is shining and the air is balmy.

Maj. Gen. Fechet was asked about reports from Washington that there had been friction between high ranking army officers regarding the air maneuvers, the cancellation of the New York night bombing show, and further curtailment in the original program. He denied there was any ill feeling. Neither was there any idea of making a change in the air command, he said, declaring he had not read published reports to that effect.

General Douglas MacArthur, who called off the New York night show, was acting in his right as the commanding general of the army, he said. It was explained that Gen. MacArthur as the ranking commanding general would go to Boston next week and assume entire charge of certain tactical situations having to do with the maneuvers. The review program would not be altered and Gen. MacArthur would not be acting as chief of staff, it was pointed out.

Controlled by Radio.

The question as to whether a unit as large as the American air forces can be handled by radio, so that changes in operation or route may be made after it is in the air with virtually synchronization of movement, will be worked out away from a training field for the first time during the Chicago spectacle. A single hooded figure at a central radio station will control the whole armada flying in close order over Chicago.

If the tentative program is carried out the parade over Chicago will take the following order:

The head of the ten mile column will be made up of 36 heavy bombardment planes, then will follow 30 or more light bombardment ships, 51 attack planes, 300 observation planes, and almost 200 pursuit planes.

F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war in charge of aeronautics, flew in from Washington late today, and David Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy, arrived by air this morning. They will accompany the air fleet to Chicago tomorrow.

Women Applaud Great Deeds That Have Built Real Chicago

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

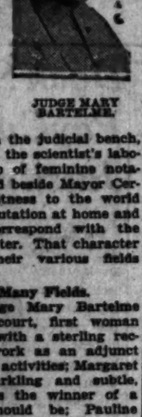
They called it a Jubilee luncheon that the feminine forces of this metropolis staged yesterday at the Hotel Sherman. It was no less a civic rhapsody by a chorus of 1,600 voices, in which solo parts had been assigned with due regard for past performances. Less figuratively and more literally, the ardor of Chicago's women for their home city was made articulate for the multitude by a group of noted women.



JUDGE MARY BARTELME.

Summoned from the judicial bench, the artist's studio, the scientist's laboratory, this group of feminine notables came to stand beside Mayor Cermak and bear witness to the world that Chicago's reputation at home and abroad should correspond with the facts of its character. That character they have in their various fields helped to mold.

Leaders in Many Fields.

There was Judge Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court, first woman jurist of Illinois, with a sterling record for welfare work as an adjunct to her professional activities; Margaret Ayer Barnes, sparkling and subtle, witty and wise as the winner of a Pulitzer prize should be; Pauline Palmer, outstanding painter, more human than temperamental; Cyrena Van Gordon, Chicago Civic opera star, proving that she can make an oral defense of her home town as well as be an ornament to its artistic circles.

There was Dr. Maud Slye of the University of Chicago, taking with all modesty the ovation that greeted her as tribute to her profound scientific research in cancer; Agnes Nestor, the voice of the trade union women, an appointee of President Wilson on labor legislation during the war; Jane Magan, a prototype of the modern successful business woman and past president of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women; Mrs. William S. Hefferan, long prominent in education as a member of the board of trustees of the city schools.

Member of 1893 Fair.

There was also Dr. Frances Dickinson, retired physician, only surviving member of the board of lady managers of the World's Fair of 1893, at once the representative of the older and the younger generation. For though her years are 75, her voice was the strongest, her ideas the most progressive, it seemed. She has lately endowed girl pilots with a flying field in Florida. She arrived from the south yesterday morning to attend the luncheon.

Flanking these living testimonials to Chicago's worthy past and bright future were such distinguished feminine figures as that of Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson, first lady of Illinois; Mrs. Mary A. Wall, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Robert Isham Randolph, wife of the president of the Association of Commerce; Mrs. Frank Jirka and Mrs. Floyd Kenlay, daughters of Mayor Cermak, and Mrs. Martin Kent Northam of the Century of Progress.

Beyond the speakers' rostrum, filling the grand ballroom of the hotel to capacity and overflowing the mezzanine floor, were the tables of guests, groups from most of the large and many of the small organizations of women in the city and county. As the program was started, those from outside surged in, occupying completely all the space available in the balcony of the ballroom.

Enthusiasm was generous for the women bidden to represent their sisterhood at the microphones; for the stentorious phrases in which Mayor Cermak extolled the community of which he is chief executive; for the song "Chicago," sung by Mme. Jean Young. But most of all it burst forth in storms of applause when the theme of the occasion, the real Chicago, was mentioned.

Frederick J. Ashley of the Association of Commerce, representing Col. Robert Isham Randolph, who was called out of town, came to extend greetings to the guests. The women cheered the news he brought.

"When the Merchants' Association of New York, comparable to our group, wants to know how we did it and whether we can tell 'em how to go about it; when Oklahoma City and the republic of Argentina write us to say they are interested in what we did and if we can show them how to put it over, you know—I don't need to say more—that the Chicago Jubilee has been a success," he declared.

"One indication of what it has meant was seen this morning in THE TRIBUNE, when Arthur Sears Henning, writing from Washington, called attention to the fact that columns of space have been carried about it in the papers of both this country and Europe, far different from the type of news that was printed when Chicago's name there was a 'a byword and a hissing.'"

Cheer Jubilee Revival.

Mayor Cermak held the attention of the women through his summary of conditions confronting his administration. But when he climaxed his address with item after item of municipal assets such as Shedd aquarium, Soldiers' field, the Buckingham fountain and such, totaling $280,000,000, and shouted, "This Jubilee week has been a revival; Chicago is digging itself out of a grave," he had to stop and wait until the demonstration ended before he could continue.

"I have served notice on theatrical producers and motion picture firms," he said, "that no more plays or films depicting this city as it has been depicted in the last few years will be permitted to show here, and if they continue to make them they will have to seek other towns than this to display them. We've had more than we want."

Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations, was general chairman of the luncheon, presided as toastmistress, and presented the speakers and notable guests.

Today's Program

International Program at Soldiers' Field.

Customs as well as costumes of other lands will be revealed tonight at a gala International night celebration at Soldiers' field as a major event of the Chicago Jubilee.

Twenty national groups will participate. The festivities commence at 7 o'clock. Principal speakers will be Mayor Cermak and United States Senator Lewis.

Consuls to Be Guests.

A stage erected in the center of the field will be used by the singers and dancers. In boxes immediately in front will sit the mayor, the senator, Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, county and south park boards officials, and the forty-nine foreign consuls resident in Chicago.

More than 200 voices from Swedish choral groups will sing the songs of Sweden. The singers will be directed by W. H. Nordin. The Italians and others will present folk dances, singers, and players. Each group has been alloted approximately 15 minutes.

Other Events Today.

Two other Jubilee events today and tonight will be the Chicago Jubilee handicap race at the Exposition Jockey club at Aurora and a street dance at 51st street and Damen avenue under the auspices of the South Damen Avenue Improvement association, Inc. The Aurora race will be run in the afternoon. The dance will be held from 8 to 11 p. m.

COLORED GROUPS PARADE

Colored citizens celebrated the Chicago Jubilee last night with an impressive parade in South Park way from 55th street north to 35th street.

Two downpours of rain failed to dampen the ardor of the spectators or the parade participants. The crowd was so dense that the main drive of South Park way and the parallel boulevards were closed to traffic.

Bugle Corps Leads Parade.

The drum and bugle corps of the George L. Giles post, American Legion, led the parade. A unit of colored Boy Scouts followed. Next in line were a brigade of uniformed colored Phythians, a band led by a drum major attired all in white, and floats.

Another south side night event was the grand Jubilee ball at the Trianon ballroom, 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue. The Wayne King and Coon-Sanders orchestras were on the program.

Business Men Meet.

More than 300 business men and south side political office holders gathered last night at a dinner at the Shoreland hotel under the auspices of the Engelwood and other south side business associations. The dinner was arranged as a Jubilee celebration.

Earlier in the day a baby parade was held on the far south side, under auspices of the Roseland Women's club, of which Mrs. J. B. Simson is president. It was held for one block at 112th street and Edbrooke avenue.

PLAN COMMISSION LISTS CITY'S DEEDS; TRANSIT IS FIRST

In the annual report of the Chicago Plan commission for 1930, which was issued yesterday, the transit settlement is listed as the outstanding Chicago accomplishment of last year. While the commission as an organization took no official part, the report states that all the Chicago members of the citizens' transit committee appointed by Federal Judge Wilkerson were officials of the plan commission.

Another accomplishment of 1930 was the legal completion of the straightening of the south branch of the river between Polk and 18th streets.

Between June 1 and Dec. 31, 1930, 2,323,133 persons had visited the Shedd aquarium, which was officially opened on May 30 last year.

The report lists the progress of work on various street widenings and improvements and the bond issues approved by the voters for new bridges at State street and South Halsted street. The contract for the completion of Ogden avenue across Goose Island, the report notes, was let on Dec. 27, 1930.

100,000 French Textile Workers Go on Strike

LILLE, France, May 18.—(AP)—One hundred thousand textile workers went on strike today because their pay had been cut 3 to 4 per cent to cover social insurance. About one-fourth of the workers in the Lille region stayed on the job.

BRITAIN TO PRAY FOR PROSPERITY WITH 23D PSALM

LONDON, May 18.—(AP)—The Twenty-third psalm, which begins "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want," is to be Britain's prayer for the return of prosperity.

Its use in churches and chapels on "Empire day," May 24, is urged in a letter to clergymen signed by the archbishops of York and Armagh, eleven bishops of the Church of England, and leaders of Protestant churches in England and Wales.

Listeners to the British Broadcasting company's "silent fellowship hour" are asked to repeat the psalm daily for three months.

North Shore Pk. Board Meets; All Is Peaceful

Minus disturbances, members of the North Shore Park district met last night in regular session in the board offices at 1111 Farwell avenue. Two policemen from the Rogers Park station, and several district blue coats were on hand to prevent a repetition of the trouble which marked last week's meeting. Tacit victory apparently was conceded to Patrick C. Winn and Thomas F. Meyers Jr., whose election April 7 was disputed as illegal by James P. Ward and Frederick H. Chetlain, whom they succeeded. Winn and Myers occupied their chairs as President Howard P. Savage presided.

BANKERS TOLD COUNTY IS NEAR TO BANKRUPTCY

But They Offer No Remedy for Ills.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

"The Cook county government is on the verge of bankruptcy," said A. J. O'Connor, deputy county controller, yesterday afternoon to fifteen bankers who attended County Treasurer McDonough's conference on the financial difficulties of the local governments.

"So," went on O'Connor, "our debt is smaller in proportion to wealth than any of the important counties of the nation."

"If something is not done soon, the public schools in the southern section of the county will have to close," asserted Horace Holmes, president of the First National bank of Dolton.

Banks Cannot Loan More.

"We have loaned money to keep the schools open until the state bank examiner says we are violating the law," said G. A. Stevenson, president of the Bank of Harvey. "Our revenue system is in a chaotic condition, and the banks cannot put up more money for the schools."

"The county board cannot get money to operate more than a month longer without something snapping," added Deputy Controller O'Connor. "We cannot now pay creditors who want the money to pay their taxes."

These were typical expressions of the difficulties in local governmental finance. McDonough called the bankers together primarily to notify them formally of the shortage in tax collections so that they might suggest a way out. On the county's aggregate 1930 tax levy of $276,161,268, a total of $153,000,547 had been paid up to the penalty date of May 15. That is a collection of about 55 per cent.

Of the 1931 tax bill totaling $232,-[illegible], due last July, $164,226,130 was paid before the penalty date, or about 70 per cent.

Tax valuations for the 1930 taxes have not yet been decided by the board of assessors and no work has been started on the 1931 assessment. There is about $264,000,000 in tax collection warrants outstanding, part of the 1929 taxes and the remainder on the 1930 taxes; and the local governments are attempting, in addition to sell 1931 tax warrants. The bankers will not buy because they claim there is "no sincere effort to collect and collect taxes at present in force."

Consequently they argue it is hazardous to estimate how much in 1931 warrants may safely be issued and when they will be payable when they will be.

The bankers offered nothing whatever in the way of a remedy. Alfred Austrian, attorney for the Continental bank, acted as spokesman. He placed the blame for the condition on the impossibility for a remedy due to the politicians of influence.

Up to Officials.

"It is up to Austrian, referring to financial and political leaders. "They have the studies of the situation, you know the facts, why isn't a plan put in formulate a plan and get it through? You have the power."

But a banker present voiced any opinion to putting the baby on the lap of the political leaders. Joseph E. Otis of the Central Trust company of Illinois, Harold V. Amberg of the First National bank, A. J. Stillwell of the Continental Illinois, Earle H. Hoyle of the People's Trust and Savings, Frank R. Elliott of the Harris Trust and Savings, Henry S. Henshaw of the Chicago Bank of Commerce, John W. O'Leary of the National Bank of the Republic, Daniel J. Hoffe of the Union Bank of Chicago, and Harold Foreman of the Foreman State National bank were among others present.

Tells Troubles of County.

"We have argued at length to get a plan for tax anticipation warrants for the county government," said Mr. [illegible]. "Mr. O'Connor is the best one on the county needs in the whole county. We listened to him tell that same speech two years ago of the Continental Illinois bank put about $2,000,000 in salaries of many employes. In return all we have got being able to get is a judgment. Years later he told the story how he had to put up $1,000,000 to pay the salaries at the county hospital. The only promised return of our money when the first taxes came in, for all we have is a judgment. How much more do you think we can put up?

"It would take $600,000,000 to put all of the local governments on a cash basis.

"Then you ask that we buy the 1931 tax warrants. You present the 1929 tax collections to date, from which it seems probable that 30 per cent will not be collected at all. You tell us that real estate has depreciated 35 per cent, which means a lower valuation for 1931.

Taxes Depreciate 65 Per Cent.

"In effect, what you are saying is that the 1931 taxes will be depreciated 65 per cent, and at the same time you are proposing to issue in tax anticipation warrants 75 per cent of that tax levy.

"The bankers came over to see what you had to offer. Why don't you lead the way out? If the bankers proposed a plan, certain individuals at once would begin to attack it, just because it was a bankers' plan.

"Let me suggest one thing to you. You will not get anywhere by attempting at one swing of the arm to reconstruct the entire taxing machinery. If you attempt to do so it will be four years before you collect taxes. It took you two years to revamp the real estate valuations. It would take you a year to revise the personal property system.

Must Not Increase Burden.

"Stop trying to reform the entire community. Sit down at a long table and work out a feasible plan to get revenue.

"Let me make another observation. If you work out a plan that will work it must be a plan to get revenue without placing any more burden on the present taxpayers.

"But the county cannot function unless it can sell tax warrants," interposed O'Connor.

"What's the use of talking?" retorted Austrian. "You do not collect 20 per cent of the taxes levied and predict that tax valuations will be decreased a billion dollars for 1931, a shrinkage of 65 per cent, and yet you want to borrow 75 per cent of your 1931 tax levy."

"If you would pay this $153,000,000 already collected to the city, schools, and other governments," suggested Vice President Elliott of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, "they could pay off some of their tax warrants outstanding. As I hurriedly reckon it, you now have enough in taxes to pay 72 per cent of the 1929 tax warrants."

"We have been advancing some money," replied County Treasurer McDonough, "$23,000,000 to the city as an illustration, and we will distribute the remainder as soon as we can make the distribution."

The county treasurer promised to compile data showing the taxing delinquencies by areas of the city and other data.

CERMAK SPEAKS ON FISCAL WOES AT ANNIVERSARY FETE

Mayor Cermak was one of the 400 guests who last night attended the thirty-second wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Wallace in the Belden-Stratford hotel. The mayor made some remarks on the city's critical finances.

"They are so bad," said the mayor, "that I wish the newspapers would stop talking about the subject until we find the way out. Of course, there must be legislation, but one group wants one thing and another group something else. There is no agreement. Then there must be a decisive cut in expenses. In the city we are trimming now more than we have advertised."

HIGHEST BIDDER WINS APPRAISAL FOR COUNTY JOB

The roads and bridges committee of the county board yesterday voted to award to the high bidder the contract for appraisal work on property to be acquired by the board during the remainder of 1931. The successful bidder was Hartnett, Morrison & Grose, appraisal experts, who asked for a commission of two and one-quarter per cent of the value of the property appraised.

Although there were three other bidders, all of whose bids were lower, the commissioners took the view that they were contracting for the hire of employes and that they were not bound to give the work to the lowest bidder. The winning bidder has saved the county hundreds of thousands of dollars by its appraisals, it was argued, and has been consistently successful in defending its appraisals in the courts.

Bids for the printing of 75,000 county road maps were rejected upon the motion of Commissioner Mary McEnerney, a labor union representative, who declared that the low bidder, Rand, McNally & Co., should not be awarded the contract because it employs nonunion women workers.

PEACE RALLY ENDS IN QUARRELS AND HISSES; GERARD VS. DR. HOLMES

New York, May 18.—(AP)—A meeting in the interest of international peace and understanding broke up in an uproar tonight following a dispute between James W. Gerard, the chairman, and Dr. John Haynes Holmes over a resolution Holmes introduced denouncing plans for army air games over New York next Saturday.

Before the resolution could be put to a vote, Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, arose and said he refused to put the motion, on the ground that it was out of order.

Din from the audience became deafening. Gerard was hissed when he shouted he was sorry those present doubted the government would not use its military forces in an aggressive war.

Some one shouted an indorsement of soviet Russia. Gerard told him to go back there, referring to Russia as a "nation of murderers that has destroyed religion."

After more confusion, Gerard turned his back on the audience, turned to Dr. Holmes and said, "I enjoyed your speech." Then he left.

PROPOSE NEW LICENSE LAWS TO FINANCE CITY

Revision of the license laws to give the city more licensing powers and additional revenue was proposed yesterday by the city revenue commission, headed by Ald. T. F. Moran [15th]. The commission is urging the introduction of bills similar to those passed by the legislature in 1923 and vetoed by the governor and which failed to pass in 1925.

The action was taken by the commission after Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch told of the mayor's plan to increase revenue. He pointed out that some industries are being given special inspection and other service without license requirements.

DOCTOR SEEKS CUT IN ALIMONY TO FIRST WIFE

Dr. William E. Hewitt, obstetrician with offices at 122 South Michigan avenue, yesterday presented his case before Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort for a reduction in the $150 a month alimony payments ordered by court for his first wife, Mrs. Ada Hewitt, 7234 Coles avenue. At the same time the former wife, through Attorney Benjamin B. Davis of the law firm of Socrates & Davis, asked that the doctor be cited for contempt of court for failure to pay $1,500 in alimony.

The doctor, a former University of Chicago athlete, said his income was not sufficient to pay the alimony.

PRIVATE CLAIMS TO LAKE ZURICH BACKED BY JUDGE

Decision May Bar Public from Many Lakes.

Private ownership of Lake Zurich was upheld, in effect, late yesterday in a ruling by Judge Edward D. Shurtleff, sitting in the Circuit court of Lake county at Waukegon.

JUDGE SHURTLEFF.

As a result thousands of Chicagoans and others who make the lake their summer playcenter may be deprived of the privilege of swimming and boating in the lake. One hundred others who own cottages also face the same situation. If the ruling stands it is likewise possible, it is said, that it may be extended to fifty other small lakes in Lake county, which are favorite resort centers.

Judge Dismisses Complaints.

Judge Shurtleff dismissed for want of equity the bill of complaint filed by a group of fifty property owners, led by Albert J. Leonard. He also dismissed an amended bill in which the state, through State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county, was a co-complainant. The court held that the question of whether Lake Zurich is a public or private body of water should be raised by the state. Moreover, he held, it should be raised by the state alone.

By Judge Shurtleff's ruling, victory went to George and Marguerite Pearce, and August Froelich, who claim ownership of most of the lake bed. The trio contended that the lake bed, considered swampland seventy years ago, was sold to their families. They asserted they had been paying taxes on the bed. Additionally they declared Lake Zurich was not included as a navigable body of water in a federal survey."

Sustains Earlier Ruling.

The court decision sustained the previous findings of Judge Ralph J. Dady, at the time a special master in chancery. Those findings held Lake Zurich to be private property, and recommended the vacating of the temporary injunction under which the use of the lake without permission of the Pearces and Froelich was allowed. Judge Shurtleff, however, extended the injunction twenty days to allow the state's attorney to determine whether he would institute new proceedings. At the same time he deferred signing his decree. It will be signed this week, as of yesterday, however.

The Lake Zurich contest started two years ago when two girls were arrested for sailing on the lake.

20 POUNDS OF IRISH TERRIER FLEES FROM WHITE HOUSE YARD

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—There's at least one Irish terrier that does not care for the freedom of the White House grounds.

He is Terry, 20 pound, rough coated lump of canine independence. Mrs. Hoover tonight reported through a White House policeman that Terry, green collar and all, was missing.

Police of course, are looking, but they expect Terry home "on his own" before they find him.

REVEALS SCHEME FOR TRAIN WITH 223 MILE SPEED

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, May 18.—After thirty years' experiments Prof. K. Wiesinger of the Zurich Polytechi has revealed to engineers his audacious but reliable project of an ultra rapid train consisting of coaches built of light aluminum, driven by propellers with a speed of 360 kilometers [223.560 miles] an hour.

The weight of the coach would be reduced from twenty tons to three tons. The wheels are not set vertically but are inclined at 30 degrees to be stable against derailment. These two innovations, coupled with propulsion by propellers, enable the train to attain its high speeds.

New railroads would have to be built. The only difficulty at present, it is said, is the absence of financial backing.

GANGSTER GETS JURY TRIAL, BUT IT'S A MISTAKE

James Balcastro, gangster and public enemy, known to the police as king of the bombers, was yesterday granted a jury trial over his protest when he was arraigned on a vagrancy charge before Judge Francis Borrelli.

"Your attorney, Roland Libonati, requested the jury trial," Judge Borrelli explained.

"I don't want a jury trial," Balcastro stormed. "I want to be tried by you."

Investigation brought out that Attorney Albert Filetti, associated with Libonati, had requested a continuance to Saturday because Libonati is in Springfield. The jury order was changed to a continuance.

BRITISH ACCUSE THREE MORE IN FACTOR SWINDLE

Police Hunt Ex-Barber in Gang Haunts Here.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 18.—The work of cleaning up the swindling and fake stock manipulations of John ("Jake the Barber") Factor of Chicago advanced this morning when Burnet Leon Elman, a lawyer; John Spellen, a newspaper man, and Fred K. Newbury were charged with conspiracy, along with Factor, Arthur J. Klein, and others, to defraud the public through the notorious Broad Street Press, Ltd.

The accused pleaded not guilty, but much evidence was taken to show the shady activities of the Broad Street Press, and more than 600 exhibits were gathered for the use of the prosecution in the trial. It is understood that this is the case for which the British authorities are asking the extradition of Factor, who is being sought by American federal agents following the arrest of Klein and Harry Geen, alias Gallow.

The Broad Street Press case has been proceeding since last November. According to the prosecution, the concern was nothing but Factor's share pushing enterprise, which obtained hundreds of thousands of dollars from investors by foisting alleged worthless shares on them.

Keeping Ahead of the Law.

Factor left England in October for California after cleaning up, according to his own statement, $7,500,000 and establishing a trust fund of $5,000,000. During the years he worked here he always kept within the law or one jump ahead of the police. Before he "retired" in October, he had left the country several times with Scotland Yard operatives a few steps behind him.

According to a story published in the Daily Mail on Jan. 17, one of the reasons for Factor's retirement was Jack [Legs] Diamond, New York gang chief. According to the report, Diamond tried to enter England last August for a business transaction with Factor, but was refused entry as an undesirable.

In the old days, before Factor made millions from country clergymen, doctors, and widows in England, he had a partnership with Diamond in New York. The Factor-Diamond shady enterprises included, it is said, a small fake stock promotion venture which brought a profit of $150,000 after a few months. In 1928 Factor skipped to London with the money, and that was the last Diamond saw of him. Diamond was angry, and when he heard that Factor had met success in England he decided he would take a cut in it. He communicated from New York, but mail negotiations were unsuccessful, so he decided to visit Factor personally.

$250,000 Sought by Diamond.

Diamond felt that since he had helped Factor get a start he ought to have a share in his wealth, and is said to have decided to ask for $250,000.

Although Factor was probably glad to see Diamond barred from England by the Scotland Yard police at Southampton, there is no evidence that he influenced the authorities to refuse to admit the gangster. But the episode caused Factor to decide that his business was getting ticklish from several angles, so he quit and went back to America. It is said that Factor's last big raid on the British public was made in 1929.

The campaign against Factor and other white collar bandits dates back to 1926, although Factor was active before then. In March, 1926, the Daily Mail reported that the gang had been broken up and that Factor had skipped to Monte Carlo. It was alleged then that he pushed the British Associated Oil company, selling $1,000,000 worth of shares throughout the country.

SEARCH GANG HAUNTS

Convinced that John [Jake the Barber] Factor is still lurking in Chicago, police and federal agents set out last night on a tour of gangster haunts in search of the former Halsted street hair cutter, whose extradition the British government is demanding on a charge that he fleeced several hundred British subjects out of at least $5,000,000.

The raiders, acting under orders of W. A. McSwain, chief of the Chicago bureau of the department of justice, maintained strict secrecy concerning the resorts they planned to enter. The party, comprising a detective bureau squad, two department of justice operatives, and a deputy marshal, was led by Police Lieut. Frank Johnson.

While Mr. McSwain and Lieut. Johnson refused even to admit that the raids were in prospect, the report became current in the federal building that the search would lead to now quiet north side haunts of the George [Bugs] Moran gang, whose crony Factor is reputed to have been when he was a speculative shark in the Florida land boom. Factor's 11 room apartment at 20 East Cedar street and his place at 5042 Quincy street remain under surveillance.

It is asserted that Factor, a native of Poland, and an American resident for most of his life, is actually a British subject, having procured citizenship papers in London.

Factor's troubles increased yesterday when Robert E. Neely, acting collector of internal revenue here, announced that his agents were investigating Factor's stock trading account with Stein, Alstrin & Co. for possible evidence of income tax evasions. Records show that at no time did Factor ever file a return here. A dispatch from New York yesterday indicated the great amounts of money handled by Factor in England. It was said that his business with the North of Scotland Bank, Ltd., alone totaled more than $6,000,000 in the first ten months of 1930.

Fair Fight Extradition.

Two of Factor's alleged accomplices, Arthur J. Klein and Harry Geen, under arrest in New York and Philadelphia, respectively, have launched legal battles to resist extradition to England, according to dispatches.

As in Factor's case here, the two eastern prisoners engaged high priced counsel. Klein was represented in New York by Max D. Steuer, reputedly one of the most skillful criminal lawyers of the city. Geen's case was continued in Philadelphia. His wife visited him in the jail there.

JURORS STUDY BANK ACCOUNTS OF POLICE HEADS

A committee of the special grand jury investigating alleged corruption in the police department met yesterday to consider the bank accounts of 41 captains, Acting Commissioner Alcock and his chief assistants, including Chief of Detectives John Norton. It was reported that the committee considered the bank accounts of three captains, which show deposits of over $100,000 each.

Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury declined to discuss the report that the three captains and other police officials have large bank accounts. They said that it is to be the policy of the jury not to make public any particular bank account until it is first decided whether the captain or official has a legitimate explanation of his wealth.

The jury as a whole is not expected to meet again before next Monday or Tuesday.

Hear Testimony Today in Third Preston Sanity Trial

Testimony in the third sanity trial of John E. Preston, Chicago decorator under sentence of death for the murder of Miss Agnes Johnson, Chicago stenographer, after a roadhouse tour eighteen months ago, is to begin today before a jury in the court of Circuit Judge Frank W. Shepherd at Wheaton. The selection of a jury was completed yesterday morning. On the eve of his electrocution last January Preston obtained a sanity hearing and was found to be insane. The verdict was set aside and a second sanity hearing was held before a mixed jury, which found him sane. This verdict was set aside.

DUNLAP HATS SEVEN DOLLARS AND MORE

TAX NET CLOSING ON CAPONE, HINT OF U. S. ATTORNEY

Johnson Tells Yearly Income of Gang.

That the government's income tax net is closing in on Al Capone was indicated—but not stated—by United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson last night in a speech before the Rogers Park Men's club. Mr. Johnson spoke for the first time in terms of dollars and cents on the total annual income of the Capone gang.

Capone's contempt of court case is expected to be disposed of in June by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and federal authorities have predicted that before he finishes six month jail term he will be indicted for tax fraud.

Tells Income of Gang.

The yearly income of the gang as learned by the government auditors was set forth by Mr. Johnson as follows: 1925, $1,717,552; 1926, $930,492; 1927, $1,787,436; 1928, $1,641,979.

The federal prosecutor called attention to the concomitant variation of the gang's receipts with the political administrations in Chicago, declaring that the hard times of 1928 were due to Mayor Dever's efforts to curb lawlessness.

"Then in 1927, when the policy of the city was changed in this respect, the syndicate's receipts were almost doubled," said Mr. Johnson.

Many Leaders Convicted.

No mention of Capone was made, but Mr. Johnson obviously referred to the Capone syndicate, for he cited the fact that most of the leaders have been convicted and others are under investigation. Jack Gusik, Frank Nitti, Sam Guzik, and Ralph Capone, all captains in the Capone syndicate, stand convicted of income tax fraud.

Mr. Johnson declared the income tax prosecutions are effective for two reasons—they put the gangsters in prison and also tie up all their resources, for civil liability, converting the vice lords into penniless hoodlums.

Court Rules Sunday Paper Doesn't Violate Kansas Law

Abilene, Kas., May 18.—(AP)—District Judge C. M. Clark held today that distribution of newspapers on the Sabbath does not violate the Kansas "blue law." He refused to issue an injunction against a circulation agent for the Kansas City Star, ruling that the Sunday newspaper is a necessity and that the legislature of 1868 did not contemplate a ban on newspapers when it passed the Sunday labor law. State's attorneys gave notice of an appeal.

JUDGE WILL RULE SOON ON CANAL CASE VALIDITY

Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court returned to the bench yesterday after an absence of several weeks due to illness and announced that he would render a decision soon in the long delayed sanitary district graft cases. The validity of the indictments is under fire.

Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district, and nine other former officials were last indicted in May, 1930. They were previously indicted when Attorney Frank J. Loesch was special prosecutor, but the new indictments were obtained to fit new evidence uncovered by First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup. The investigation has covered more than two years of inquiry about pay roll padding and alleged graft on contracts.

Judge David heard arguments over a period of several weeks early in the year.

RICH MAN OFFERS TO GIVE THE POOR HALF HIS FORTUNE

LONDON, May 18.—(AP)—Sir Charles Trevelyan, who recently resigned as minister of education, has been challenged by a member of the Conservative party to practice what he preaches — better distribution of wealth.

Sir Charles, who inherited his father's estate at Wallington, Northumberland, and who is Labor member of parliament for Newcastle Central, issued a pamphlet recently stating that the central need of the world was more effective distribution of wealth.

Arthur Crosby, organizer of the Newcastle Central Division Conservative association announced today that a wealthy unnamed Conservative offered to give the poor half his fortune if Trevelyan would do likewise to prove his sincerity. The offer stands for a week.

DR. MICHELSON'S WORK LIKENED TO GALILEO'S

Scholars Honor Memory of Scientist.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Galileo: Born 1564; died 1642.
Michelson: Born 1852; died 1931.

Both was the spacious chronology in which great scholars yesterday assessed the significance to science of Albert Abraham Michelson's achievements.

Three hundred of the late discoverer's colleagues and followers assembled in midafternoon in Joseph Bond chapel of the University of Chicago to muse upon and to honor a career which is the glory of the university.

It was Max Mason, former president of the University of Chicago and now director for natural sciences of the Rockefeller foundation, who, in hushed tones of awe and wonder but with decisive words first coupled the names of Galileo and Michelson.

"A Notable Experiment."

"Michelson's ether drift experiment," he said, "was not notable for its complexity. It had the characteristic and the authentic simplicity of the Michelson touch, but its importance for the human mind was as great as the importance of the experiment of Galileo when he dropped the stone from the leaning tower of Pisa. It opened a new epoch in science."

The beautifully balanced nature and precision of Michelson's mind were defined by Dr. Mason in less than a score of words when he uttered this memorable sentence:

"He was no dreamer who could not act and no mere performer who could not dream."

"The Urge to Excellence."

Then, in a musing tone that still was fraught with deep tenderness and reverence, these words:

"Throughout his career, from the days at Annapolis to his triumphs in the laboratories of this university, the drive to fundamentals and to unheard of excellence were the abiding characteristics of his work. That urge to excellence was the basis of his success.

"He never left for long the single track of fundamental investigation. He always returned to the major issues.

"He laid down enduring stepping stones through the marsh of ignorance, but modesty was so essential a part of him that he would publicly credit his success to the skill and devotion of men who had worked with him.

"He performed miracles of accuracy with a skill and a grace that made Nature not alone the baffling opponent whom he overcame but in the end his fond collaborator.

Tells of Precise Mind.

"If he did, from his tennis to his discoveries in the measurement of the velocity of light, was leisurely deliberate, definite—the right thing in the right place.

"He did not separate the adverb from the verb nor the quality from its noun. The plans for Michelson's experiments could not be simplified—except by Michelson.

"While watching him at tennis you would have said that he was playing slowly, but when you considered his results you knew that he had been playing rapidly. Such was the exquisite precision of that mind in little things as well as in great."

Calm Setting for Service.

The spirit and the calm Gothic setting of this memorial service were such as would have pleased Prof. Michelson.

The spirit was intimate and that setting was serene and beautiful. Both were in harmony with a life which was quiet but which also was a life of splendor.

There was no futile grieving for he man who has departed in the fullness of years and honors. But there was tender emphasis upon the qualities—and the whims—that endeared him to four decades of teachers and students at the university.

Dean Henry Gale, chairman of the department of physics of the university, who in cooperation with Michelson determined the rigidity of the earth, touched lovingly upon the whims, saying:

"It was often Prof. Michelson's fancy to endow the machines with which he worked with a human personality—sometimes with a feminine personality—and he would say that in crises they must be coaxed and cajoled, or even threatened."

Recalls Savant's Versatility.

"A genius," said the dean, "has a mind too big to be interested in only one thing. Hence the versatility of Michelson. Hence his delicate work in water colors. Hence his brilliant game of billiards that they still talk of as far away as the Common club in Washington. Hence his proficient playing of the violin.

"His game of bridge, however, was casual. I don't think he felt that it requires a very high order of intellect to play bridge."

Dean Gale spoke of important achievements in research which the austerity of Michelson's standards made him forbear to publish.

Stresses Important Research.

"The things he did publish," the dean continued, "were of fundamental importance. They comprise seventy-five papers. They are all classics and, being such, they are his monument.

"He received all the academic honors a scholar could receive and his medals number twenty. And yet how unassuming he remained to the end.

"Asked once why he persisted in certain exacting experiments bearing on a victory already won—the determination of the velocity of light—he replied, 'Because it's such fun!' When he asked questions of Nature he kept at them until he got answers—and the answers marked epochs in science. To him research was the greatest game the human intellect can play."

Hutchins Praises Michelson.

Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the university, spoke of Prof. Michelson as "one of the great figures around which the university was built," and he epitomized his career as "representative of that spirit of free inquiry and tolerance which is the spirit of this school."

FINED AFTER GAMBLING RAID.

SUPERIOR COURT SELECTS ZINTAK AS NEW CLERK

Frank V. Zintak, 3134 West 44th street, became clerk of the Superior court yesterday. At a meeting of the judges of the court, held in the chambers of Judge Denis E. Sullivan, Zintak was unanimously elected to the clerkship. The judges at the same time accepted the resignation of M. S. Szymczak, who was elected to the office of clerk but gave it up because of his appointment by Mayor Cermak as city controller.

Clerk Zintak is the Democratic committeeman of the 12th ward. His brother, E. J. Zintak, was formerly alderman of the ward. The Democratic county central committe recommended the appointment of Zintak to the judges at the time of the acceptance by Szymczak of the city financial post.

After administering the oath of office to Mr. Zintak and approving his bond of $150,000, the judges adopted resolutions of appreciation to Mr. Szymczak "for the capable, honest and efficient manner in which he conducted his office," and expressed regrets at his giving up his clerkship. Mr. Zintak will be installed in his new position at 10 o'clock this morning in the county building.

FATAL OUTBURST BY YOUTH IS LAID TO DESPONDENCY

Upset by His Failure in Business Test.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Despondency due partly to his failure to fill a preferred place in the business world appeared today to be one of the contributing causes which led Robert S. Montgomery, socially prominent youth, to run amuck in the fashionable Club Chantecler Saturday night, killing one man and probably fatally wounding another, and then slaying himself.

Notes found in the room of the young man following his suicide disclosed that Montgomery had been greatly depressed by the feeling that he could not hope to rank as a business man with his father, Col. Robert H. Montgomery, well known socially in New York and Boston. The circumstances that the youth had failed to pass an examination to become a public accountant had preyed on his mind.

Oppressed by Failure.

On one of his letters Montgomery had penciled an admission that he could not hope to rank with his father, whom he termed a "genius."

"There's only one genius in a number of generations," he wrote. "The colonel is it. The next one can't be expected for 100 years. I've tried to live up to it. I can't. He ranks; I don't."

Another note, written to Montgomery by Dr. George D. Reynolds, a Boston physician, warned the worried young man he was in poor health and prescribed treatment for him.

Col. Montgomery, confirmed in New York today reports that he had provided financially for the family of the slain policeman, but declined to discuss the details of the arrangements.

Montgomery fired two bullets into his chest, just below the heart, after he had wounded Charles Garbett and killed Policeman Jesse L. Taylor, who had been detailed to watch the night club. The shooting followed a dispute between Montgomery and Garbett over the latter's refusal to seat him at a table next to the dance floor.

Week of Crime in Capital.

The shooting of Garbett and the policeman climaxed a week-end of crime during which five persons were slain. Talley Day, described by the police as a gunman and small time racketeer, was shot through the brain last night during a drunken brawl in a capital speakeasy.

Witnesses told police that Day and two companions had been playing cards and drinking gin bucks. A quarrel developed and Day drew a pistol and fired one shot. Before he could fire another one of his intended victims shot him dead.

SEEK TO AMEND ZONING LAW FOR GOLD COAST AREA

A proposed amendment to rezone a part of the Gold Coast district to permit the erection of buildings to a height of 198 feet instead of 132 feet was proposed yesterday to the city council committee on buildings and zoning. Action on the request was deferred until the next meeting at the request of Ald. James Waller [43d].

The property, which would be rezoned under the proposed amendment, is bounded by Astor street, Schiller street, the north and south alley just east of Astor street, and a line parallel to and 105 feet north of Schiller street. According to the communication to the committee the property now is occupied by a row of two family dwellings.

Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe [42d], chairman, appointed a subcommittee to hold public hearings jointly with a subcommittee of the state legislative committee on a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance which would change the qualifications of members of the zoning board of appeals. The amendment is sponsored by Ald. Frank J. Carr [17th].

Gunmen Bind Three Men and Rob Furniture Store

Three gunmen raided the Deimel Furniture company, 4217 West North avenue, yesterday and escaped with $240 in cash and $246 in checks. The bandits leveled guns at four employés, Miss Elizabeth Tichava, 23 years old, 2829 South Trumbull avenue; Robert J. Deimel, 1628 North Merrimac avenue; G. C. Deimel, 1128 Holley court, Oak Park, and Harry Schoendorf, 4253 North Albany avenue.

TAKE TESTIMONY ON ZONING BOARD PERMIT CHARGES

Mrs. Hamilton Accused at Hearing by Mayor.

Corporation Counsel Busch yesterday finished the submission of evidence against Mrs. Eva Holland Hamilton, chairwoman of the zoning board of appeals, in support of charges that she had been guilty of "grave abuses" of official discretion in granting variations from the zoning ordinances.

The members of the board resigned upon the request of Mayor Cermak, but Mrs. Hamilton, whose term expires in 1934, refused to quit. Under the law she can be removed only for cause and after a public hearing, the first session of which was held yesterday with Mayor Cermak presiding.

Six Witnesses Heard.

Six witnesses were called by Mr. Busch, and approximately forty exhibits submitted. It was charged that Mrs. Hamilton had voted to grant variations against the advice of members of the board's legal and technical staffs, which permitted the erection of buildings in "gross violation" of the zoning ordinance.

In his opening argument Samuel L. Golan, former assistant corporation counsel, who represented Mrs. Hamilton, made the plea that she had merely followed the practice of former zoning boards.

"Is it your contention," broke in Mayor Cermak, "that because some one else broke the law I have the right to do so?" Golan's answer was in the negative.

Charges Profit Used as Basis.

Mr. Busch contended that the board had granted variations solely because the property owners had said they could make more money. Evidence in substantiation was given by Ald. Frank Corr [17th] who for a time under the last administration was the board's legal adviser.

"On many occasions I advised the board and Mrs. Hamilton that they should not grant variations," said Ald. Corr, "but in most cases my advice wasn't followed. I called her attention particularly to the fact that the plea of financial hardship has been held by the courts as insufficient ground on which to grant variations."

Cites Cuneo Tower Case.

Ald. Corr testified that the board did not follow his legal opinion in the Cuneo tower case, in which the state Supreme court later upheld him. On cross-examination Golan asked him if Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] had not drawn the Cuneo ordinance, but Corr replied that he did not know.

Clarence Ferrier, former technical adviser to the board, testified that he had quit because the board had ignored his advice. Harry T. Frost, who assisted in drafting the zoning ordinance, said that he believed no hardship would have been placed upon the property owners in fourteen cases presented if the board had not granted requested variations.

20,000 Miners in Poland Strike Against Wage Cut

GRAPE DEALERS KICK AT WINE SUBSIDY BY U. S.

No Help for Their Trade, They Complain.

South Water street commission merchants expressed interest yesterday in the negotiations of the California grape growers for a new loan of $14,000,000 from the federal farm board. It's no secret on South Water street that grapes are grown mainly to be converted into wine. Chicago's share in the national consumption was indicated by a government report showing that 4,534 carloads of grapes were sold here in 1930. The commission men said they marketed last year's crop here at a loss.

The vineyard people of California obtained $7,000,000 in government loans in 1930 to help their business. Chicago's commission merchants complained that the only governmental help in stimulating a retail demand for grapes was in authorizing Fruit Industries, Ltd., to sell a grape concentrate which in sixty days becomes wine. Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, former assistant United States attorney general in charge of prohibition law prosecutions, is chief counsel for Fruit Industries, Ltd.

Cites Cost of Hauling Grapes.

A leading commission merchant said yesterday that the cost of bringing a carload of grapes from California to Chicago is $565, which includes a cost of $90 for refrigeration and $475 for freight. As a carload contains a minimum of 15 tons of grapes, he said, the freight cost is approximately $38 a ton. Yet, despite this freight charge, grapes sold as low as $25 a ton at certain times when the market was glutted last year. The highest price obtained was given as 4½ cents a pound, or $90 a ton.

One home wine maker said a ton of grapes will make on an average about 2½ barrels of wine, or 125 gallons. Taking the home wine maker's estimate there were about 2,000,000 gallons of wine made in Chicago last year—exclusive of the kind made legally from the product of the concern represented by Mrs. Willebrandt.

Explains Wine Decrease.

Yet this figure was a falling off from previous years, a merchant explained, and he told why.

"People were told a few years ago it was legal to make wine for home consumption and 200 gallons a year was a reasonable amount," he said. "Families joined in buying a consignment of grapes, and policemen, going by, would see them delivered. Later, when the grapes had been made into wine, the police would call and make threats of calling in the government. The police discouraged the home wine maker, but it is our hope now that Mayor Cermak will keep the police from bothering the home wine maker.

"The poor man had his troubles with his home made wine, but not so the well to do. When Mrs. Willebrandt left the attorney general's office she had her plan, which the government speedily declared legal, of putting wine in the cellars of the more affluent. That's common now, and so is the sale in drug store of sherry, port and tokay wines, alias tonics, with an alcoholic content of 'not over 22 per cent.'"

Costs for Home Wine.

The South Water street information put the average cost of home made wine at 60 cents a gallon. Another source put it at 90 cents a gallon. The price for the wine Mrs. Willebrandt defends is now $16 for a five gallon keg, demijohns furnished, with filtration and jugging included. The drug store "23 per cent wine" sells at $1.50 for one-fifth gallon.

One customer of Fruit Industries, Ltd., said he bought three kegs and was told to keep them in his basement sixty days without touching them while they fermented. On the sixtieth day a representative of the company called, filtered the wine three or four times, then tested it and invited the purchaser to have a drink "fit for a king"—and it was, he said.

"At a salesmen's pep meeting we had today we were told we are now working for the government and we can tell our customers just that," the wine agent said, according to the purchaser.

Little Sold in Speakeasies.

An inquiry brought replies yesterday to the effect that few speakeasies in Chicago sell wine. It was reported those who do, say it costs them $4 to $6 a gallon and they can't make money selling it at 25 cents a drink and that the public objects to paying 35 cents.

Few bootleggers make their own wine or handle any one else's according to available information. Home made wine and the Willebrandt variety, it is said, have ruined the wine market for the bootlegger.

WESTERN GRAPE MAN IS IN CAPITAL FOR A LOAN OF $14,000,000

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—Ralph Merritt, representative of the California grape control board, arrived here today to conclude negotiations with the farm board for a loan to be used in controlling and marketing the 1931 raisin-grape crop.

The control board's plan calls for a loan of $14,000,000. It includes withdrawal of the 1930 carry-over of raisins from competition with this year's production; formation of a surplus pool, and purchase of 100,000 tons of fresh grapes for conversion into by-products by Fruit Industries, Limited, a cooperative. Some features of the plan have been submitted to the farm board and are understood to have met with favor.

Last year the control board instituted a plan to withhold from the market a percentage of the grapes and collect from those who marketed enough to compensate those who allowed their grapes to remain on the vines. Some difficulty was experienced in collecting from grapes as prices fell.

U. S. WILL GO TO ARMS PARLEY IN SKEPTICAL VEIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—The world arms reduction parley to be held under the auspices of the league of nations next February was the subject of conferences today between President Hoover and Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium. Mr. Gibson, who is this country's most experienced arms limitation diplomat, will confer tomorrow with Secretary of State Stimson and the army, navy, and state department officials who are preparing for American participation in the conference.

Although the White House discussions were not made public, it was learned that the prospects for any real success in arms reduction at the Geneva conference are not considered bright. The failure of the French, Italians, and British to get together during recent discussions of naval limitation has aroused the feeling here that nothing definite along this line will be accomplished.

Both the army and navy are opposed to adoption of the principle of limitation of national defenses by budgets as favored by many European nations.

No one anticipates that any European nation will be willing to cut its military strength to a point where this country's army would be affected, but it is probable a strong effort will be made to force this country to accept reductions in its naval and army air arms.

RUSSIA DEMANDS FINLAND CEASE HOSTILE ATTACKS

MOSCOW, May 18.—(AP)—A charge that hostile propaganda against Russia has been circulated in Finland was made tonight in a strong note to the Finnish envoy at Moscow by Deputy Foreign Commissar Krestinsky.

Krestinsky held the Finnish government responsible for the effect of the propaganda on the relations between the two countries.

The note cited as an instance that the Finnish government failed to prevent a repetition of the demonstrations against the soviet legation at Helsingfors.

said tariff barriers were largely to blame for the high prices.

"The fact that there was a 45 per cent reduction in the price of wheat from March, 1929, to March, 1931, on the London market, while on the Berlin market there was a 28 per cent rise and on the Paris market a 13 per cent rise, despite the acute agrarian crisis, shows that such a policy can only curtail the already low purchasing power of the masses."

Litvinov tore the French plan for economic reorganization to pieces. He said Briand's scheme for industrial cartels would only make matters worse by "keeping up price levels in the face of overproduction," whereas mitigation of the crisis calls for precisely opposite proposals.

Since Litvinov had begun by stating that Russia felt but a slight repercussion of the economic crisis in the rest of the world, which she herself has escaped, some of the delegates were beginning to wonder why the bolsheviks are so upset about the capitalistic troubles. Litvinov explained it by this piece of logic:

"I do not want to give the impression that there is harmony of interest between the capitalistic and soviet systems," he said. "The two systems are struggling and will continue to struggle with each other. The question is whether this struggle will be allowed to follow a natural process or whether both systems will recourse from day to day to mutually hostile measures which can have no decisive influence on the outcome of the struggle."

Customs Pact to World Court.

Although forced to yield to French and British pressure by consenting that the proposed Austro-German customs accord be submitted to the world court for a judgment as to its legality, Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, and Johann Schober, Austrian vice chancellor, succeeded in strengthening their position considerably at the league of nations council meeting this morning.

"Austria's independence would be in question if, by far reaching interpretation of the protocol of 1922, Austria would be deprived of freedom of action," Herr Schober declared.

Curtius Demands Equality.

Dr. Curtius also accepted the British resolution. He declared:

"We accept the British proposition because we consider it inadmissible to discuss here the question of whether this customs union disturbs the tranquility or peace of Europe. Where would we be if the council, after having settled the juridical aspect of economic conventions, attacks them because of disadvantages to certain powers. Such procedure would be equivalent to saying that Austria and Germany do not possess equal standing with other members of the league of nations."

This put the French in a weak position, for the Germans are convinced that the accord cannot be attacked on legal grounds, and once The Hague court approves the scheme the council will be powerless to stop its consummation.

MACDONALD REFUSES DEMAND TO BREAK RUSSIAN RELATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 18.—A demand that Great Britain break off relations with Russia because of a continuance of revolutionary propaganda within the empire, was turned down by Prime Minister MacDonald in the house of commons tonight. Although admitting that Russia has not kept her pledges, he said the government would be in no better position if diplomatic relations were ended.

"We are not going to be led by prejudice," the prime minister said.

The debate was initiated by Sir Austen Chamberlain, who charged that the Labor government has allowed the soviets to ignore and flaunt the solemn warning given by Britain when relations were renewed.

BODY OF BOSTON RUBBER MAGNATE FOUND IN QUEBEC

Skowhegan, Me., May 18.—(AP)—Sheriff Elton L. Markham of Somerset county tonight said he had received word from James Murtha, guide in charge of a search for Mitchell B. Kaufman of Boston, missing president of the Converse Rubber company, that Kaufman's body had been found near St. Theophile, Que., two miles over the international border and nine miles from Crocker pond, where the manufacturer was last seen alive by members of his hunting party Nov. 5.

The manufacturers' relatives offered a $10,000 reward for the finding of Kaufman or his body. A search was reopened about three weeks ago, and Murtha, a professional woodsman of Jackman, was hired to direct it.

Would You Throw Away Two New Dresses?

THAT'S just what many Chicago women are doing. They're not taking the dresses and throwing them away. But they let the cash value of those dresses go to waste. Furniture, radios, vacuum cleaners—still good, but discarded—clutter up your home and pay nothing back.

You may be one of these women. Why not get cash value for the unused furnishings you have? Other women may jump at the chance to buy them. All you have to do is tell them about your goods—and Tribune Want Ads make this easy.

The Surest and Quickest Way to Sell

The Tribune goes into scores of homes right in your own neighborhood—into hundreds of thousands throughout the city and suburbs. It reaches people who will be interested in buying what you have to sell—132,000 more families daily and 182,000 more on Sunday than any other Chicago newspaper.

With hundreds of thousands of readers, the Tribune is the easiest and surest way to sell through want ads.

RAIL ATTORNEY SAYS CITY NEEDS MORE SMOKE

Claims Heavy Pall Means a Lot of Jobs.

Spokesmen for the Chicago railroads told the Thon legislative committee yesterday that the railroads cannot and will not electrify their lines and terminals within the city, at least for a long time.

A. L. FLANNIGEN. [Tribune Photo.]

"What we need, President McKinley once said, is more smoke," John L. Flannigen, leader of a group of railroad representatives, declared. "More smoke in Chicago would mean more bread baskets. You can't get rid of all of it without shutting down the town."

Another Hearing Next Week.

The outburst of plain talking by the railroad men climaxed the second hearing by the committee on a bill by Representative Harris B. Gaines [Rep., Chicago] to compel the railroads to electrify before Jan. 1, 1935. The committee decided to hold another hearing next Monday and act on the bill despite the statements of the railroad men that the bill is "useless."

Dr. Frederick O. Tonney, director of laboratories and research of the city health department, was scheduled to be the principal witness. He presented data to prove that the smoke pall, created in part by steam locomotives, is a menace to public health. Mr. Flannigen obtained the floor when Dr. Tonney finished.

"Why waste time going on with these hearings?" he asked. "How are you going to run the city without smoke? There is no reason in the world for this bill. You can't force the railroads with fool legislation to do something that can't be done. We don't want any such law as this. We think it would be foolish."

"Can't Be Done," Claim.

Representative William G. Thon [Rep., Chicago], chairman of the committee, wanted to know how terminal electrification was brought about in Cleveland.

"It is an entirely different proposition there," replied Flannigen. "That is a passenger terminal and only two or three railroads use it. We and 31 railroads here. If you're going to start out on a general plan of electrification you're getting into something that can't be done."

"We have been told that air rights development would pay for electrification," commented Representative Thon.

Flannigen replied that there has been "a good deal of foolish talk about that." Air rights, he admitted, have been of some value to the Illinois Central and North Western, but the Rock Island, C. & E. I., and other roads "couldn't sell a dime's worth of air rights." He added that "it is child's talk about air rights paying for electrification of all the railroads in the city."

"Find Other Smoke First."

During the last few years, Flannigen continued, the railroads have fully cooperated with the city smoke abatement authorities. Steady improvements have been made in locomotives, he said. He argued further that locomotives produce less than one-third of the city's smoke and elimination of the other two-thirds should come first.

Mr. Flannigen is attorney for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. He appeared at the hearing, however, in the capacity of spokesman for a committee composed of the legal advisers of all of the railroads in Illinois.

W. D. Beck, representing the American Railway association, told the committee that passage of the Gaines bill would force all of the railroads to immediately start on electrification plans and that this would upset the plans of the city to bring about unification of the south side terminals.

Others Asked to Be Heard.

Two other railroad spokesmen were present and asked to be heard at the next meeting. They are Samuel H. Cady, general solicitor for the North Western, and J. J. Siegfreid, representing the Chicago and Alton.

Chairman Thon announced that the railroad men would be given all the time they need to present their views at the hearing next Monday. Thereafter, he said, the committee will decide what to do with the bill.

Dr. Tonney treated the smoke nuisance entirely from the health point of view. Chicago and other large cities, he said, have had three major health problems—water, milk, and air pollution. He pointed out that chrolination and pasteurization have solved the first two but that air pollution remains unsolved.

Visit Smoke Station.

Dr. Tonney explained the results of recent experiments in several cities to test the effect of smoke upon public health. One of these was a survey showing 9 per cent of the school children of Chicago to be affected by rickets caused by a lack of ultra-violet rays. Tests made at Cornell university, he said, proved sunshine to be a deterrent to common colds while other tests have shown it to be beneficial in preventing and treating tuberculosis.

Following the hearing members of the committee visited the health department's smoke observation station on the top of the Foreman bank building where they viewed the pall of soot and cinders hanging over the city.

Quigley Wins Delay on Gang Slaying Charge

James L. Quigley, an alleged leader of the "Spike" O'Donnell gang, won a continuance yesterday on his arraignment before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court on the charge of murdering Edward Fitzgerald, a member of the McErlane gang. Attorney James Burke, representing Quigley, told the judge he could produce witnesses to establish an alibi for his client. The judge continued the case until May 26, but refused to allow Quigley bail.

OFFICIAL SEIZED FOR MAIL THEFT IN MILWAUKEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 18.—[Special.]—Herman C. Pietsch, 51, first assistant postmaster of Milwaukee and a federal employe here for 30 years, late today was arrested by postal inspectors, charged with stealing money from the mails and destroying letters.

R. M. Bates, postal inspector, said Pietsch, after being taken into custody, confessed to rifling the mails at various times since two weeks before last Christmas.

When he was arrested in his office three envelopes he had just opened were on the desk before him, the inspector said.

News of his arrest shocked the postoffice. Pietsch had held positions of trust for years. He was a bachelor, living with a brother at 6415 Grand avenue, Wauwatosa, and was known to be in comfortable financial circumstances. His position as assistant postmaster paid him $4,300 a year.

"I don't know why I did it," Inspector Bates quoted Pietsch as saying. "Something seemed to impel me to take the money. It was too great a temptation. I'd do it for a few weeks and then stop when I came to a realization of the act. Then I'd start again."

Pietsch could place no estimate on the amount he stole. He seemed dazed when the postal inspectors walked in his office and notified him he was under arrest. Because he was so near to collapse, inspectors did not question him on mail thefts extending back several years.

SUPREME COURT O. K.'S LEGALITY OF HOOVER DAM

Rules Arizona Has No Right to Object.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—The act of congress authorizing construction of the $165,000,000 Boulder dam across the Colorado river was held constitutional today in a unanimous decision of the United States Supreme court. The bill of complaint of the state of Arizona was dismissed. The dam recently was rechristened Hoover dam.

Work on the dam, which already was begun despite protests that to do so was to jeopardize large sums of the taxpayers' money, will continue.

Dismissal of Arizona's suit, however, was without prejudice, thus giving the state the right to make further appeals should its rights be impaired. The court declared that Arizona had shown that it might be injured by the distribution of the water from the reservoir.

Arizona Has No Right to Object.

In its decision the court held that Arizona had no right to object to the project provided the federal government was performing a proper federal function.

To Arizona's contention that the stated purpose of the act, to improve the navigable facilities of the river, was "a mere subterfuge and false pretense," the Supreme court replied:

"Into the motives which induced members of congress to enact the Boulder cañon project act, this court may not inquire. The act declares that the authority to construct the dam and reservoir is conferred, among other things, for the purpose of 'improving navigation and regulating the flow of the river.' As the river is navigable and the means which the act provides are not unrelated to the control of navigation, the erection and maintenance of such dam and reservoir are clearly within the powers conferred upon congress.

Not for Court to Decide.

"Whether the particular structures proposed are reasonably necessary is not for this court to determine. And the fact that purposes other than navigation also will be served could not invalidate the exercise of the authority conferred, even if those other purposes would not alone have justified an exercise of congressional power."

Referring to Arizona's claims that she will be unable to obtain additional water unless terms of the states' compact are complied with and her rights are jeopardized in the project, the opinion continued:

"This contention cannot prevail because it is based not on any actual or threatened impairment of Arizona's rights, but upon assumed potential invasions. The act does not purport to affect any legal right of the state, or to limit in any way the exercise of its legal right to appropriate any of the unappropriated 9,000,000 acre feet which may flow within or on its border. On the contrary, section 18 specifically declares that nothing therein 'shall be construed as interfering with such rights as the states now have, either to the waters within their borders or to adopt such policies and enact such laws as they may deem necessary within and respect to the appropriation, control and use of water within their borders, except as modified by interstate agreement.' As Arizona has made no such agreement the act leaves its legal rights unimpaired."

RAID SALOONS, CLUBS NEAR HOOVER DAM; 90 MEN, WOMEN JAILED

Las Vegas, Nev., May 18.—(AP)—Fifty federal prohibition agents invaded speakeasies, roadhouses and breweries here today, arresting ninety man and women in an avowed drive to cleanup the gateway to the site of the proposed Hoover dam.

By nightfall the raiders had cleaned out every known rendesvous for liquor seekers within an eight mile radius. Twenty-five night clubs and speakeasies, five breweries and three stills had been closed. The city's jail was overflowing.

The officers were led by Col. George Seavers of San Francisco, who announced that "we're going to make this place safe for Hoover dam workers."

An army of laborers is employed on the dam project about 25 miles from Las Vegas.

SUPREME COURT RULES RED FLAG IS NOT SEDITION

Upsets Conviction Under California Law.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—In an opinion setting forth the distinction between legal opposition to government and actions leading to anarchy and sedition, the United States Supreme court today reversed the California court decision convicting Yetta Stromberg, 19 year old communist, of violating the state's "red flag law."

The girl was found guilty of violating the California statute which makes it a felony to "display any red flag or other device in any public place or from any building as a sign, symbol, or emblem of opposition to organized government or as an invitation or stimulus to anarchistic action, or as an aid to propaganda that is of seditious character."

She admitted running a camp school for young children where communism was taught and where the red flag was run up every day to the accompaniment of exercises in which the children saluted that flag and recited a pledge to work for the universal brotherhood of labor.

Three Clauses in Law.

Following the example of the state court the Supreme court held that there were three divisible purposes set forth in the statute. But unlike the state court, which, though doubting the constitutionality of the first clause, rested its decision on the latter two clauses, the Supreme court declared that it was impossible from the nature of the instructions given the jury in the trial court to say under which clause the defendant should be convicted.

"We have no reason," said the court, "to doubt the validity of the second and third clauses of the statute as construed by the state court to relate to such incitements to violence.

One Dissenting Opinion.

"The question is thus narrowed to that of the validity of the first clause, that is with respect to the display of the flag 'as a sign, symbol, or emblem of opposition to organized government,' and the construction which the state court has placed upon this clause removes every element of doubt. The state court recognized the indefiniteness or ambiguity of the clause. The court considered that it might be construed as embracing conduct which the state could not constitutionally prohibit."

The court pointed out that the clause "might be construed to include the peaceful and orderly opposition to a government as organized and controlled by one political party by those of another political party equally high minded and patriotic which did not agree with the one in power. It might also be construed to include peaceful and orderly opposition to government by legal means and within constitutional limitations."

Therefore, the court declared, the clause was "repugnant to the guarantee of liberty contained in the 14th amendment." And, "the first clause of the statute, being invalid upon its face, the conviction of the appellant which so far as the record discloses may have rested upon that clause exclusively, must be set aside."

Justice Butler dissented, holding that the record affirmatively showed that appellant was not convicted for violation of the first clause.

Justice McReynolds held that as the petitioner was charged with violating all the inhibitions of the statute, some of which were certainly good, the conviction could not be upset even if one paragraph were invalid.

FREE MURDER CASE SUSPECTS.

Frank McKnight, 20 years old, 2151 South Leavitt street, and Martin Buckstahler, 34 years old, 7702 48th place, Lyons, held as suspects in the murder of Antone Bandon, an alcohol dealer, who was found dead April 8, were freed yesterday by Judge Francis Borelli in the South State street court.

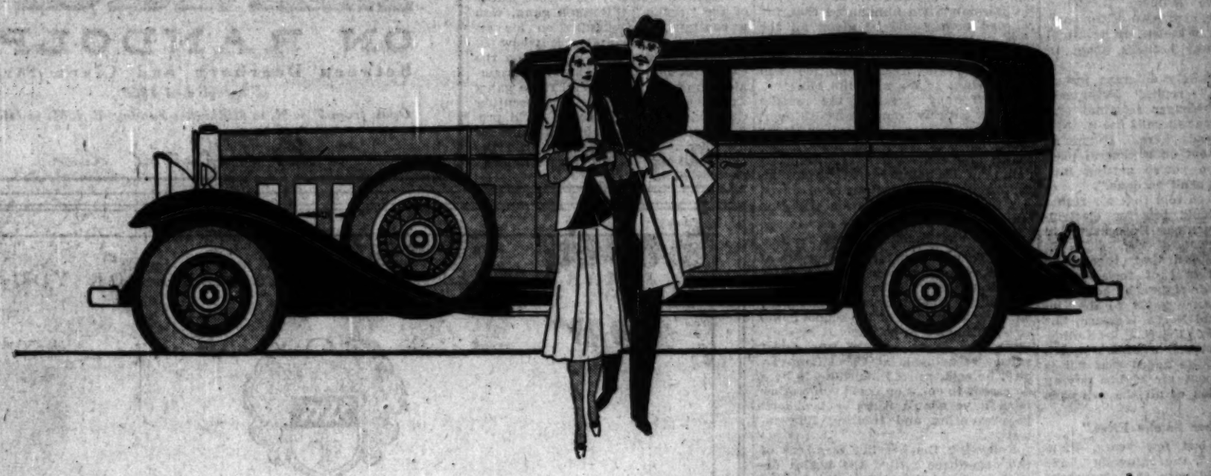
CADILLAC V-12



Have you ever driven a 12-Cylinder Car?

The one fundamentally new thing in motoring is multi-cylinder performance. Unless you have experienced a demonstration of a Cadillac V-12 or V-16, you cannot appreciate what the multi-cylinder engine means to motoring luxury. In fact, it has made motoring as genuinely luxurious, from every standpoint, as any known mode of transportation. Yet, these cars do not carry the penalty of excessive price. The V-12, for instance, is priced within the immediate range of numerous conventional cars. May we send you a V-12 for an informative demonstration?

The Cadillac V-12, with Fisher and Fleetwood coachwork, ranges in price from $3795 to $4895, f. o. b. Detroit. Convenient G. M. A. C. terms are recommended.

GERMANS LAUNCH "VEST POCKET" WARSHIP TODAY

56,000 to See Ceremony at Kiel Shipyards.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KIEL, Germany, May 18.—Kiel, the cradle of Germany's imperial navy, was in an uproar tonight when most of 56,000 official delegates poured into town to witness the launching of the German republic's first armored cruiser, the 10,000 ton "vest pocket" battleship, which was built within the limits imposed on Germany by the Versailles treaty, but which has been turned into what experts term a marvel of military and technical science.

The entire city is decorated with flags and evergreens. President von Hindenburg, Chancellor Bruening and members of the government will arrive tomorrow morning and the president will christen the ship Deutschland, the same name as the flagship of the former imperial navy.

Workers in Mourning.

Instead of joy, mourning reigns at the "Deutsch werft," the former imperial wharf, because as the Deutschland nears completion joblessness nears for 3,500 men who have been employed at the wharf, and there are no other important orders in view.

One of the most striking features of the Deutschland, not stressed heretofore, is the fact that the ship's new eleven inch guns are able to fire three times the weight of ammunition of similar guns of the old build. This, coupled with the guns' range of almost 20 miles, the greater speed and ease in maneuvering, greatly increases the military value of the ship. Close to 20 anti-aircraft guns and special fog creating apparatus help protect the ship from air attack.

Able to Sail in Shallow Water.

The ship has relatively small draft, enabling her to sail in shallow waters where submarines cannot follow. At the same time her ability to sail in shallow waters increases her value for coastal defense, which is of prime importance, for the Germans want the ship to defend East Prussia, which was cut off from the motherland by the Polish corridor.

"The history of the last ten years, with the invasion and capture of Vilna by the Poles and other similar cases, shows that it is important for the nation to be able to defend her possessions, the Germans point out." Despite the league of nations, open theft of territory has not become an impossibility."

Almost all the units of the German fleet are assembled at Kiel and in the nearby Kiel canal. They will hold special maneuvers for President von Hindenburg tomorrow.

BEAUTY GOES ON TRIAL TOMORROW FOR KILLING MATE

Predict France Will Free Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, May 18.—Blond, blue eyed Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, former St. Louis beauty queen, who defended herself against the jealous fury of her husband, Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, Philadelphia theatrical magnate, with a revolver, will go on trial here for "murder with excuse of provocation" on Wednesday. This charge is equivalent to manslaughter in the United States. Conviction carries a maximum prison sentence of five years and a minimum of two years.

Judge Gasta, assisted by Judges Eyssautier and Grasiani, will conduct the trial. Morgan Farrell, American lawyer of Paris, and Louis Gassin and José Bonifacio, French attorneys, will defend the accused young mother.

As to the jurors, they will be chosen from among an assortment of citizenry which includes a dentist, a landlord, customs agent, barber, clerk, hotel man, accountant, railroad section foreman, garage man, law clerk, florist, butcher, dry goods merchant, carpenter, druggist, former process server, mason, trolley employé, shoemakers, manufacturers, contractors, jewelers, gardeners, engineers and miscellaneous business men.

Doubt She Will Be Convicted.

When Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger is brought into the courtroom many American and French friends will face her from the audience. Her case has attracted widespread sympathy, a sympathy which has grown steadily as details of her husband's jealousy have become known.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger appears to have every chance to get off. French juries are notoriously sentimental in such cases as hers and she is considered to have a good chance of getting off scot free. Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger will plead self-defense.

"If the court allows the plea of self-defense, it will mean acquittal," Maitre Bonifacio said.

Three distinct investigations, he pointed out, those of the police, of the examining magistrate and that of the coroner, all tend to confirm her story that she shot her husband while defending herself from injury.

Three Lines of Defense.

Maitre Gassin announced that he and his colleagues will make three contentions—first, that Nixon-Nirdlinger had been violently jealous ever since a certain automobile accident that took place in the United States; second, that Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger has been a good wife and mother; and third, that Nixon-Nirdlinger had been seen to attack his wife on previous occasions.

Hugo Daniels, an American friend of the Nixon-Nirdlingers, is authority for the last statement. In a deposition Daniels says he once saw Nixon-Nirdlinger, seized by uncontrollable jealousy, attack her and tear her clothing.

Other witnesses have testified to Nixon-Nirdlinger's extremely jealous nature, which some of them describe as having bordered on the pathological.

Richard Black of Atlantic City, a detective employed by Nixon-Nirdlinger to guard his theater interests, goes so far as to say: "Nixon-Nirdlinger was insane and his wife would have been justified in killing him years ago. The girl's life was in constant danger and no one knew it better than I."

Tells of Spying on Her.

Black asserts that following a certain automobile accident in Atlantic City Nixon-Nirdlinger became so jealous that he accused his wife of intimacy with every man to whom she happened to be decently civil. Black said that on Nixon-Nirdlinger's orders he had operatives trailing Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger night and day, opening her letters, tapping telephone wires and spying upon her most casual acquaintances.

"In my presence," Black said, "Nixon-Nirdlinger threatened to kill her several times. Once he attacked her with a vase and I had to protect her. When I expressed sympathy for her he accused me of double crossing him. He even had another set of detectives trailing my detectives who were trailing his wife. He once told me his wife was having an affair with a young swimming instructor at an Atlantic City hotel and demanded that I have the man bumped off."

MAIL $3,661,000 TO TEACHERS; 1ST PAY SINCE APRIL

Checks totaling $3,661,000 were mailed yesterday to give Chicago public school teachers their first pay since April 2. No arrangements have yet been made for the payment of the substitute teachers' roll, amounting to $195,000, or the civil service pay roll, amounting to $900,000. The teachers had not been paid previously since April 2. Funds for the regular pay roll were obtained from the state distributive fund and special sources.

RAIL OFFICIALS SEEK MEANS TO GREATER SAFETY

Means of further improving the safety record of American railroads, both as regards passengers and employés, and a further reduction of grade crossing accidents were considered yesterday at the eleventh annual convention of the safety section of the American Railway association which convened in the Stevens hotel.

Approximately 700 officers in charge of safety work on the railroads of the United States, Canada, and Mexico were present. H. A. Howe, claims attorney of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, presided. He said railroads in 1930 had the best safety record of any year since the world war.

The speakers included F. W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western; R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway association; C. S. Millard, vice president and general manager of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad; Clark Hungerford, superintendent Southern railway system, and Lew R. Palmer, Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

2 INDICTED WITH KIRKLAND HELP PROSECUTE HIM

State Ends Case with Their Testimony.

land was in the back seat with Arlene. He asked: "Where are you going?" and we told him. He said: "Park on a side street for the way." I did so, parking at 43rd street and Connecticut avenue in Gary.

Q.—How was Arlene dressed? A.—Her dress was pushed away up around her neck.

Q.—What condition was she in? A.—She seemed to be unconscious.

Q.—Did she say anything or do anything? A.—She said nothing, did nothing.

Q.—What happened next? A.—We went to the hamburger stand. As we stopped there, Kirkland pointed at Arlene and made indecent proposals. Thompson and I accepted."

Back at the party, he continued, Kirkland remained with Arlene in the automobile when he and Thompson went into the house. The party broke up about 1:30, he testified and he found Kirkland and the girl still in the car when he started to drive home. Barton took several guests home, he said, then started to drive to Arlene's home.

They Become Alarmed.

"Kirkland said: 'I can't wake her up,'" Barton told the jury. "So we drove around to get her some air. I felt her pulse and heart and could hear nothing. We didn't know whether she was drunk or dead or what."

Q.—What did you do?

A.—I drove first to the Mercy hospital, but Kirkland said we couldn't take her in there because it would cause talk. We went to a restaurant and called a doctor. Then we took her to Dr. Wharton's home. We carried her in.

Q.—What did the doctor say?

A.—He said: "She's gone. You boys must remain here until I phone the police." Kirkland said we would go get her clothes. When we got to the car we all got in and I drove to my home.

Barton testified that the car was put away in the garage when Kirkland suddenly suggested that they all drive to Chicago.

"I told him there was no use in that," the witness testified. "So he went off alone. I went in the house and went to bed."

The Cross-Examination.

The witness was cross-examined by the defense attorney, Oldham:

Q.—How many highballs did you have that night? A.—About six.

Q.—You know that such water and alcohol highballs are about twice as strong as whisky? A.—I don't know how strong whisky is.

Q.—Did you see Arlene drinking? A.—I saw her drink one glass of alcohol and water and one glass of wine.

Q.—Were you drunk by midnight? A.—I was.

Q.—When you saw Arlene in the car, practically naked in that freezing temperature, did you suggest covering her? —A.—No. She was Kirkland's girl. He'd been going with her several months.

Q.—You drove on just as if you'd stopped only to light a cigaret? A.—Yes.

Q.—A little thing like that made no impression on your mind? A.—Not at that time.

Admits His Guilt.

Q.—You are coming here without any promises for your testimony? A.—Yes.

Q.—You know that there is a death penalty for rape or attempted rape and murder, don't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you have just confessed that putting yourself in the danger of the electric chair, without any expectation of immunity. A.—Yes.

Q.—You think you might be sent to the electric chair? A.—It might happen.

Shirk, a pink and white cheeked youth of 24, said he had been married about a year. He declared firmly to the judge that he wanted to testify.

"My wife and I and Mr. and Mrs. Elser got to the party about 11:45," he said. "When I came in, I saw Babe and Virgil lying on the davenport in each other's arms. I said hello to them and went on into the kitchen. I drank some highballs out there.

Q.—When did you next see Kirkland? A.—He came into the kitchen and drew me aside. He asked me in a whisper a question about Arlene.

Q.—What else did he say? A.—He said she became unconscious in the car.

Q.—Did you go out. A.—Yes, Elser and myself went out. We saw Arlene in the rear seat of the car. She was absolutely naked.

Q.—What did Kirkland say? A.—He told me to get into the car with her.

Q.—Did you see Leon Stanford there? A.—He was leaving the car just as I got there.

Attorney Oldham conducted the cross-examination.

Q.—You've been married now only a year? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then it was your bride whom you took to that party? A.—Yes.

Q.—You were drinking before you got to the Thompson party? A.—We had a pint of alcohol and water.

Q.—Do you drink regularly? A.—I have no desire for it.

Q.—Did any one come out to the car while you were there? A.—I think Mrs. Elser came out and said: "What's going on here?" I think it was her husband who answered: "What the hell do you care? Go on back in the house."

Q.—Were you drunk enough to know how to conduct yourself like a gentleman? A.—Apparently I wasn't or I wouldn't have gone out to the car.

Q.—Drunk enough to go out there but sober enough to remember everything. A.—I'll always remember what happened that night.

Q.—Was Arlene unconscious when this all happened? A.—She was either drunk or dead.

FREED ON DISORDERLY CHARGE.

Robert Emmett Ryan, 10240 South Western avenue, was freed yesterday when arraigned before Judge Francis Borrelli on a disorderly conduct charge. Police said they arrested him so they would know where he spent the week-end.

$42,000,000 IN PUBLIC WORKS CONTRACTS AWARDED IN A WEEK

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—With contracts totaling $42,849,657 reported during the last week, the total value of contracts for public and semi-public construction reported to the President's emergency committee for employment in the last five months has reached nearly a billion and a half dollars, it was announced today.

Last week's contracts, as reported to the committee, represented 246 projects in 39 states and the District of Columbia. The following projects were reported from Illinois:

T., sections 1 and 2, route 3, $40,000; Chicago, remodeling stables into motor repair shop and office, $400,000; Cook county, general headquarters building, $47,259; general landscape work, $23,282; Decatur, Nelson Park pavilion, $80,000; Dupo, vocational school, $50,000; Evanston Township High school, $350,000; Hinsdale, sewers, $24,000; New Athens, community high school, $50,000; Peoria, old peoples home, $200,000; Rock Island county, paving section 716, M. F. T., $40,000.

YOUTH LEAPS AT PROSECUTORS ON MURDER CHARGE

James Zeman, 22 years old, one of three men indicted for the murder of two guards during an attempted holdup of Hillman's Food store, 24 West Washington street, last Jan. 24, threw the courtroom of Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court into confusion yesterday when he lunged at two assistant state's attorneys and made a dash for the door in an attempt to escape. Unshaven and unkempt, Zeman was led into the court room where his attorneys asked for a continuance for a sanity test.

Beside him were his alleged companions in the robbery, Charles J. Wollard, 20 years old, and Samuel Goldstein, 20 years old, whose attorneys asked for a trial separately from Zeman, alleging him to be insane. Zeman lunged at Assistant State's Attorneys Walter Butler and Miss Lee Laird. He was seized by Deputy Sheriffs Cy Lewis and John Kozak. He broke away for the door only to be retaken.

Judge Sabath ordered Zeman examined by Dr. Francis Gerty in the county jail behavior clinic at the Psychopathic hospital. He declared that he will rule on all motions before the trial begins June 1.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD"

Eve started it and the daughters of Eve inherited it. Eve gave Adam the apple, and it seems that Adam must have passed it on. For every man and every woman has an Adam's Apple. Put your finger on your Adam's Apple—that is your larynx, your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. Consider your Adam's Apple—when you do so, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead. Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette which brings you the added benefit of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. It is this exclusive process that expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple."

PRIEST ATTACKS SPAIN IN SERMON; THROWN IN CELL

Vatican Told to Quiet Tongues of Clergy.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, May 18.—The republic today made new progress in muzzling its 50,000 secular clergy, a heritage from the monarchy, when it jailed Juan Flores Gutierres, a parish priest, and demanded the Vatican instruct others through Papal Nuncio Tedeschini, in the absence of a primate, to hold their tongues in matters political. It is a padre of Manzanares, who is sitting in a cell tonight. In a sermon yesterday he vigorously condemned the burning of the convents and attacked the republic. The civil guards arrested him this morning and took him to jail while good Republicans of the town stood guard against any interference.

Cabinet Official Visits Nuncio.

Fernando de los Rios, minister of justice, called on the papal nuncio this afternoon to explain the arrest and expulsion of Bishop Mugica of Vitoria. He said more incidents of that nature might be expected unless the Vatican got busy and instructed the clergy not to attack the republic.

The nuncio, who, contrary to most reports, had not protested the burning of the churches, convents, and monasteries, took occasion today to express hopes and sorrow over what has happened. It is understood that the Vatican will let it drop at that, and that the pope's envoy considers the attitude of the former primate of Spain, Cardinal Segura, partly responsible.

The Jesuits, fearing outrages, have gathered at Loyola in the Basque mountains, the birthplace of their founder, where they feel they are safe unless the government decides to apply the expulsion order, which has been agreed on in principle. The foreign Jesuits, especially the French, have left the country. Others have deserted their establishments and are packed in the vast cement escorial at Loyola.

Feared Wrath of Basques.

The Basque peasants, who are the most reactionary in Spain, are prepared to defend the Jesuit priests. The government feared they might defend the church with arms, which explains the expulsion of the bishop of Vitoria, leader of the Integralist faction in the north, a hangover from the Carlists, which puts religion above everything.

Martial law was lifted in Madrid today when the cabinet decided that the riots and disorders had been succeeded by peace. Military rule still exists in the provinces. The government has closed the Valladolid university because of last Saturday's riots, when students locked up the faculty in classrooms.

Exiled Bishop Reaches France.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 18.—(AP)—Msgr. Mateo Mucica, bishop of Vitoria, banished by the Spanish government, arrived today on the way to Cambo, in the department of Basses-Pyrenees.

DAVID SENTENCES FUGITIVE MAN TO TERM IN PRISON

Albert Sizer, 34 years old, failed to appear in Judge Joseph B. David's Criminal court yesterday, but despite this he was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary for larceny. The Judge imposed sentence in the absence of the defendant and announced that if Sizer is apprehended he will be taken direct to the penitentiary without further hearing. The judge says this is the first time such a procedure has been followed in the Criminal court here.

Sizer was found guilty by the judge after a trial on Jan. 6 on a charge that he obtained a diamond ring, valued at $650, from Paul Bell, 1418 South St. Louis avenue, a diamond broker. He promised to return the ring but failed to do so. Bell asked restitution and Judge David ordered Sizer to return the ring or its equivalent in cash, saying that if this were done the charge probably would be dismissed. But Sizer disappeared and the judge sentenced him.

WIFE KILLS 1ST U. S. SOLDIER HIT IN WORLD WAR

New Orleans, La., May 18.—(AP)—Edgar Bouligny, who claimed to have been the first American wounded in the world war, was shot to death by his wife, Mrs. Delia Bouligny, in their apartment here today, but she was exonerated by the state's attorney on a plea of self-defense.

Authorities said she produced evidence to substantiate her claim that Bouligny had beaten her and threatened her life. The state's attorney said all charges against her had been dropped and she was released.

Ex-Senator L. Y. Sherman, Ill in Florida, Is Better

Daytona Beach, Fla., May 18.—[Special.]—The condition of former Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois shows continued improvement, following an illness of several weeks, it was announced today at his home here. He was visited by relatives from Illinois while his illness was more serious. Now he is able to go for a daily drive on the beach.

All Free Wheeling, with positive gear control and one shift lever, instead of two

THESE four cars are the turning point of an industry that once again is turning to Studebaker for leadership. Four cars that represent the limit of this era's engineering advancement . . . Studebaker's latest contribution to a motoring America that is eager for new methods that make for reduced costs.

Ten months ago Studebaker pioneered Free Wheeling . . . and today it seems the world of motor cars is planning to vindicate the pioneer . . . proposing to make Free Wheeling as universal as the electric starter.

With Free Wheeling, Studebaker is inaugurating new principles of propulsion without which any modern car is already old! . . . principles that put momentum on a leash and upkeep on a diet! . . . saving 15% to 20% in gasoline and oil . . . reducing clutch-pushing and easing gear-shifting . . . providing new measures of safety that command the approbation of traffic officials from coast to coast.

But deeds speak louder than details! . . . the speed and stamina of Studebaker cars are established by official stock car records . . . and their thrift with Free Wheeling is certified by Studebaker's recent capture of the national economy championship from 39 cars of 19 makes.

These four Free Wheeling Studebakers are years ahead of their time! Whoever buys a car with the imprint of the Studebaker name and the impress of Studebaker workmanship is protected by the 79-year policy of advanced achievement that gives inherent permanence to everything Studebaker does.

"COUP" TO LIFT U. S. LIQUOR BAN FLOPS IN CANADA

"Nays" Drown Out Lone "Aye" in Commons.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., May 18.—Not a member of the Canadian parliament arose in the house of commons tonight to support Col. Sidney Cecil Robinson's resolution demanding the repeal of Canada's law prohibiting liquor exports to the United States. This law Col. Robinson would have had the house declare "the United States does not appreciate."

Dr. Raymond Morand, Robinson's political riding neighbor in Essex county on the Detroit river, who seconded the resolution, was not present to speak for the resolution or witness its dismal death. Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, who, if the matter had been accepted seriously at all, might have been expected to say a word, did not look up from his papers when the ayes and nays were called.

"Nays" Drown Out "Aye."

Col. Robinson's "aye" was a lost voice in a wilderness of nays, and the speaker smilingly said "I declare the motion lost."

Not in at least ten years, parliamentarians said, has a resolution been so abjectly friendless.

In his plea to revoke the ban, Col. Robinson, who hails from Walkerville, home of the vast distilling plant of Hiram Walker & Son, urged that the repeal be regulated by a treaty in which Canada would receive compensation for a loss of revenue.

The Conservative complained that the United States is unfriendly to Canada, citing the Hawley-Smoot tariff and immigration restrictions against Canada. He quoted a speech from Clarence Darrow in Toronto, in which the Chicago lawyer is alleged to have said that Canada should not concern itself with attempting to keep liquor out of the United States.

Figures Canada's "Losses."

Continuing his speech after the dinner hour, Col. Robinson, figuring it out to the last bottle, label and wrapper, calculated Canada's lost revenue by her liquor export ban at $29,000,453 per year.

"What do we get in return for prohibiting shipments of liquor to the United States," he demanded. "We get the Hawley-Smoot tariff, which interferes with our trade, and we get immigration regulations which works hardships on our communities. I see no reason why this law should not be repealed in view of the Wickersham report, which said that the ban had not achieved its purpose."

Liquor Treaty to Stand.

LONDON, May 18.—(AP)—Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs Hugh Dalton told the house of commons today that Great Britain would not seek to have the liquor traffic treaty with the United States modified so as to substitute definite distance from shore for the present provision of one hour's steaming by a suspected vessel.

Commander Southby had asked if the government would not consider advisability of giving notice of such a proposal under article V. of the Anglo-American convention, "in view of doubt and uncertainty occasioned by the present arrangement."

"The question of fixing definite distance was very carefully considered at the time the convention was negotiated," said Mr. Dalton. "But this plan was found to be impracticable."

DRY LAW VIOLATORS MOST NUMEROUS, SAYS U. S. PRISON OFFICIAL

Mobile, Ala., May 18.—[Special.]—The national prohibition law is responsible for serious congestion in federal prisons throughout the United States, and this was one of the reasons—though a minor one—why congress passed the probation system is the tenor of a statement made here by Maj. Joel R. Moore, supervisor of the United States probation system. He is on the last lap of a tour of the nation inspecting federal prisons.

"Is it not a fact that the congestion is due to the great number of arrests for violation of the prohibition law?" Maj. Moore was asked.

"I should say it is responsible in a large measure. The great majority of prisoners in federal prisons are there for liquor violations," he replied.

Maj. Moore said about 10,000 persons were on probation throughout the United States, and the reaction to this system has been most favorable. It has had a tendency to decrease crime. He said that in Massachusetts, where the probation system was inaugurated twenty-five years ago, the number of arrests had been greatly decreased.

Allan T. Gilbert Made Hamilton Club President

Allen T. Gilbert was elected president of the Hamilton club yesterday. George R. Bowman was made first vice president; David H. Jackson, second vice president; Emil A. W. Johnson, third vice president; Chester Latham, secretary; and George A. Jackson, treasurer. Mr. Gilbert, a member of the law firm of Watkins, Tenhoor & Gilbert, is a special assistant corporation counsel assigned to the council committee on local transportation. He is also associate counsel for the citizens' transit settlement committee.

CAPTAIN CLAIMS POLITICS HALTED DRY LAW RAIDS

Testifies in So. Chicago Liquor Cases.

Police Capt. Patrick Collins testified before Federal Judge Barnes yesterday that it was impossible for his men to clean up South Chicago because of political interference. Capt. Collins, who was in charge of the South Chicago district until April of 1930, was a witness in a liquor violations case in which charges of police protection have been made.

"While you were at South Chicago there were at least 100 places running wide open, selling whisky and other drinks over the bar, were there not?" asked Prosecutor Daniel Anderson.

"That's right," said Capt. Collins.

Q.—Could you, as captain, have closed them up had you been given [illegible] would have forced them into back rooms and hideouts, at least. There were two reasons why it was impossible to stop the violations. In the first plabe I had orders to make no raids except by due process of law, making buys first and then obtaining search warrants. In the second place, there was too much political interference.

Warnings of Raids.

Q.—Did you ever find, upon attempting to serve a search warrant, that the saloonkeepers had been tipped off? A.—That happened many times.

Capt. Collins was called to give Judge Barnes a general picture of conditions in South Chicago prior to the wholesale raids of last August made by special prohibition agents. This was to guide the court in sentencing the thirteen saloonkeepers who have been convicted or pleaded guilty. A dozen defense attorneys objected, declaring that Capt. Collins' testimony was immaterial and could serve only to inflame the court.

Claims Protection Pledge.

Alex Skiba, a license inspector for the city, was mentioned again yesterday by Peter Petiljanski, a special dry sleuth, in connection with alleged promises of protection. Petiljanski testified that he went to Skiba in the guise of a prospective saloonkeeper and obtained a license.

"We were taken to a Mr. Doyle in the corporation counsel's office by Skiba," said Petiljanski. "Skiba and Doyle said we would get the license and wouldn't have to worry about the police. Then Skiba took us to see Policeman Thomas McCoy in South Chicago. McCoy said we would have plenty of time to pay after we opened up.

"Skiba got suspicious and pulled a gun. 'If there's any double crossing I know how to use this gun and McCoy has two of them,' he told me."

Mrs. Frank W. Allen

To keep pace with two hard playing boys, aged 7 and 5, and to care for cherubic Lorna Virginia, 6 months old, requires abundant energy. Yet Mrs. Frank W. Allen of 715 Forest Avenue, Evanston, does all this with ease . . . an ease that leaves her plenty of charm and sparkle for her social life, which centers in bridge, theatre and literature. "Drinking Welch's gives me a good supply of energy and bodily strength without the heaviness of rich foods that put on weight," says Mrs. Allen. "I tell my boys to drink all the Welch's they like . . . and they do! Summer and winter! The natural food elements are so much better for them than sweets. And they never tire of its rich just-off-the-vine flavor. A glass of Welch's, and they go racing back to play."

for abundant vitality

YOUTHFUL vitality, expressed in graceful figure, glowing complexion and sparkling eyes, is the modern woman's rightful inheritance. It may be possessed at no greater cost than a simple daily routine. "Eat grapes," experts say, "because they are packed with quick energy, which almost instantly banishes hunger and fatigue."

Science and experience enable Welch's to bring you the concentrated goodness of vintage Concords every day throughout the year, bottled at their ripe best in the highlands of upper New York state.

Grape Juice, as prepared under Welch's rigid laboratory-controlled system, is Nature's sun-digested tonic-food. Mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins are quickly absorbed into the blood stream, affording a fund of ready energy which throws no excessive burden on the overworked digestive system.

This pure, wholesome fruit combines delicious taste with benefits that are far-reaching to you and every member of your family. Wonderfully appetizing as a breakfast fruit—and delightfully refreshing at any hour of the day. Many prefer it with one-third to one-half water added. It is mildly laxative and non-fattening. The Welch habit of America is the famed "grape cure" of Europe—at a tiny fraction of the cost.

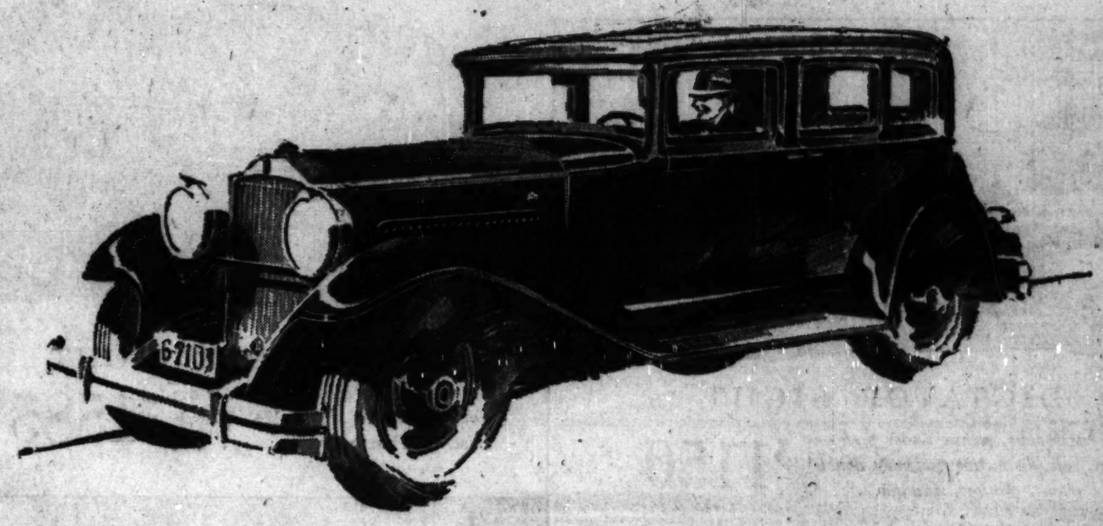
The PACKARD EIGHT
FIVE PASSENGER SEDAN



3 advantages in buying one NOW

1· Quality Never Finer· Distinction Never Greater and Listed at only $2385

The Packard Five-Passenger Sedan is the most popular of all Packard models—deservedly so, for it is the finest car of its type Packard has ever produced. Thousands of owners will testify that in sheer luxury and superb performance the Packard Sedan is the greatest car they have ever owned.

For 32 years Packard has proudly said of its cars, "Ask the Man Who Owns One." And never has Packard been more justified than in the case of this year's distinguished Five-Passenger Sedan. Priced at the factory at only $2385, available in a wide range of color schemes, it is truly representative of the dollar-for-dollar values offered by the entire Packard line.

2· Used Car Values are now at the Peak- and Our Inventory is Low

As we enter our most active selling season we find used car values high—and our own inventory of used cars decidedly low. This means that we can accept your present car in trade and resell it to far greater advantage now than we can hope to do later in the season.

Your used car is worth more now than it will ever be worth again. If it is of average value it will more than cover the down payment on the luxurious Packard Eight Sedan. And we can arrange the remainder on reasonable terms to suit your convenience. Why not let us appraise your present car—show you how easily you may own a Packard?

3· Packard Transportation Costs No More- and we can Quickly Demonstrate It.

If you are driving a car similar in size and power to the Packard Eight Sedan you are paying for the Packard—so why not own it? Operating costs are no greater for the Packard. Neither are depreciation costs when you drive the Packard longer than your former, lower-priced car.

You can check this for yourself. Ask us for our "Motoring Costs Analysis" booklet and fill in the figures on your present costs. Then we will parallel them with Packard Sedan costs. You will find that the luxury and distinction of Packard transportation can be yours at no ultimate increase.

Before you buy any car this spring, see and drive the Packard Eight Sedan. We will gladly put one at your disposal, without obligation. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose by investigating the Packard Eight. Truly, there never was a better time than now to invest in the distinguished, long-lived, economical Packard transportation that you have always wanted.

SENATORS LOAD GUNS FOR WAR ON SMOKER TAX

Called Double Taxation of "Poor Man."

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—The smokers' tax proposal is set for an onslaught this week in the senate. Arguments that it will tax hardest the poor man and his pleasures and will open a bootleg paradise for outside mail order houses, meanwhile creating a small army of snoopers, are ready for production by senators.

EARL SEARCY.

Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield], chairman of the senate revenue subcommittee, opened an attack on the idea of a cigaret tax tonight with a declaration that it would be double taxation. Some posts of the American Legion have already sent in protest against the tax on smoking.

"Users of tobacco already pay a heavy tax to the federal government," said Senator Searcy. "I have seen figures quoted that out of fifteen cents the consumer pays for a package of 20 cigarets 6 cents goes to the federal government. On a pound of manufactured tobacco, the average retail price of which is less than a dollar, the consumer, it is said, pays 18 cents, or about one-fifth, in taxes to the federal government. Also on cigars the consumer pays a heavy tax to the government.

Classed as Luxury.

"This smokers' tax proposal is forging a chain in the wrong direction. The aim of this legislature ought to be to devise ways of cutting down the expenses of government instead of building up a top heavy structure, especially on this tobacco tax basis which would shoulder a large load on the poor man, in total violation of the taxation principle of ability to pay. It aims to tax the poor man's pleasures as heavy as the millionaire's luxuries."

In line with the attack on a "poor man's tax" figures are quoted to the effect that 95 per cent of the cigarets sold are of the lower price brands purchased by the less wealthy.

As to cigars 60 per cent of the sales are reported of the variety which retails from 5 cents down, while about 65 per cent of the cigar business is made up of cigars retailing from 8 cents down.

Question 20 Million Return.

Meanwhile the experts of the Schnackenberg revenue committee are being criticized for estimating that a tobacco tax would yield 20 million dollars a year in Illinois. Figures compiled by the Tobacco Merchants' Association of the United States are being cited to the effect that the receipts would be less than one-fourth of this amount, which opponents term mythical revenue.

These tabulations indicate that in nine of the eleven states which have tobacco taxes where the full year's figures are available [Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Tennessee, and Utah] the total collections from this source in 1930 amounted to $8,543,152. The aggregate population of these nine states is given as 16,259,000, making an average per capita tobacco tax collection of slightly over 53 cents.

On this basis, it is argued, the maximum which would be collected in Illinois, with its population of 7,630,000, would be about $3,968,000.

Some senators point out that there is a sharp distinction between the gasoline tax and a smokers' tax.

BILL REQUIRING CARE OF INFANTS' EYES IS HELD TO BE INVALID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—That Gov. Emmerson will veto the Thon bill calling for the treatment of new born babies' eyes against blindness was predicted this afternoon when Attorney General Carlstrom's office held the bill unconstitutional. The governor must act upon it tomorrow—by signing, vetoing, or allowing it to become a law without his signature.

W. E. TRAUTMAN. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The opinion, written by Assistant Attorney General William E. Trautman, was delivered to the governor's office late today and held, in brief, that enforcement of the law which passed both houses of the assembly is beyond the police powers of the state.

Representative William G. Thon [Rep., Chicago] introduced the bill which provides than any one who assists or is in charge of the birth of a child shall instill in each eye of the newly born infant 1 per cent solution of silver nitrate, or some equally effective prophylactic, as a preventative against opthalmia neonatorum, a disease which causes blindness.

POLICE TO OPEN LICENSE DRIVE NEXT THURSDAY

Motorists and Business Houses Will Be Targets

A campaign to compel delinquent motorists to take out city and state automobile licenses will be started by the entire police department beginning at 8 a. m. Thursday.

In orders to all district commanders Acting Police Commissioner Alcock last night instructed that persons whose machines lack either of the licenses are to be arrested, taken to the station, and held until they furnish bond or are arraigned in court. No tickets are to be given out.

Canvass Business Houses.

Chief Alcock also instructed each police captain to assign two men to make a survey of all business houses requiring licenses. The inspectors are to make certain that the proper licenses are prominently displayed on the walls of the business houses. Delinquent houses must be reported.

The campaign against delinquent motorists is to be conducted by every policeman and detective. Public garages will be inspected to see if machines are properly licensed. In cases where machines are parked on streets, an effort must be made to find the owners. If they are found they will be arrested. If they are not found their machines will then be towed to one of three designated garages, covering the major sections of the city. The owners will be assessed the cost of towing and garage costs.

Licenses from Other States.

Chief Alcock also warned that he has information many Chicagoans have equipped their automobiles with licenses from other states where the fees are lighter. Action will be taken in such cases, he said. He also learns, he said, that some motorists retain only one state license plate and give away or sell the other to friends or relatives. All machines licensed in Illinois must carry two state plates and one vehicle tag, he said.

Indiana Gasoline Tax Law Held to Be Constitutional

Indianapolis, Ind., May 18.—[Special.]—The Indiana gasoline tax law is constitutional, it was declared in an opinion today by James M. Ogden, attorney general. Two gasoline dealers had refused to pay taxes, believing the 1929 amendment to the law was unconstitutional because faulty in title.

BRITAIN TO OPEN INDIA PARLEY IN LONDON SEPT. 1

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SIMLA, May 18.—The British government has virtually fixed Sept. 1 for convening the federal structures committee at London and the middle of October for the formal opening of the second India round table conference, THE TRIBUNE was informed today by a prominent Indian delegate.

It was revealed that the main reason given the Indian delegates by Viceroy Lord Willingdon for postponing the conference was the precarious state of Prime Minister MacDonald's health. The prime minister is on the verge of a nervous breakdown from overwork, the Indian leaders were told confidentially. It was added that his doctors insisted that he take a complete rest during August instead of sitting with the Indian delegations as he did at the previous conference.

Mahatma Gandhi has approved of the September date, especially because it gives him three months to achieve the Hindu-Moslem settlement.

"The Old Order Changeth, yielding place to new"

Stoves like this are giving way to modern furnaces. And noisy mechanical refrigerators are going out since Electrolux—the modern kind—has arrived.

Now the kind of automatic refrigerator to have is the silent, modern, machinery-free Electrolux—costs only a few cents a day to operate.

THERE was a time when a pot-bellied stove was considered the acme of heating perfection. Just as there was a time when any automatic refrigerator was considered modern if it worked at all—no matter how complicated or noisy it was.

But now you can have Electrolux, the refrigerator that is automatic, but has no machinery at all, no moving parts, and never makes a sound.

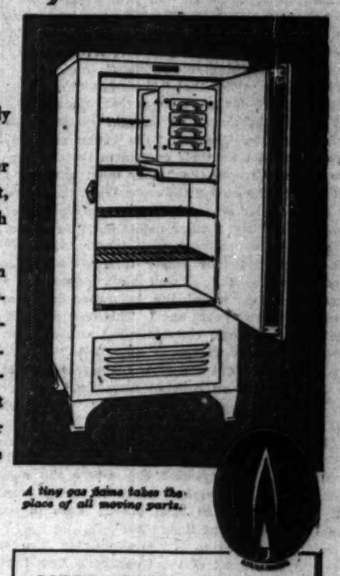
A tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water make this modern automatic refrigerator work. They circulate the refrigerant that makes the cold and freezes ice cubes. The refrigerant itself—ordinary ammonia, little stronger than the kind used for household cleaning—is hermetically sealed in a rigid steel unit, and need not be renewed. The gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off.

Electrolux never makes a sound as long as you have it. It has no moving parts to make sound, to wear, or to vibrate. This is the one absolutely silent automatic refrigerator. It is the most economical one you can use, too. Five to ten cents a day is the maximum operating cost for both gas and water.

This refrigerator is now specified as standard equipment in fine private homes and apartments by many of the most prominent architects and builders. More than 150,000 homes now enjoy its comfort and convenience. It is easily installed—connections for gas and water are through concealed flexible copper tubing, and are quickly made for you by your gas company.

And should your Electrolux ever need adjustment, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

This automatic refrigerator is on display at all gas company showrooms. It comes in 10 household models, ranging from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. Despite its unique advantages, prices are no higher. We suggest that you see it before buying any other kind. Write or phone us for complete information at Wabash 6000.



A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

ELECTROLUX
THE Gas REFRIGERATOR

COSTS LESS TO OPERATE
Electrolux is the world's most economical refrigerator. It operates for only a few cents a day—less than the cost of any other means of refrigeration.

THE LESSONS OF THE JUBILEE.

Reports from merchants in many sections of Chicago leave little doubt that the Jubilee has served to stimulate trade. Inevitably the increased sales will be reflected in increased manufacturing activity. The Jubilee in this respect already has measured up fully to the expectations of those who planned it and it is still far from concluded.

More than that, the Jubilee has served to dispel the sense of defeatism that for many months has been preventing business recovery. The outpouring has shown that the masses are eager and responsive. They are not sulking, though it has been a difficult winter. Business men who will bestir themselves can expect to find a responsive market.

So far as Chicago is concerned, the evidences of improvement brought about by the change in administration are plain. The public has been favorably impressed with the character of men whom Mr. Cermak has placed in positions of responsibility. There is confidence in the integrity of the city government which has long been lacking; and a belief that projects for the physical upbuilding of the city, such as the subways and the Calumet harbor, will go ahead and will be honestly built.

Business men who are alive to the new spirit of confidence in Chicago and base their action upon it will have no cause for regret.

NEWS FROM AMERICA.

American conditions are given unusual attention in British newspapers during these days of depression and the reports seem to be getting under the skin of some readers on this side of the water. Mr. Harold Trusler of the Trusler-Rehymer Grain Company of Kansas, for example, doesn't like the amiable account of one Stephen Graham, who informed the trustful readers of the Manchester Guardian that "the whole American nation was gambling" during the late inflation, and that "the whole middle class was sold out—it has no purchasing power; it can barely pay for food, clothing, and lodging."

Mr. Trusler replies that "there has never been 3 per cent of our population that speculated—that is, bought stocks on margin"—and if, as charged by Mr. Graham, "the banks extended credit to almost all their customers for the purpose of sheer speculation," they must have been well secured, for during the stock crash they have not lost a dollar on call loans. "The number of stockholders," Mr. Trusler points out, "in almost all nation-wide corporations is larger than ever before and materially larger than when stocks were at the peak. Saving bank deposits are larger, the amount of life insurance in force greater than two years ago." This does not indicate that the middle class is wiped out, and Mr. Trusler thinks it worthy of note that "with so much unemployment and after the severe drought we have almost no political disorders." As for Mr. Graham's charge that there is "not much real pity for the unfortunate," Mr. Trusler remarks that "relief work has been mostly a matter of charity, largely contributed by the people of the state, county, and city where the need existed," and he thinks "there is surely more pity and kindness in local charity than in national unemployment insurance."

Having attended to Mr. Graham, Mr. Trusler turns to the report of the Guardian's New York correspondent, who under the heading "Starving American Farmer" Feb. 13, alleges that in order to obtain aid from the fund of "nine million pounds," appropriated for relief by congress, the farmer "must give a first mortgage on his whole property." Furthermore, the bankers "who presumably will advance the money for the farmers' food are prohibited by law from taking a second mortgage." "Several million persons," says the Guardian correspondent, "are now in the direst straits in the drought area, where 750,000 are already receiving all their food from the Red Cross." Mr. Trusler replies that one of his friends had just obtained a loan from the fund on a mortgage which covered only the 1931 crop and placed no lien on real estate or anything else, and he informs the Guardian that a bank is at liberty to loan on a second mortgage if the equity is sufficient. He also cites the official statement that not a single death occurred from starvation and remarks that if "millions of persons" are in the direst straits, "we, here in that area, don't know it."

In the same issue of the Guardian we find that Mr. J. A. Gladstone of Grande Prairie, Alberta, was "somewhat shocked to read your Ottawa correspondent's article in February under the heading 'Hard Times in Canada, the Suffering West,' and must inform the Guardian that there is no suffering except in extreme or isolated cases, they have not reverted to the primitive system of barter, and if some families are living in shacks without floors and with stumps or boxes for chairs, he points out that "any one familiar with pioneering in the west knows these are peculiar to the homesteader's or pioneer's first habitat." He considers the correspondent's reference to the eating of gophers ridiculous and asserts "there is no better fed man in the whole world than the western Canadian who has any knowledge of his country, enjoys his health, and has the use of his two hands."

Uncle Shylock has usually appeared in connection with the war loans, but he is even more effective in his new rôle of exacting blood tribute from starving American farmers. The portrait of the western Canadian settler devouring gophers in one of the premier wheat raising districts of the world we leave for admiring Canadians to comment upon.

AMERICAN POLITICAL PRISONERS.

Federal government reports for the last statistical year show that nearly sixty per cent of the convictions in the federal courts in the Chicago district dealt with offenders against the Volstead act. Somewhat the same ratio is probably general throughout the country. The thing that overtaxes the federal judiciary and crowds the prisons to which the federal convicts are sent is man's desire for alcoholic beverages.

Purveying to this desire was not a criminal offense twelve years ago in this country, and today this is the only great country in white civilization in which it is criminal. The acts which produce a glass of wine, a glass of beer, or a drink of whisky fill the penitentiaries only in the United States. Elsewhere the use of such beverages is a normal of life. Here it has been made legally one of the heinous offenses against the state. A law of sound origin and purpose could not have such contradictions. The real laws are virtually the same everywhere, but prohibition causes the United States to fill its prisons with people who would be free in any other white country except Finland.

These are political prisoners. The law which seizes them is similar to the sectarian laws which made various dissenting religious services criminal. When government falls into the hands of moral or religious zealotry nonconformity and dissent will be made criminal and victims will be sought as sacrifices to the arbitrary standards insisted upon by the dominant sect for its own gratification. The United States is continuing the record of such prosecutions.

It has been one of the softer aspects even of such prosecution in the past that the hunters would tire from time to time when the jails could hold no more and the executioners were tired. Amnesty would be granted and the jails delivered. The United States needs the relief of such a policy if only for a breathing spell.

ALFONSO AS A HERO IN LONDON.

The news reel shows Alfonso arriving in London after his flight from Spain across France. His police escort can hardly get his car through the wild greeting of the London crowd. The English democrats give the Bourbon-Hapsburg such a welcome that he is nearly crushed in it. His escape had been from other streets filled with Spanish democrats arisen at last to rid the country of an institution which had sat on its neck almost continuously since the middle ages. The runaway king was, of course, the show piece of the hour, but nevertheless it was a runaway by a man who did not have the strength to prevent the revolution at home or the will to face it. The English democracy could not have given a greater demonstration to Gene Tunney in his day or to Jackie Coogan in his. Alfonso is either some king or the English are some democrats. American enthusiasms are more exclusive. The only royalty who could be assured general handsprings in the United States is George V. or his eldest son. [Queens excepted; Marie must be conceded, but America is a woman's world.]

If Alfonso can be good cricket to the English crowds they must love the institution for its own sake. There is no proof to the contrary.

THE ROAD HOG.

A checkup of the Sunday travel by THE TRIBUNE discovered the willful or indifferent driver obstructing the way by taking the inner lane or by straddling the two lanes of the four and three lane roads. Such driving prevents passing or makes it dangerous. The offense has no excuse. It has no advantage for the offender unless he is so incompetent or timid that he fears the ditch and must get into the middle of the concrete, in which case he is unfit for driving. A guess would be that in most instances it is merely disagreeable character. The road signs indicate the proper method of driving. They are too numerous to be overlooked, although they may be ignored. The comfort, convenience, and safety of the majority are unconsidered by the minority. One remedy is the motorcycle patrolman. He is probably the only complete remedy. A few disagreeable persons can spoil a great deal of wise road building.

Editorial of the Day

CHICAGO'S TAX TROUBLES.

[The Baltimore Sun.]

The bankers appear to be finally gaining the whip hand in the fight to reform Chicago's tax system, the city having reached the bottom of the till. Teachers are not getting their salaries and many thousands of other municipal employés, it is anticipated, will be in the same unfortunate position in a few days. The situation is a striking example of the pass to which political interference with conduct of government can reduce a great city.

The trouble originated in an assessment system under which assessors are elected by districts. As a result the jobs became pawns in a political game, and assessments of property were dictated in many cases by pull and favoritism. The system broke down in 1928 and there was two years' delay in collection of taxes, necessitating borrowing on a huge scale. The banks came to the rescue and advanced $284,000,000 on tax warrants, but they refuse to lend more money until the tax system is reformed. Recently, in order to keep going, the city has been compelled to get funds where it could and has been paying six per cent on its loans. It appears finally to have reached the end of its rope.

The new administration which has come into power is not responsible for the embarrassment nor can it make the changes in the tax laws which are demanded. The matter is under control of the Republican state legislature, where the politicians are fighting to retain power over the levying of taxes. It is a strangle hold which should be broken at whatever sacrifice, and if the ultimatum of bankers will do the job they will do the city a lasting service by standing firm.

TO THE POINT.

Sub-editor—I see here that an English general was badly cut in opening a wine bottle. What kind of a heading shall I put on it?

Editor—O, just say serious accident to British man-of-war in attempting to get into port.—Punch.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HEY—LEGISLATORS— PUT TEETH IN THAT LAW!

And now the ladies are taking action through their clubs to hasten the automobile drivers' license law which the jolly legislators are tossing back and forth down in Springfield. But there's one thing not in that thing yet which must be there before it becomes a law. It must provide that any and all drivers straddling the line drawn down the center dividing the two lanes shall lose his license, his car shall be padlocked for two years, and he shall be sent to the county jail and sentenced to wash windows and mop floors for thirty days. Or sixty days, or three months, for all we care. And for the bird that shoots out of line of cars and goes charging down the wrong lane—penitentiary for life.

And there's another thing. When we go sailing peaceably along in our bus at forty miles an hour, which is fast enough for anybody, we want some sort of heavy fine or jail sentence for the bird that yips out as he passes us, "Get a horse!" We don't mind his passing; anybody that wants to go faster than forty miles an hour is welcome; that's his business. And if his front tires blow out maybe his funeral. Anyhow, it's no concern of ours. But why the dirty wisecrack? Why can't he just keep going without getting personal? When we had our driving teacher with us he always answered this rude and uncalled for remark by saying, "Oh, go button your nose." This never seemed to do much good, and probably nine times out of ten the bird that told us to buy a horse was gone by the time the comeback was hurled at him.

Anyhow, something should be done about this. "Get a horse!" That makes us so doggoned mad, gosh!

TO OUR VETERANS.

The world whirls on the old mad way,
Men run the endless race,
The spinning dollars day by day
Lure down the same long chase.
And we forget you? No, ah no!
Not while the faithful lilacs grow!

The lilacs through each Maytime send
Their message year by year—
How Nature is a changeless friend
Forgetting not her dear.
The lilacs with their perfumed breath
Cry: "We are faithful unto death!"

The warm spring rains, the changing breeze
Bring out a purple drift
Across the land. The laden trees
Proclaim your noble gift.
"The purple once was worn by kings.
Now it is yours," the lilac sings.

ANCHUSA.

"STOCKS CONTINUE to Drift to New Lows."—Chidallynews. Saddening, yes, but it's a comfort to have the newspapers get away from that monotonous refrain, "Stocks Hit New Lows." We grew so tired of stocks hitting new lows that it's almost a pleasure to have them do a little drifting for a change. Otherwise, one cannot grow especially jubilant over the new form.

The Hens Go Soviet—Especially the Rhode Island Reds.

R. H. L.: I beg to submit herewith a résumé of the poultry situation in our county. It is now six years since the Five Year Plan was adopted by our farmers for their hens. Unquestionably it has been successful in so far as it has supplied the world with cheaper eggs. Yet I cannot see that the hens are any happier, or the Dictatorship of the Farmers any better off. As for the world, I think it is getting pretty well fed up on fresh eggs. Large flocks of chickens—mostly white Leghorns—are seen everywhere. They are comfortably housed and well fed upon an egg-producing diet, but they have no home life. The farmer takes a basketful of eggs to town and returns with a basketful of orphan baby chicks. These are turned over to a mechanical brooder and grow quickly into hens to produce more eggs to produce more hens, ad infinitum.

Eggs, eggs, eggs; but romance has altogether departed from the barnyard. In many flocks roosters are taboo. They are frowned upon as superfluous, prideful, bourgeoisie—a leech-like laity that doesn't lay. And so the challenging crow of chanticleer is heard no more in the land, or the complacent cackle and matronly cluck of the hen. Mateless and mournful the soviet hens plod through their allotted tasks, scratching no more for worms, brooding no more, thrilled not by even the shadow of a hawk. Eggs, eggs, uniform in size and color, standardized, commercialized, socialized—and if you don't come across with your daily quota, the chopping block for you; and the chopping block for you, anyhow, at last. And not even a nest egg to call your own. If an ambitious young hen happens to produce a double egg, or one of unusually attractive color and design, is she praised and rewarded for her enterprise? No. On the contrary, she is snubbed and stigmatized as anti-proletarian.

Are eggs so important, after all—I wonder if the hens wonder—is living one's own individual life so unimportant that one should forego the blue sky, the lovely grass, worms, happiness, to produce more eggs, and more eggs? What price twelve cent eggs?

EOLUS.

LAGNIAPPE.

"TANNERS QUIET in Hide Market as Prices Move Higher."—Chicvcam headline. Quiet's not the word. Shoosh, boys, shoosh! For the luva gosh, shoosh! Hold your breath, don't move a muscle; if anything under the blue dome of heaven wants to move higher these days, don't make a sound that'll cause it to change its mind. Tanners an' everybody, fevven's sake, QUIET!

WE SOUGHT last night to forget the saddening stock report by reading Shakespeare, and all went well until we came to the lines, "Those friends thou hast and their adoption tried, grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel." And all we could think of then was that U. S. Steel went down yesterday to 98¾. We threw Shakespeare into the alley.

THE CAUSE OF THE HUMAN FORM.

If you live away from the seaside you are liable to have a square head and a broad face, and to tend towards shortness and fatness. If you live close to the sea and get plenty of iodine in your food and water and in the mists you breathe, you are liable to be long headed, with a narrow face; to be tall and thin, and to sing bass. These are conclusions found in a most scientific book written by a scientific man, Prof. C. R. Stockard of Cornell university, and based on years of experimentation with animals. Perhaps Dr. Stockard can be persuaded to write another book on the same subject, using simpler language and omitting some of his technical proof of his position. That we will have to take on faith in the writer.

If his theory is correct the long headed, long legged Norseman is of that type because he has easy access to the sea. The round headed Alpine is as he is because he has not ready access to the sea. For the same reason the Alpine people have much goiter, myxedema, and cretinism, and the Norse people have little. The broad faced, round heads he calls laterals. The tall, sharp faced, long heads he calls linears. The laterals not only have broad heads and faces but their eyes are wide apart, the eye socket and eyeball are of types that make for nearsightedness, they are apt to have tenor voices because of the build of the voice box, the neck is apt to be short, and to show a goiter tendency. They like to eat candy and other starchy and sweet foods, and they tend to put on fat, and often develop diabetes. Mentally they are prone to show preparedness and to follow through. They have a mind for details. The linear type are the opposite physically, mentally, and temperamentally.

Dr. Stockard's conclusions are based largely on work done with lower animals. He is of the opinion that personality is largely dependent on physical constitution, meaning size, body build, and development of certain organs. The ductless glands, and particularly the thyroid gland, have much to do with growth patterns, the rate of growth, the size and shape of the features. The rate of oxidation which the thyroid regulates is the machinery used to modify the growth pattern.

Dr. Stockard closes his book by an appeal to physicians not to leave the correlation between personality and disease on the one hand, and bodily shape on the other, to phrenologists, fortune tellers, and other fakers.

REST MAY HELP.

X. Y. Z. writes: A year ago I had phlebitis after an appendix operation. I still have some swelling in my leg when weather is inclement, or I have been standing for some time. Is there anything I can do to ward off these attacks? Is there much danger in pregnancy after phlebitis?

REPLY.

In your case, phlebitis blocked the vein and the balance between blood outgo and return is not yet well established. It is easily upset. I think use and exercise [active and passive] is the best method of re-establishing normal conditions. Some advise wearing an elastic stocking, but I disagree. There would be more than a chance that pregnancy would cause a renewal.

DIET CHANGE NEEDED.

Constant Reader writes:

1. I am constantly troubled with canker sores. Do they come from an acid condition?
2. What diet should I go on to relieve them?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Overcome constipation. Change your diet materially.

CAUSES OF BOILS.

I. M. F. writes: What is the cause of boils? My eight year old boy had about nine of them this winter. What remedy would you suggest to prevent them?

REPLY.

Boils result from infection of the skin, generally of a hair shaft, or a grease or sweat gland, with a staphylococcus. Since this coccus is nearly always on the skin it is important to learn why it infects. Among the more frequent of the contributing causes are: Diabetes, diets too rich in starches and sugars, unclean skins, irritations of the skin.

To prevent boils, change the diet, investigate diabetes, keep the skin very clean, remove sources of skin irritation.

Consider the use of an appropriate phage locally.

SALTS FOR REDUCING.

R. H. H. writes:

1. Are salts that are advertised for reducing harmful?
2. Do you think they are good for that purpose?

REPLY.

1. If you mean those used in the baths, the answer is—No.
2. No.

COULD FORFEIT FOR DEFAULT.

Chicago, May 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a contract balance on my home which will soon be due. The contract reads that the full amount is payable on a certain date. The contract will not be renewed by the company holding it, and no one will take it over. Being unemployed, I cannot meet the payments. Can they foreclose on me, and if so, how long does the law permit me to remain in the home before I can be put out? J. S. K.

If the buyer has merely a contract, then the seller could forfeit it for default without allowing the fifteen month redemption period which is allowed in case of foreclosure of a mortgage.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RESULTS NOT YET AVAILABLE.

Chicago, May 13.—[Friend of the People.]—Could you please give me any information or results of civil service examination held April, 1930, for truant officer, city of Chicago? G. A. G.

I wish to inform you that the results of the examination held for truant officer have not been posted.

JAMES S. OSBORNE, Secretary,
Civil Service Commission, Chicago.

REMOVE THE LIEN!

Dubuque, Ia., May 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A contractor agreed to repair a house which had been damaged by fire. The house was repaired with the exception of replacing the steps and a screen door. He was not paid and now has a mechanic's lien against the property. Kindly advise me how to proceed in this matter. The case will be tried in Illinois. J. E. M.

Your letter does not indicate what it is that you wish to do. If you wish to remove the lien, you should notify him to institute proceedings to foreclosure. If he institutes such proceedings, you should defend.

ACT DOES NOT APPLY.

Chicago, April 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please direct me to a proper source of information on Illinois workmen's compensation act. My interest is as a flat dweller who employs a servant one day a week. Want to know about my legal liability in case she suffers an injury arising from her work, and what protection the act affords.

N. G. B.

The compensation act does not apply to such employment.

MAY 19, 1915.

WASHINGTON.—Germany has suspended, temporarily at least, its submarine warfare on the vessels of the allies. This was admitted at the German embassy, where it was stated that the action was taken by the Berlin government more than a week ago. Future action regarding undersea craft is to be held in abeyance pending developments between Germany and the United States over the Lusitania case.

ROME.—The situation grows hourly more tense. The Austrian and German consuls are leaving tonight without announcement. The Turkish ambassador conferred with Baron Sonnino, minister of foreign affairs, and afterward it was reported that he had been instructed to leave Rome together with his Austrian and German colleagues.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Rome says: "The Giornale d'Italia announces that Prince von Buelow, the German ambassador, and Baron von Macchio, the special ambassador of Austria, have demanded their passports."

LONDON.—The Morning Post correspondent at Petrograd cables: "Never since this war began has any one day brought so grave a bulletin as that received late last night. The Russians are retiring on the Vistula river. The Germans have begun the bombardment of a line along the San between Przemysl and a point 30 miles north. This presages a German attack in force."

WASHINGTON.—Preston Gibson, the well known society man, formerly a resident of Chicago, was sued for absolute divorce on the ground of misconduct with other women. Mrs. Gibson was formerly Miss Grace McMillan Jarvis, granddaughter of the late Senator McMillan of Michigan. Gibson himself is the son of a former southern senator.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 19, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Grace church will celebrate its 50th anniversary today and will commemorate the event in more substantial manner during the summer by the erection of a tower and the dedication of new chimes. Dr. Clinton Locke, rector of the church for 25 years, will speak this morning in place of the present rector, the Rev. E. M. Stires.

KENTLAND, Ind.—Mr. and Mrs. John Ade, parents of George Ade of Chicago, will celebrate the golden anniversary of their wedding tomorrow.

CHICAGO.—John D. Winstandley, Yale '92, was drowned when a small boat in which he was sailing with Prof. H. W. Nichols, connected with the Field museum, and E. S. Rogers, 101 37th street, overturned near the entrance to Jackson park harbor. His companions kept afloat, but were near death from exhaustion. They will recover.

CHICAGO.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaw completed the first automobile trip between New York and Chicago in fast time. They left New York at 7:30 a. m. on May 8 and reached the Shaw residence at 6:57 p. m. May 18. Their actual running time was 98 hours and their average speed per hour was 11.23 miles. They were halted in Drexel boulevard by a sparrow cop for going more than 15 miles an hour. They were given a noisy welcome.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The condition of Mrs. McKinley, wife of the President, tonight is considered favorable, although the reappearance of the fever causes a little anxiety. Secretary Cortelyou reported that she had a comfortable day.

CHICAGO.—Gov. Yates was the chief guest of the Lincoln club last night at the formal opening of its new clubhouse, 1215 Washington boulevard.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 19, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Judge William H. Robertson is collector of the port of New York. Roscoe Conkling is not senator from the state of New York, and it is not certain that he will be reelected following his resignation over the nomination of Robertson. This is the result of the contest which began in the senate two months ago. Robertson was today confirmed unanimously and Gen. Merritt, whom he succeeded, was confirmed as consul general at London.

ALBANY, N. Y.—State Senator Husted declared that the New York legislature would fill the vacancies created by the resignations of Conkling and Platt before it adjourned. He also stated that neither Conkling nor Platt will be reelected. Hugh Hastings, veteran editor of the New York Commercial Advertiser, thinks that Gov. Cornell and Chauncey M. Depew will be the successful men.

CHICAGO.—The Illinois State Medical society in convention here elected the following officers: President, Robert Boal, Pegria; vice presidents, A. T. Darrah, Tolono, and Ella A. Ingersoll, Canton; treasurer, J. H. Hollister, Chicago; secretary, S. J. Jones, Chicago; and assistant secretary, W. A. Byrd, Quincy.

ROME.—A demonstration against the new Italian ministry took place at Milan. The troops charged the rioters and several persons were wounded. Barricades were raised in Florence and there were similar disturbances in other places.

TAXES.

Chicago, May 14.—If the citizens of the sovereign state of Illinois desire to make hard times harder and prolong the depression the proposed state income tax law will insure the greatest economic misery for everybody.

When County Treasurer McDonough reported that the collection of 1929 taxes indicated a shortage of $125,000,000, it must be evident that the long suffering citizens have been taxed to death.

The imposition of gasoline taxes, vehicle taxes, automobile license taxes, personal property taxes, federal income taxes, corporation taxes, etc., only means that in the last analysis the tax is passed on to the dear public in the form of higher rents and higher prices of commodities, thereby making the high cost of living higher.

The soft soap dispensed by the supporters of this state income tax bill that it will help the farmer does not appeal to any one that possesses ordinary horse sense. It would mean greater indirect taxes for the farmer in the form of higher prices for whatever he may buy.

So rally round the flag, boys, and shout for bigger and better taxes. The pyramiding of taxes has put the country on the rocks and is responsible for unemployment, hard times and a dead real estate market.

Thousands of citizens who are unable to pay their taxes are giving their property to the state, but when greater taxes are levied, Illinois will levy them. It is also proposed to tax tobacco and cigarets. Why not levy a tax on fallen arches? JOHN BURKE MONTGOMERY.

JUSTIFIED HASTE.

Chicago, May 15.—In the May 12 issue a letter entitled "Police in Haste" appeared, signed, "A Reader." The article was about squads passing 75th and Yates avenue at a terrific speed, on Saturday afternoon, May 9. The reader claimed that he followed them and that they were answering minor calls.

At 5:30, Saturday afternoon, I happened to be in my car on 75th and Stony Island avenue, when flivver squad No. 51 came by with their siren blowing. I followed the flivver squad; their siren sounded continuously, and at Jeffery avenue and Yates avenue they lessened their speed.

Their call brought them to 79th and Coles avenue, where a man had tried to commit suicide by gas. When the officers entered the residence I also entered. If it were not for the first aid rendered by one of the officers, the would-be suicide victim would have died before the pulmotor squad arrived. Nevertheless, a life was saved.

I hope that "A Reader" will have definite facts before writing again.

ANOTHER READER.

SOME OTHER PRICES.

Chicago, May 12.—I read your article the other morning saying do you remember way back when prices of foods and wearing apparel were—and noting how much they have come down today. You are correct, but why not tell us why monthly items such as gas, electricity, and telephone, etc., have not come down in proportion to wages? These concerns have reduced their working force to the extent that we are inconvenienced in receiving adequate service, without a reduction in price. E. P.

MAIDEN AUNT'S DAY.

Chicago, May 14.—We now have Children's day, Mother's day, and Father's day, and if Maiden Aunt's day were inaugurated I suppose we should also have Uncle's day, and why not Grandmother's day and Grandfather's day? It seems to me we should soon have quite a number of "relatives' days," and if they were all commercialized there would be little or no sentiment to them. I am sure practically all nieces and nephews are fond of their aunts and do repay in one way or another the kindnesses shown them; and aside from all that, the very thought that we can sometimes be of service to others, be that service small or great, should be recompense enough.

M. E. O.

AIRPLANE INSURANCE.

Chicago, May 14.—Now we have insurance against damages to property by aircraft. The home owner, who has invested the savings of a lifetime in a home, has to pay approximately one dollar per thousand per year for insurance against property damage due to airplanes. How at this his life is not protected.

Naturally we all want aviation, but a condition which costs the country millions and millions of dollars in insurance each year for protection is not desirable. Aircraft insurance should be carried where it originates. A prerequisite of a flying license or permit should be not only insurance against property damage, but damage to life and limb.

It certainly looks as though our state legislature should get busy and give home owners a break for once with adequate laws fixing aircraft liability and providing property damage and indemnity insurance as part of a flying license requirement. R. D. ALLERTON.

PLANS.

Chicago, May 14.—The tremendous enthusiasm already shown in Jubilee week gives complete evidence of the wisdom and foresightedness of the venture, and our mayor, the newspapers and other backers of the project are deserving of high commendation. There is no doubt that Jubilee week has helped to stimulate business and to spread a country-wide interest in the coming fair of 1933.

The time seems ripe to modify features within the city which in some measure detract from its beauty and importance. Let us start the subway, looping around State street, Wacker drive, Market street and Jackson boulevard, thus allowing for future extensions south of Madison, run the Market street "L," start the outer drive bridge, build a promenade north of the river, setting all present buildings back to the line of the Merchandise Mart, and build a new Illinois Central station.

The I. C. depot will be the main entrance and outlet for most visitors to the fair and something should be done to erect a new building worthy of the beauty and dignity of our city. This improvement, of course, should include the extension of Roosevelt road over the tracks, for easy accessibility to the fair grounds will be a great factor in the attendance at the fair and its consequent ultimate success.

The Wacker triangle might also be removed and in its stead build a smaller triangle more practical in design and purpose for the proper diversion of traffic. At present there is no link or safety isle connecting the west side of Wabash avenue and the bridge, and a pedestrian by following a straight line must necessarily step into a long stretch of pavement to get across. The suggestion made by another reader that this section be called Pioneer square, with a fitting monument to the Chicago pioneer in the center, was a splendid one. An impressive monument in the heart of this growing business section would be a great asset to the city and would rank Chicago among the few American cities with imposingly attractive public squares.

Chicago should also more loyally preserve its historical landmarks. The sites of first churches, buildings and important happenings, which could readily be determined through the Chicago Historical society, should be preserved with tablets and the information more widely circulated. Great cities have grown on romance, and it is a deeper knowledge and appreciation of romantic happenings in the past that will make our city the most colorful, gay and fascinating city in the world during and after the fair.

TY AERO GROUP AVORS FIELD AT MONTROSE AVE.

ts Downtown Airport Idea Given Trial.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

ayor Cermak's newly appointed commission held its first meeting the Morrison hotel yesterday and ussed thoroughly the possibilities a lake front airport for Chicago. the conclusion of the meeting a ma- ity of the commission favored the ea of asking the Lincoln park commis- ners to convert the site opposite ontrose avenue into a temporary air rt whereby the whole idea of an land could be tested.

ome opposition was voiced against the Montrose proposition, but it was learned after the meeting that the opposing views originated with a group of private individuals who are endeavoring to form a syndicate of Chicago business men with a view to building an island airport, operate it as a private venture and lease the use to the city for the use of air mail, passenger and taxi operations.

Aid to World's Fair.

The majority of the commissioners, however, supported the views of Maj. A. F. Schroeder that a centrally lo- cated airport is an important ad- junct of the World's Fair plans. After pointing all possibilities, Maj. Schroe- der said that the area of filled land at Montrose offers the only possibility of building a central airport for the general use of travelers during the exposition.

"The site can be made usable for airplanes at no great expense and with little difficulty," he said, "and if, after the fair, some other purpose is found for the land the airport can be sus- pended and the land easily converted into a golf course or whatever the park authorities think advisable. In the meantime it can be earning a sub- stantial revenue for the park board through landing fees, etc."

Ald. John A. Massen, Maj. Phil Kenn, E. E. Manning, Thomas Wolfe and other commissioners agreed. Chairman M. C. Meigs will appoint a committee to study the proposal with a view to taking a definite stand on the question later.

Extra Tax Is Impossible.

Ald. Massen pointed out that dur- ing the present condition of the city's finances extra taxation for a lake front airport is out of the question. Looking into the future, however, he pictured a central downtown terminal with suplementary fields on the north and south sides.

It was also brought out that au- thorities at Northwestern university have discussed the possibility of build- ing an island airport near Evanston in connection with campus extension plans.

Walter W. Wright, director of the Chicago airport, reported that the work of improving the city field was progressing rapidly. Work has started on the administration building, the taxi aprons and the leveling of the southwest field, he said. A total of $420,000 is being expended in this im- provement.

Wright urged that plans be made immediately to zone the area sur- rounding the airfield in the interests of safety to aircraft and to the future development of the field.

Winsor Williams was elected secre- tary of the new commission and George B. Foster of the Chicago As- sociation of Commerce, vice chairman.

AVIATION PROGRESS RAPID LAST YEAR, PRESIDENT IS TOLD

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Spe- cial.]—Commercial aviation marched steadily ahead during the last year under supervision of the aeronautics branch of the department of com- merce, every phase of the industry gaining so rapidly that now the fed- eral airway system is superior to that of any nation or group of nations, Col. Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aviation, said in a report to President Hoover today.

The industrial side of aviation, he said, has been benefited by manufac- turing methods, changing from a large number of producing units to a highly specialized group.

Construction of federal airways, lighting for night flying and radio aids for flyers progressed according to the schedule, Col. Young reported. Lighted airways increased from 13,400 miles to 15,300 miles and intermediate fields from 315 to 370.

PLUMBING TRADE TO SEEK WAY TO SPEED BUILDING

A meeting of contractors, whole- salers and manufacturers in the plumb- ing industry in Chicago and suburbs will be held in the assembly hall of the New Masonic temple tonight to discuss ways to increase employment in the building trades. A dinner and entertainment will precede the discus- sion.

A program demonstrating the cor- rect and incorrect methods of sales- manship will be given.

The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Wholesale and Retail Plumbing Industries of the metropoli- tan district. The committee in charge of arrangements includes R. A. Fergu- son, 1314 West 63d street; Charles Gawne, 808 North Clark street, and Michael Melo, 3347 Harrison street, contractors, and William J. Spillane of J. B. Clow & Sons, Charles Barrows of the Crane company, and Harry Yel- ton of the Inland Supply company, wholesalers.

Sentenced as Rum Seller, He Gets Job Painting Jail

Sentenced for selling liquor, Glisky's business acumen asserted itself and he landed a contract to paint the Chippewa county buildings. He was allowed enough liberty to do the work. His term is profitable in more ways than one for while getting paid for painting, the county from which he was sentenced must pay for his board and room.

GIGANTIC SOVIET FARM MACHINE PLANT A FAILURE

Chaos Reigns; Workers Suffer Injuries.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROSTOV-ON-DON, U. S. S. R., April 21.—[By Mail.]—Selmashstroi, a vast agricultural implement factory here, is one of the catastrophes of the five year plan. Enlarged from a small concern already in operation, the new plant was begun in 1926 and began production last year with an imposing schedule.

Thus far, it has proved a failure, despite its array of costly imported machinery, and the swarms of workmen on its pay rolls. It is operated "hit or miss," with no sequence. There is no organization and the yards are cluttered with half-finished and unassembled apparatus.

More than 12,000 men and women are employed in the shops, bumping into one another, treading on each other's toes, standing idly by watching such machines as are running, or holding animated discussions in corners and in the inevitable "coöp" restaurants—one is attached to each unit in the plant—over their tea.

Chaos and Lethargy.

An American factory would be operating and producing the scheduled requirements with 2,500 employés. This is the judgment of experts, including Russians with experience in the United States, who are dismayed at the chaos and lethargy displayed here.

The central office building alone, a five-story concrete and plate glass affair, houses more than 1,000 employés, clerks, stenographers, and secretaries. Administration of a similar plant in the United States for equal scheduled production and with the requisite number of workers, 2,500, would be carried on by an office force of 100.

Every section and subdepartment of Selmashstroi has its little private office staff, 400 to 500 in all. In America an additional hundred persons at most would check up in the various departments.

200 "Engineers" at Work.

There are 200 Russian "engineers" employed at Selmashstroi, feverishly working over plans and blue prints, whereas an American factory of similar dimensions would not require the services of more than a dozen. It takes graduate engineers to do what section superintendents and boss foremen do in the United States.

Selmashstroi operates with an average of 45 major accidents per month, such as the amputation of a hand or arm, a crushed foot, loss of an eye, or bad burns, which are often fatal. In the United States a third of that number, 15 per month, would probably result in legal investigations into the plant's operation.

Thus, industrial experts see the fallacy of propaganda to the effect that state owned industry can be operated more economically than that privately owned through elimination of costly overhead. And whereas private business must either produce and succeed, or fail and close down, government industry, these experts contend, can go right along operating at a loss as long as the state continues to print paper money to pay its employés.

From Vest to Pants Pocket.

Soviet plows, which cost about $3,000 to produce in the infinitesimal quantities they are turned out, are sold to the state farms and collectivized farms at $1,250 each. If any one criticizes this frenzied finance the reply is:

"Well, nobody is a loser, since the state bought from the state. It took money from its vest pocket and put it in the pants pocket."

Selmashstroi is located in a suburb of Rostov, Nakechevan, about five miles from town. It can be reached via a crowded street car line or a short cut on foot through woods, infested by ragged and famished hobos, who hold up passersby nightly, not only robbing them of their valuables, but stripping them of their clothing and leaving them stark naked to seek aid.

There have been three murders within a week in this little woods, and even the G. P. U., or secret police, seems impotent to cope with the hobo-banditz.

Selmashstroi concentrated on farm machinery. It makes farm wagons, seeders, plows, binders, hay mowers, hay loaders, rakes, and combines. Many machines are patterned after those of the International Harvester company, even bearing the name in Russian script, "Mak Kormak," stenciled in red paint.

Millions for Installation.

Millions of rubles have been expended for installing the machinery. I saw batteries of machines from the National Acme company, Windsor, Vt.; whole lines of Ayey drill presses, Cincinnati milling machines, General Electric motors, Defiance Machine works products, Landis grinders from Waynesboro, Pa.; La Pointe machine tools from Hudson, Mass.; Foote Burt borers from Cleveland, La Blond multicuts from Cincinnati, sledges from the High Speed Hammer company, Rochester, N. Y.; German Magdeburg lathes, Baker Brothers, Inc., boring mills from Toledo, and big presses from the Lenin factory at Odessa.

Most of the trouble in Selmashstroi centers around the foundries for gray iron, malleable iron, and steel. Nobody seems to be able to make this department function. None seems to understand molding. The men are careless in handling molten metal and have not the proper equipment for protection against splashes.

There have been atrocious accidents. The workers do not wear the special waxed garments and shoes from which molten iron will run off harmless, like water from a duck's back, as they wear in America. Instead they are clad in their ragged cotton trousers and broken felt boots, where a drop or a spark of the fiery metal eats through to skin and bone, inflicting injuries.

Protection Costs Too Much.

"It costs too much; we do not make it, and we cannot stand the expense of importing it," officials reply when it is pointed out that proper equipment would save their foundry crews from this menace. No one takes into consideration the fact that an additional expenditure of a few thousand dollars would assist materially in enabling the colossal plant, which cost millions, to operate.

In the forge and press shop they grind and polish discs for seeders and harrows. The operators were not properly instructed in handling the high speed mechanical polishers, and when they relaxed the pressure holding the discs against the revolving emery wheels, they flew off, severing arms and legs and inflicting such fearful accidents the department had to be closed down while new crews were organized.

Train Young People.

Factory officials explain the enormous pay roll and the myriad of workers with the assertion that they are training many girls and boys to become mechanics. There are a number of young people of 17 to 19 years in the various departments, working as apprentices, but they are on supplementary pay rolls, receiving only a few kopecks a day.

RUSSIAN AGENT SEES CHICAGO AS BEST CITY IN COUNTRY

Chicago is the American city of greatest interest to the builders of the new economic Russia, according to A. V. Gortchakoff, representative of the Russian state tourist agency, who recently arrived in this country and who is spending three days in Chicago.

"The beauty of the city and the growth in industry are the two things that interest our people," he said. "I never heard of your Al Capone until I arrived in the United States."

There is no unemployment problem in Russia, Mr. Gortchakoff said. He declared that Americans are welcomed to Russia and that they are free to go anywhere, while all troubles about soviet visas have been eliminated. The new tourist agency has spent, he said, about ten million rubles in new hotels and tourist bases, and arrangements have been made to care for 20,000 tourists this summer. This will be an increase of 15,000 over last year's trade.

Two groups of American business men of about 25 each are sailing next month for 28 day tours of the republic, taking in the chief points of business and agricultural activity. These tours are under the auspices of the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce, of which Hugh Cooper is president.

Butler Arrives in Oregon to Organize State Police

Portland, Ore., May 18.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler of the marine corps arrived today to assist Oregon officials in organizing a state constabulary. He went to Menucha to confer with Gov. Julius L. Meier, at whose invitation he came here. He expects to remain in Oregon nine or ten days.

POLISH AUTOISTS STRIKE; PROTEST NEW ROAD TAX

WARSAW, Poland, May 18.—(AP)—The motorless age returned to various parts of Poland today as private motorists observed a nation-wide strike as a protest against a road tax recently passed by parliament to obtain funds for highway improvements.

Streets of the capital, Lodz, Posnan, and Kranow were deserted so far as automotive vehicles were concerned, with the exception of municipal buses and trucks, which were kept running.

Automobile dealers reported no sales last week, and another effect noted since the passage of the tax has been a return of licenses in Warsaw alone by some 500 motorists, who have sold their machines. Some provincial bus owners have declared they must remove the motors from their vehicles and return to actual horse power to continue operations. Motorists say it is impossible during the present hard times to pay the tax and maintain their cars.

Coast Guard Rescues Two When Boat Upsets in Lake

Austin Barfield, 23 years old, 540 Cornelia avenue, owner of a small catboat, and John A. Groth, 540 Brompton place, were rescued yesterday by coast guardsmen when the boat upset about half mile out in Lake Michigan off Chestnut street. Both men were thrown into the water and were clinging to the side of the boat when picked up by Capt. John O. Anderson of the coast guard. Angelo Barrow, 855 Milton avenue, saw the men struggling to keep the boat upright. Suddenly it capsized. He called the coast guard.

"I'M going, anyway"

THE modern Miss needs no "time out" for the time of month.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to assure your complete comfort. If it is genuine aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing but stop the pain.

Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colds. But a little Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. A throat so sore you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

"I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

"May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince anyone."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at any drug-store in America. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

Follow These Simple Rules:

1. Each evening for 42 consecutive evenings (not including Saturdays) W-G-N will broadcast 3 songs of yesterday—"Tune Tangles." On each day following the broadcast the Chicago Tribune will print a "Tune Tangle" Crossword Puzzle. Each puzzle will contain the title of one of the songs broadcast the preceding evening. You are invited to listen to the broadcast, solve the Tune Tangle Crossword in the next day's Tribune and name the song.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules. NOTE: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 42 Tune Tangles completely to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. The prizes are as follows:

1st Prize			$1,000.00
2nd Prize			500.00
3rd Prize			250.00

Next 310 Prizes,	5.00	each	1,550.00
430 Prizes, Totaling			$5,000.00

4. This offer is open to everyone—man, woman, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

5. Tune Tangle Crosswords are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Tune Tangles," Chicago Tribune, Post office Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight, 10 days after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed.

6. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Contestants may submit as many sets of puzzles as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

7. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or have the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

8. The Judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

"that night"

every man in the room wanted to dance with me"

CLOTHES really can change your personality! This Spring it came over me that I was getting into a sort of rut. My clothes were dull, and I was dull—I didn't seem to have any pep or charm or anything.

"I have long been interested in your Paris patterns, so I sent for three of them, chose the materials with care, and the dressmaker and I worked them out together. The results are too fascinating!

"The night I wore my new evening frock every man in the room wanted to dance with me.

"It isn't only that these are the loveliest dresses I ever had—I feel like a different person in them; younger, better looking, and more interesting."

To wear the right dress on the right occasion—the right accessories with the right dress; to plan one's wardrobe to fit one's income and one's personality—these are things in which the Journal's Paris patterns and fashion articles are giving thousands of women clear, definite, authoritative guidance.

"Giving our boy his chance..."

"When my boy was gasping out his life with pneumonia I promised myself that if only he could be saved, he should have a better chance in future. The doctor said Jackie needed more sunshine and out-of-doors. So now we are moving to the suburbs. It was your tempting display of Journal House Patterns that gave us the courage to decide on building. The plans arrived yesterday—House No. 334—and I felt I must just sit down and tell you how enthusiastic we are about them. My husband was especially pleased with the cardboard model; he and Jackie spent most of Sunday painting it."

Now—a cut-out model, drawn to scale, with Journal House Patterns!

"I'd rather have my baby..."

"I wanted to be a singer. After I married and settled down to a humdrum life of domesticity, I used to have bitter regrets sometimes.

"But not since my baby came. I would rather have my baby than the most wonderful career. Your magazine has helped me so much with her—not only in keeping her splendidly healthy and well, so that I have never had to have a doctor for her, but also in giving me many ideas for her future training. I want my baby to have the best chance in the world..."

It is natural for young people, full of fire and talent and enthusiasm, to dream of a great career; and it is natural—and fortunate—that in the great majority of lives, reality conquers. The Journal is helping countless young wives, young mothers, to find fulfilment and reward in the common lot.

In June—a splendid article by Dr. Josephine Baker on "Some Common Problems of Childhood."

More than 2,600,000 modern women look to the Ladies' Home Journal for guidance—not only on how to buy and spend, create and enjoy—but also on how to live.

BLOND SAT ON FOREMAN'S LAP, 2 WITNESSES SAY

Testify in Separation Suit vs. Rich Clothier.

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Two former employés of A. Winfield Foreman, wealthy clothing manufacturer of Chicago and Los Angeles testified in Supreme court here today to having seen a personable young blond, identified as one Loretta Johnson, sitting pajama clad in the manufacturer's lap.

The testimony was one of several highlights of the trial of the separation suit which Mrs. Florence Foreman, former motion picture actress, is pressing against her millionaire husband. Mrs. Elizabeth Clifford, housekeeper in the Foreman home here, was the first to testify to the lap sitting episode. Later Bessie Fahy, maid, took the stand and corroborated her. They agreed in describing Miss Johnson as being "about Mrs. Foreman's age."

Witness Chews Gum.

Mrs. Maude Walker, sister of Mrs. Foreman and Johnny Walker, a motion picture actor and brother-in-law of Mrs. Foreman, testified that the manufacturer was "abusive" toward his wife.

Walker appeared on the witness stand chewing gum.

"Do you always chew gum?" Foreman's attorney, former Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney demanded of him.

"Yes," was the ready retort—"because I can't smoke it."

Walker testified that Foreman gave his wife an automobile on one occasion but quickly added:

"He kept the title to the car in his own name. He was an Indian giver."

Asks Walker If He's an Indian.

"Are you an Indian?" Mahoney wanted to know.

"Well, you can figure it out for yourself," said Walker. "I was born in America."

Benjamin S. Kerin, head of a private detective service, told of making a raid on Foreman's Park avenue apartment at the instance of the manufacturer's wife and of finding Miss Johnson in the defendant's company. Foreman, he said, was wearing pajamas. Kerin said he saw a photograph of Miss Johnson in the manufacturer's bedroom.

From the lips of Loren Foreman, brother of the defendant, the court heard that Foreman, instead of being extremely wealthy, draws a total of only $60,000 in salary annually from his company, "in addition to the income he receives from stock."

Loren Foreman was positive his brother had not "really" received $5,500,000 from his company within two years as the plaintiff's counsel tried to show.

EDISON QUESTIONS FOR BRIGHTEST BOYS TO BE DISCONTINUED

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—The famous Edison scholarship test which gave such an impetus to "twenty questions" and similar games, has been discontinued, John B. Miller, executive secretary to Thomas A. Edison, announced today.

The one question which the newspapers wished to ask Mr. Edison, who has asked so many questions himself—namely, "Why have they been discontinued?"—the Edison headquarters declined to answer.

As a result of this decision there will be no pilgrimage of the forty-nine brightest boys in the country to Menlo Park this year.

The two Edison winners were Wilbur Huston in 1929 and Arthur Q. Williams Jr. last year. Both received worldwide publicity. The judges last year, in addition to Mr. Edison, were Lewis Perry, principal of Phillips Exeter academy; Henry Ford, Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president of the University of Indiana; Harvey S. Firestone, and Dr. Hubert S. Howe, neurologist, of Columbia university.

The Edison tests from the start received great publicity, due chiefly to the character of the questions. The questions on personal conduct offered a great variety of answers, while the scientific questions, to the lay mind appeared to be couched in strange language.

M'DONALD OPENS ACTIVE WAR ON HOUSE OF LORDS

LONDON, May 18. — (AP) — Prime Minister MacDonald today made an open declaration of war on the house of lords in a letter to the Labor candidate in the Rutherglen by-election, which takes place on Thursday.

"Servile to every whim and proposal of the Conservative party," the letter said, "the lords return to a life of hostility as soon as a Labor government begins to unfold its policy.

"We have built up the Labor party; we have asked the people to trust to the ballot box and political methods; we have spent time and money in elections, and when we have done everything which a political democracy can do, a body of irresponsible political partisans which keeps the Tory party always in power is in a position to defy a government so elected and a majority so declared.

"If this country is to escape the turmoils through which others have gone the menacing challenge of the house of lords must be faced and the mass of the electors must be assured that representative democracy is not a combination of words but an effective power."

HIS ALIMONY TO THREE WIVES IS $2,100 A MONTH

MRS. D. N. MEYER.

Alimony payments of Hugo Meyer, 52 years old, head of the Motorists' Association of Illinois, mounted to $2,100 a month yesterday when Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude ordered temporary alimony of $75 a week to his third wife, Mrs. Dewey Newton Meyer of the Southmoor hotel. Meyer is now paying $1,800 a month to two former wives, according to his attorney, C. W. Armstrong.

The third Mrs. Meyer divorced her first husband, Joel Newton, on Nov. 19, 1930, at Reno. On the same day Meyer won a divorce before Superior Judge John J. Sullivan from his second wife, Mrs. Hilda Jane Meyer. He hastened to Reno, where he married his present wife two days later and started for Chicago with her that night. In her suit for separate maintenance Mrs. Meyer declared she got off the train at North Platte, Neb., because of her husband's cruelty.

Her attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich, asked for $750 a month alimony. When Meyer's other payments were cited the judge set temporary alimony at $75 a week and continued the hearing until June 8 to permit Attorney Ehrlich to present evidence on his contention that Meyer's income is $100,000 a year.

OFFICER LYNCHED BY A MOB; BODY THROWN INTO SEA

LIMA, Peru, May 18.—(AP)—The government today confirmed the lynching by a mob at Mollendo of Lieut. Col. Abel Salazar, former subprefect of Arequipa.

Travelers who said they witnessed the lynching told how the officer shot and killed one of a group of persons who sought to arrest him at a hotel where he was living. A mob formed, beating him to death and throwing his body into the sea.

Yours-any hour of the day!

With production already crowding distribution, sales must be made when and where sales are needed.

And, there's only one effective way to reach and influence hundreds of thousands of prospects—quickly! That way—is—the newspaper.

For the power of the press is a flexible, strategic power. You can use it at the exact day and hour when markets must be won and orders must be found.

The newspaper works as you want it to work.

It strikes its powerful blows for you at the precise moment when they are most effective for you.

You can hook it up with the weather. You can adapt it to the seasons. You can tie it in with your dealers' needs. You can speed it up when concentrated sales effort is needed. You can adjust it to price or style change.

That's newspaper advertising. What other medium can give such flexibility?

That's the force which is yours to use in The Globe-Democrat. What a timely market awaits you here—not just a city market but the market of the great 49th State.

Know how swiftly The Globe-Democrat will open the trade channels in this essential market for you—a market so easily reached—so easily covered—so easily sold.

The St. Louis market extends for a radius of 150 miles beyond the technical confines of the city.

WOMAN FORCED TO ACCUSE 2 IN COURT; FAINTS

Witness at Trial of Alleged Killers.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Julia West, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary at Dwight by Judge Charles A. Williams.

Mrs. Mary Schubert, 23 years old, 2033 West Erie street, collapsed yesterday in Judge Charles A. Williams Criminal court when she was compelled to give testimony against John Senew, 24 years old, of Elmwood Park, and Walter [Doc] Evenow, 28 years old, 1529 West Cullerton street, who are on trial for the murder of Policeman William J. Rumbler. She said she was "keeping company" with Senew at the time and that she had just kissed him good-by prior to the police raid on her home in search of the men.

MRS. MARY SCHUBERT.

Woman Is Reluctant Witness.

Mrs. Schubert was a reluctant witness, answering the prosecutor's questions with a curt yes or no and never volunteering any testimony which might be detrimental to the defense. When she was called down from the witness stand to pick out the clothes of Senew—they are bloodstained, the state charges, from wounds inflicted by the policeman before he died—she fell to the floor in a faint. An adjournment had to be taken until she was revived.

Policeman Rumbler was shot to death in James Purcelli's soft drink parlor, 3174 Milwaukee avenue, on Oct. 12, last year.

Rumbler was off duty at the time. The shooting, the prosecution charges, was the result of an attempted robbery. Both defendants were wounded and the policeman killed. Senew and Evenow sought refuge at Mrs. Schubert's home. Evenow was arrested there, but Senew fled just as the police arrived. Mrs. Schubert was called on to tell of the men being wounded and refusing to allow her to call a physician.

Doctor Tells of Threats.

Dr. Michael Palmisano, 1334 West Grand avenue, was also a witness. He said he was compelled to treat the men under threats of death and that was why he did not notify the police at once.

Purcelli was the other state witness yesterday. He partly identified the defendants as the robbers as the men who exchanged shots with Policeman Rumbler.

The prosecution charges that both defendants voluntarily confessed the crime after they were arrested. Attorney Thaddeus C. Toudor for the defense claims that the confessions were obtained by duress. He will, he says, today demand a hearing outside of the presence of the jury on the question of whether the confessions were obtained voluntarily and are admissible as evidence.

NOTABLES OF TWO NATIONS ATTEND MRS. REID RITES

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—In sunlight tempered and tinted by the stained glass window she gave to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in memory of her husband, funeral services for Mrs. Whitelaw Reid were held today.

Notables of two nations and representatives of a score of organizations which have shared in her philanthropies were among the throng which filled the majestic structure on Morningside Heights.

Bishop William T. Manning conducted the full Episcopalian burial service for the dead, aided by the Very Rev. Dr. Milo H. Gates, dean of the cathedral; the Rev. Dr. B. Talbot Rogers, brother of Mrs. Reid, and the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of Riverside church.

Forming vivid points of color among the 1,200 mourners who filled the pews were fifty Red Cross nurses and fifty blue clad girls from the Bellevue Hospital Training School for Nurses.

Members of the immediate family present included Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, Lady Ward and Sir John Ward, sister and brother-in-law of Ogden Reid; Mrs. Florence Ferguson, his sister, and Whitelaw Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Reid.

King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambaibarni of Siam, in residence at Ophir Hall, the summer estate of the late Mrs. Reid, who were unable to attend the funeral because of the operation which the king underwent a week ago, was represented by Prince and Princess Svasti, father and mother of the queen; Prince Omoradat Kridakara, Siamese minister to the United States, and several members of the king's suite.

Mrs. Reid died of pneumonia in France April 29.

Jails Bandit Knocked Out by Radio in a Flat

Charles Miller, 45 years old, who was knocked out as he was looting the flat of Andrew Matlik, 7201 Perry avenue, when a radio tumbled on his head as he jerked at a chest of drawers was arraigned before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court yesterday. The judge held him in bonds of $10,000 to the grand jury on a charge of robbery and sentenced him to a year in the House of Correction and fined him $100 for carrying a gun.

CUBAN CONGRESS STARTS BILL TO OUST MACHADO

HAVANA, May 18.—(AP)—The way was cleared today for consideration by congress of the constitutional reforms proposed by 15 opposition members. The principal object of the reforms is to terminate the president's stay in office at some time before May 20, 1935.

President Machado was permitted to seek reelection in 1928 for six years, by virtue of constitutional amendments approved at the 1928 constitutional convention, which his opponents hold exceeded its authority.

A disturbance took place at Sancti Spiritus, Santa Clara province, last night, when a score of reputed Nationalists took up arms in what was said to be a movement against the government. This, with subsequent arrests of 12 Nationalist leaders in Santiago, provided the only outward indications of the tension, said by some to presage revolution, that grips parts of the island.

Vote to Curb Power of Salvation Army Chief

LONDON, May 18.—(AP)—The Salvation Army bill, aimed at "democratizing" the organization and which would deprive Gen. Higgins of much power, passed the commons on third reading by a vote of 231 to 31. Frank Smith, Labor member, charged that Gen. Higgins was "a party to providing the only black page in the history of the Salvation Army." The speaker intervened as Smith continued his charges. The bill now goes to the house of lords.

Sixteen Girls Indicted for First Degree Arson

Carthage, N. C., May 18.—(AP)—Sixteen girls were indicted for first degree arson, a capital offense in North Carolina, by a Moore county grand jury here today. They are charged with the burning March 12 of two buildings at Samarcand, in Moore county, state institution for delinquent girls.

Senator Bulkley, Ohio, Guest of Senator Lewis

Senator Robert Bulkley of Ohio was a guest of Senator James Hamilton Lewis in Chicago yesterday. The visit, according to the senators, had no political significance, although their views on the prohibition question are practically identical. Senator Bulkley returned last night to his home in Cleveland.

13 Rescued from Small Craft in Catalina Fog

San Pedro, Cal., May 18.—[Special.]—Coast guard vessels saved thirteen persons off distressed yachts and other small craft in fog shrouded Catalina channel today. One boat, Erma III., a small yacht sailing from Avalon harbor to the mainland, is still sought.

H. E. GREENEBAUM, VETERAN RETIRED BANKER, IS DEAD

Henry E. Greenebaum, retired banker who first became identified with Chicago financial institutions in 1872, died yesterday in the Grant hospital. Although in frail health for several years, Mr. Greenebaum, who was 76 years old, was not confined to bed until Friday. Mr. Greenebaum was a native of Chicago and was educated in the public schools. He was with the First National bank in 1872 and with his father's banking firm, Greenebaum & Foreman, in 1873. After an interim in New York he returned to Chicago in 1877 and founded the Greenebaum Sons, Inc., firm, which later became Greenebaum Sons Bank and Trust company, and still later the Bank of America.

H. E. GREENEBAUM.

Two years ago Mr. Greenebaum retired both from the Bank of America and the Greenebaum Sons Investment company. He is survived by two sons, John and Walter, and a daughter, Mrs. Samuel Nast. His wife, Mrs. Helen Greenebaum, died about three months ago.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at Rosehill cemetery.

GertrudeM'KinleyKennedy Dies; Cousin of President

Mrs. Gertrude McKinley Kennedy, 41 years old, died yesterday at her home, 5548 Wayne avenue, after a long illness. She was the wife of Matt J. Kennedy, former president of the Piano Club of Chicago and was a second cousin of President William McKinley. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter. Funeral services will be held from the residence at 9:30 a. m. Thursday to St. Ita's church. Burial will be in All Saints' cemetery.

Daughter of Lincoln's Law Partner Is Dead

Springfield, Ill., May 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Maria Herndon Fleury, 88, whose father, William H. Herndon, practised law with Abraham Lincoln, died today after a week's illness.

MRS. SARAH DOGGETT, A CRUSADER AGAINST SALOONS, DIES AT 93

Hillsboro, O., May 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Sarah Doggett, 93, one of the few survivors of the Women of the Crusade, died here today.

Mrs. Doggett was one of those present in 1873 when Dr. Dio Lewis, physician and lecturer, conducted a series of lectures on prohibition. Later the women met in the First Presbyterian church, the pastor of which was Dr. William McSurely, father of Judge William H. McSurely of Chicago.

Then, for days, the women marched to the front of the many saloons and liquor stores in the town and prayed, kneeling in the snow, that the saloon and inkeepers reform and close their places. They also tried moral suasion on the saloon men.

Some of the Crusaders' men folks are reported to have tried to persuade them from their activities; the saloon men tried court action. Injunctions were issued against the women leaders, but others took their places and finally the saloon men capitulated and their places closed.

The movement spread to other Ohio towns and finally became the foundation of the W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Doggett had resided in Hillsboro for 75 years.

CAREY U. SNYDER DEAD; MOLASSES COMPANY CHIEF

Word was received here yesterday of the death Sunday night in New York of Carey Urban Snyder, president of C. U. Snyder & Co., molasses distributors, 208 South La Salle street. Mr. Snyder was also president of the Commercial Car line. He was 50 years old and lived at the Sovereign hotel. Mr. Snyder is survived by his widow, Bertha, and a daughter, Elizabeth. The body will be brought to Chicago today. He was a member of Union League club, Chicago Athletic association, and Evanston Golf club.

HoldFuneral forEdwinDun, Former U.S.Envoy. inTokio

TOKIO, May 18.—(AP)—Funeral services for Edwin Dun, United States minister to Japan 38 years ago, were held here today. He died Saturday. Dun came to Japan 60 years ago as an agricultural expert. He was credited with introducing the American apple which now flourishes in Japan, Corea and Manchuria. After serving as minister, Dun was associated for years with the Japanese government experimental farm.

SOLDIERS KILL 7 ELECTION DAY RIOTERS IN EGYPT

CAIRO, Egypt, May 18.—(AP)—Seven deaths and a number of injuries today marked the end of Egyptian first degree elections. The casualties occured in three villages of Dakahlia province, where mobs attacked the police, who then opened fire. Premier Sidky Pasha said this evening 65 per cent of the entire electorate had voted and the verdict was in favor of the new constitution.

"I have fulfilled my promise to the country," he said in a speech. "I have introduced a new constitution. I have held the elections and the country will exist under a constitution henceforth."

The premier deplored the bloodshed, but said that if the government had not taken repressive measures "the whole country might have given itself up to anarchy." Under the new constitution, which the Nationalists or Wafdists bitterly opposed, the delegates, elected at the present elections, will meet June 1 to choose members of parliament.

WALTER UNGER, IN SYMPHONY 26 YEARS, DIES AT 62

Walter Unger, one of the founders of the Chicago Symphony orchestra and for twenty-six years a cellist with that organization, died yesterday of heart disease in his home at 711 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park. He was 62 years old. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 720 Lake street, Oak Park.

Mr. Unger became acquainted with Theodore Thomas, first conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, at the time of the 1893 Chicago World's Fair. He later succeeded Victor Herbert, famous composer, as cellist in the orchestra before it was formally endowed under the name it bears at present. He was also a member of the Max Bendix string quartet before his retirement from the orchestra twelve years ago. He was born in Leipsig, Germany. He is survived by his son George.

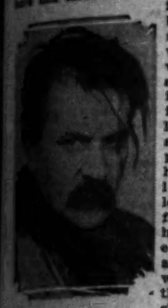
Europe's Comic Opera Kingdom Has Grim Side

Bercovici Tells Scandals of His Rumania.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

KONRAD BERCOVICI has, during the last thirteen years, made an international name for himself through his stories of Rumanian peasant life. His tales have had thrill as well as authenticity. He was born in Rumania, but when he was 18 he and his family were exiled for political reasons. The politics of his native land never lost interest for him. He has lectured extensively as well as written on the political situation in Rumania.



KONRAD BERCOVICI.

"That Royal Lover" [Brewer & Warren] is his latest word on the comic opera political situation in Rumania written with the thrill of Mr. Bercovici's best romantic writing.

"The king—or the queen—can do no wrong" certainly is an outmoded myth in literature these days.

It is incredible, the story which Mr. Bercovici tells of the royal family of his native land. The world has heard much of what he sets down, either as belated historical incidents or as gossip which travels faster than the press can print it. But the whole picture of his charges of intrigues, of immorality, the tyranny, the greed, the wrecking of a nation for the monetary aggrandizement of two or three individuals—seems something out of the dark ages instead of the record of a nation surrounded by republics, communes, and fascist states. All of these neighbors might have been expected to have some faint interest effect upon royal roughand methods with the peasants, even if the peasants themselves were not infected with the idea of mass, instead of class rule. That a governing family anywhere in Europe nowadays could so lightly hold its human subjects, so bleed them and their country on the one hand and so complacently accept the recent history of Russia, for instance, on the other, is a startling story. Mr. Bercovici tells it with skill not for the reader, excitement.

The title of the book, "That Royal Lover," applies, one takes it, to King Carol, whose affairs of the heart have loomed as so many front pages of the newspapers all over the world that he might well wear such an appellation across his breast. But the title fits his mother, according to the author of it. Queen Marie emerges from the pages of Mr. Bercovici's volume with almost more affairs to her credit than her son. The first picture of her in the book is this: "Before the first child was born her name had been coupled with this and that other man and the scandal had become so apparent that even Ferdinand, who had let her have her own way until then, rose in wrath. . . . What the queen did was taken as example by the social set. Marital fidelity in the higher classes in Rumania became a joke. . . . To be in style every lady who respected herself had at least one lover and frequently more. . . . On the eve of the war even Marie's own children cast doubts about the paternity of their brothers and sisters. One of Marie's daughters, the Queen of Jugo-Slavia, has publicly referred to one of her sisters as 'Mrs. Stirbey.'"

The last picture of the queen is of her submission to her son, Carol, a submission which puzzled him impensely. "And then," says Mr. Bercovici, "the secret leaked out. Queen Marie had gone to Mamaia with a new friend, a young officer. Bucharest was laughing up its sleeves at the

U. OF C.'S OWN LEAGUE OF NATIONS CONVENES WITH 500 DELEGATES

The third annual model league of nations, participated in by students of 18 colleges and universities in 5 midwestern states, opened yesterday in Mandel hall at the University of Chicago. Five hundred student delegates participated.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago addressed the delegates on the meaning and working of the league. He stated that every one should have an idea of the working of the league due to the effect it has on its member nations.

The model league voted to admit Brazil, but unanimously voted against the admission of the U. S. S. R. The league meeting continues today and tonight.

Good Morning!

Yes—"The Secret Six" is another gangster melodrama. Yes—it's a lot like all the rest. But, No—it doesn't bore you. You see, it has Wallace Beery as piece de resistance. Mr. Beery's comicality casts a golden glow over the movie's sordidity and gives it superiority over other films of like precivity. [Like that?]

From a sticker of pigs, Scorpio [I can't remember his last name and couldn't spell it if I did] is elevated to the position of beer runner—and killer of men. He becomes one of a gang controlled by Newton, a brilliant lawyer gone wrong, who directs the activities of his subalterns with acumen. Newton is a briber of juries, a stander-in with the police—a shrewd customer however you look at him, and his men respect and fear him. He bails 'em out of jail, defends them in the court room and snatches them from under the nose of the electric chair.

While he can. There comes a time when, owing to the activities of "The Secret Six," he finds the strength gone out of him. He meets his end, however, at the hands of Scorpio and dies remarking philosophically:

"I had it coming to me. It's the first time I ever turned my back to you, you rat. . . .!"

Who are "The Secret Six"? Citizens' law and order committee.

This picture is effectively acted throughout with Lewis Stone, Marjorie Rambeau, and Clark Gable doing especially nice work. Girls, what about Clark Gable? He has the CUTEST dimples! Shall we make a star of him?

The best lines and lion's share of the laughs fall to Mr. Beery. He's as good in "The Secret Six" as he was in "The Big House."

Some dramatic situations, clever photography and fast action add zest to this piece. And, O yes, it has a moral, which is that Crime Doesn't Pay.

KIND: War Drama.
QUALITY: Fair.
PHOTOGRAPHY: Splendid.
DIRECTION: Labored.
ACTING: Excellent.
SOUND: Oke.
STORY: Concerns four men who go to war. You see them in action and learn through flashbacks of their lives previous to enlistment and just WHY they became soldiers.

REMARKS: This movie has a good basic idea and a worthy purpose. The idea is to impress on the mind the real motives behind most wars and the waste and futility of human carnage. The purpose is, of course, to discourage further bloodshed. There are some bright comedy interludes, featuring for the most part the droll, tough, lovable James Gleason. Zasu Pitts is funny as his knife throwing spouse. But purpose and sparkle are swathed and dulled by the tedious, everlasting sameness of battlefield sequences. The result is that, while "Beyond Victory" isn't any longer than most program pictures, it seems twice as lengthy.

Red Cross to Recall Fifty Years' Service, World War Events

The American Red Cross will celebrate a birthday on Thursday which will place its 50th milestone.

While thoughts will wander back a half century in a memorial to Clara Barton, who founded the first Red Cross chapter at Dansville, N. Y., upon the signing of the Geneva treaty by President Arthur, much of Chicago's celebration will be reminiscent of the days of the world war.

The Chicago function will be held at the Congress hotel simultaneously with hundreds of other banquets all over the country, attended by 50,000 persons. This, the Red Cross estimates, will be the world's largest dinner party. At 9:30 the radio will bring the message of President Hoover to all these parties through the Columbia and the National broadcasting chains.

James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter, will preside at the Congress hotel banquet, which will be attended by 700 representatives of civic agencies, the Red Cross board of directors, delegates from veterans' organizations, and from universities. Among the guests of honor will be Maj. Gen. Frank Parker and Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley. Tables have been reserved also by welfare groups who coöperate with the Red Cross.

Stock Directs Musical Fete; Miss Pons Sings

North Shore Festival Starts at Evanston.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It rained last night before the program of the first North Shore music festival concert in Evanston was over, but there was no dampening effect on the audience. For Frederick Stock was appearing for the first time in the capacity of musical director of the festival, a new work was being given, and Lily Pons was present on the final appearance of her brief festival tour to conquer another audience. Under the circumstances it would have taken more than a rainstorm to put the audience, an assemblage that filled Patten gymnasium to the doors, in anything but a jubilant mood.

Mr. Stock began his duties as musical director by prescribing an uncommonly tricky work, Honegger's "King David," described as a symphonic psalm. The only other time it had been heard in this part of the country was a little over a year ago. Then the Cincinnati chorus came to Orchestra Hall to sing it under Mr. Stock's direction.

Honegger is a good bit of a genius in writing for chorus. There is hardly a choral episode in the whole work that is not strikingly, movingly, imaginatively effective. On the other hand, there is hardly a solo bit that is either musically or dramatically effective at all. It is a case where the contemporary musical idiom, according to Honegger's idea, has worked well in one respect, and not in another. It is also a case where the soloists, Eleanor Reynolds, contralto, and Dan Gridley, tenor, are obliged to be content with the consciousness of work well done, of musical virtue being its own and only reward.

This, however, does not apply to Paul Leyssac, the narrator, who is a reader of high merit.

The concert began with Bach's choral cantata which begins with the words "Now shall the grace," then came "King David," and it seems amply desirable here to congratulate the festival chorus on the best singing heard from it in quite a number of years of attendance upon these events. Once, but just once, toward the end the ice grew a bit thin and the going was dangerous, but elsewhere there was not only correct singing, but warm, bright, dramatically interpretative singing. Apparently Mr. Stock justified his appointment at once, though this was hardly surprising.

Miss Pons appeared after the intermission, and started in immediately to weave the spells that lie in a highly expert coloratura soprano voice. "Caro Nome," from Verdi's "Rigoletto," was her first choice, a matter of exquisite voice, delicate perception of musical values, and infallible reproduction of the Verdian fireworks in the song. Then the applause began to thunder and kept on growing. Miss Pons seemed a little unwilling to yield to extra numbers until after her second number, the bell song, from "Lakme," but the audience was insistent upon not taking no for an answer, and after a sufficient time had elapsed Mr. Stock struck up the music of Pamina's aria from Mozart's "The Magic Flute."

TYPICAL U. S. FAMILY FOUND BY MAGAZINE; LIVES IN INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., May 18.—(AP)—The American Magazine will agree with the late Kin Hubbard that the "typical American family has spirea." There is a spirea bush in the front yard of the home of "the typical American family," found in Indianapolis, as the American Magazine will announce on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill J. Brown and their two children, John 13 years old, and Louise, 15, who reside at 4144 Carrollton avenue, most nearly typify "in every respect the 29,000,000 families composing the nation's population of 129,000,000," the magazine will say in a story by W. K. Wisehart.

The head of America's "typical family" is a salesman, an occupation he has followed since leaving Purdue university after completing only part of his course. He is 44 years old, 5 feet, 8 1-2 inches tall, and he grew up in Rockville, a small western Indiana town. His father was a country printer.

"We're just folks who try to get along," he says of himself and family. "We are neither saints nor sinners, we hope. We try to do the right thing."

Mrs. Brown is 39 years old. She was born in Montezuma, also in western Indiana. She and Mr. Brown were married in 1914, five years after they first met.

Former Mrs. Jack Harriman Bride of Gotham Broker

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anna Foley Harriman, former wife of John Harriman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, was today married to Hulbert D. Bassett, a broker, in City hall by Mayor Walker. Mrs. Bassett gave her age as 35 and her address as 111 East 48th street.

Last winter she brought suit for divorce from "Jack" Harriman. They had been married at the home of the latter's parents less than two months after she had obtained a Reno divorce from Louis de L'Aigle Munds. She was Mr. Harriman's second wife, his first, Alice Laidley, to whom he was married in 1922, having died in Paris four years later.

THE STAGE

THE reunion of Joe Weber and Lew Fields, veteran dialect comedians, will be an event of the next theatrical season, according to an announcement from Mr. Fields. They intend to assemble a group of old time performers, including a few survivors of the historic Weber and Fields shows, and to stage a revue on Broadway, with themselves as stars.

The team of Weber and Fields disbanded in 1904, after establishing a tradition in German dialect antics. Eight years later they appeared together in a revue, but that ended their association on the stage. Each has been active as a producing manager, and Lew Fields continued his career as comedian for many years. They recently started to brighten up the memory of the old team by means of the radio.

Some of the most prominent players of the American lyric stage appeared at Weber and Fields' Music hall, New York, between 1896 and 1904. Among them were Lillian Russell, David Warfield, Fay Templeton, Louis Mann, Anna Held, Sam Bernard, Marie Dressler, William Collier, and De Wolf Hopper.

The Studebaker theater will return to the "legitimate" drama Saturday night, May 30, when "The Rap," which is described as a melodrama of New York life, will have its Chicago première. The company will be headed by Helen Tenney. The play, now running at the Avon theater, New York, was written by John Peter Leiser and was staged by Leonard Bergman and Raymond Payton. This firm also plans to present a new play by the same author entitled "Crosstown" in Chicago late in June. Mr. Bergman is a nephew of the late A. L. Erlanger.

"Danton's Death," a drama by Georg Büchner, is on the program of the Shuberts for production late in the summer. Philip Merivale of "Death Takes a Holiday" will have the central rôle. Max Reinhardt's stage designs will be followed in the staging of this impressive historical drama, which is the work of a German author who died in 1837 at the age of 24. Alexander Moissi, the eminent Berlin actor, appeared in it at the Century theater, New York, several years ago.

Margalo Gillmore, who appeared here a few months ago in "Berkeley Square," will join the cast of Katharine Cornell's production of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" in New York two weeks hence. She will replace Margaret Barker. C. C.

Ten American Women to Bow at Court Tonight

Get Final Instructions from Mrs. Dawes.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 18.—Ten American women make their curtseys at the first court of the season before King George and Queen Mary tomorrow night.

This has become a part of American political patronage, the majority of the women being nominated by the state department on recommendation of their senators or representatives, although technically they are presented by the American ambassador on his own initiative.

Beginning many years ago with a half dozen of the ambassador's personal friends—as it still is the case with every other embassy in London—the pressure became so great that gradually the number of Americans were forced up. In George Harvey's ambassadorship it had reached 50.

It has been stabilized at that figure, largely because it is impossible physically to increase the number without excluding British and other foreign women who claim the right of bowing before their majesties. There will be a total of four courts this year.

When asked who had sponsored them for presentation, several of the girls said they did not know "how that was arranged."

The women to make curtseys tomorrow night are Miss Louise Behn and Jasmin Schoellkopf of New York; Miss Helen Brinton, Miss Margaretta Duane and Miss Edith Martin, Pennsylvania; Miss Barbara Hutton, New York; Miss Adele Jahncke, Louisiana; Miss Bertha Potter Palmer and Miss Virginia Dawes of Illinois; Miss Virginia Penn, North Carolina.

Mrs. Dawes received the Americans at the embassy this afternoon. She gave them final instructions—what to do if King George is present—what to do if the king's health prevents his attendance. When the king and queen are present, one advances, when one's name is called, into the throne room a few steps to a position directly in front of the king and then curtseys; takes a few steps further and then curtsey before the queen; then take a few steps backward, being extremely careful not to trip over one's train—and then it is all over.

If the queen is alone there is but one curtsey, even though the prince of Wales is present.

The American group, including Mrs. Dawes, the ten presentees and wives of American diplomats, will be the largest foreign group presented.

In the diplomatic group only two women are making bows for the first time: Mrs. Benjamin Thaw Jr., and Mrs. Wainwright Abbott, wives of first secretaries.

All other embassy wives have attended court many times and to some, like Mrs. William Galbraith, wife of the naval attaché, the formalities of the diplomatic court are an old story. The embassy ladies will go to Buckingham palace by a special route and with other diplomatic groups will be presented ahead of every one else.

Mrs. Dawes arranged this afternoon for the women of the general circle to go to the palace four in a car and meet on the Mall so that the American cars may arrive simultaneously at the palace.

The first court which all members of the diplomatic corps attend brings prominence to a number of American women who have married foreign diplomats. They will present the ladies and debutantes of their adopted countries. Mme. Van Swinderen, formerly Miss Glover of Washington, as wife of the minister from the Netherlands, will present the women of Holland. Baronne de Cartier de Marchienne, the former Marie Dow, will present the Belgian debutantes. The Bulgarian minister has an American wife, and the newly appointed ambassador from the Spanish republic also has an American wife.

Virginia Dawes, daughter of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, is entitled to presentation as a member of the ambassador's family, and Bertha Potter Palmer will be presented at the request of Sir John Hanbury Williams, marshal of the diplomatic corps, to whom she is related by marriage.

Rene Maison Is Loudly Applauded by Londoners

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 18.—Rene Maison, Chicago tenor, took London by storm tonight when quite unheralded he made his first appearance at Covent Garden in the title rôle of "Lohengrin."

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a story of the high school orchestra contest held in Orchestra hall last Thursday evening which appeared in Friday morning's TRIBUNE, there was no mention of the Harrison High school orchestra which won 2d place in group one. This orchestra was conducted by Merle J. Isaac and rendered an excellent performance.

THE TRIBUNE of May 16 stated that John [Jake the Barber] Factor leased office space in the Burnham building six months ago. The Courts Building corporation declare that they have never had a lease with any man named Factor.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. She and her mother lived in a remote section of Paris. Clare attended a school play one evening and was brought home by friends. Her mother heard the car stop in front of the house and Clare's friends bidding her good night, but when she opened the door Clare had vanished.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of great charm, but no moral sense. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their tyrannical Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmauroux.

Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood, about to depart for Africa, has postponed his trip to help Iris.

On her aunt's insistence, Iris decides to stay in her home until Clare is found. When she arrives she learns that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have changed in character, and has taken charge of the search for Clare. He has been seeing Clare, unknown to her mother, for some time past, and knows more of the child's life and her friends than Iris. The comtesse is bent on reconciling the estranged couple.

Alan is refused admittance at the home of the comtesse. Iris sees him secretly and tells him that on account of her aunt's assistance she cannot offend her. They plan to meet at Helen Roderick's, the American woman for whom Iris has been working. Alan calls at Helen's and meets Marcel there. He learns that they are friends, unknown to Iris. Alan recalls having seen Marcel at Le Touquet, gambling heavily, and hobnobbing with a coarse looking couple. Alan runs across an old friend, Tommy Rostitzer, a journalist, and asks his help. They drop in a café, where Alan sees the woman who was one of De Bertincourt's companions in Le Touquet. Tommy knew her when she ran a haunt in Germany. They go to Tommy's apartment.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

A MIDNIGHT VISIT.

"It's Suzanne Marly's apartment, but up till a few months ago it was the residence of your friend, Marcel de Bertincourt."

"Sublet to her?" asked Charnwood, pricking up his ears.

"Something of the sort. I daresay she's better able to pay the rent than he is these days. She's got a German gent on the lead—manufacturer of sausage skins, rolling in money."

"She must make immense sums herself."

"Not nearly enough." Tommy drew the curtains to with a jerk. "The girl has a genius for spending, and besides, what a reputation she has to keep up! Money? She eats it! Luckily for her there's always some mug queuing up, glad to foot her bills for the privilege of carting her about. South American plutocrats, English dukes, oriental pashas—they represent just so many beakers for her to drain dry."

He related a few anecdotes—how Suzanne had purchased a fabulous chinchilla cloak which the royal personage it was ordered for could not afford to own, and how last week she threw her maid down the stairs and broke her collar bone.

"She's rapacious, depraved and utterly irresistible," he summed up. "She does what she likes and doesn't give a hoot for any one but Suzanne, which, of course, keeps all her admirers yapping at her heels. . . .

"And where does De Bertincourt figure in all this?" inquired Charnwood.

"I'm not saying he does figure, now. Financially he's a sucked orange. Still the fellow has a waist line—blue blood, old traditions, and all the gilt on the ginger bread. These wenches rather fancy being seen about with this sort, so it may be Marly hasn't altogether chucked him."

Charnwood could not repress the hope that this was so. True, Helen Roderick, whose opinions he respected, believed De Bertincourt's light entanglements to be a thing of the past, but Tommy's words cast doubt on the prodigal's good intentions.

"No, don't stop me!" Her eyes were lit with fanatical stoicism.

They spent a long time discussing Clare's disappearance. Eventually Tommy said:

"You mentioned the white slave idea. I don't think I should lacerate my feelings over that. Personally, I don't take much stock in it."

"Why not?"

"Because the De Bertincourts are entirely too well known to be tampered with for such a purpose. I can recall one case in New York some years back—society girl enticed into a car in Fifth avenue by a well dressed woman pretending she was about to faint; so, of course, it can happen, but only once in a blue moon. No, I believe we've got to look for another explanation. Ransom appeals to me most, but why this delay? It's four full days now. Why should she [illegible] the last post. God! If I have to leave Paris now——!"

"It's a biggish thing, this job you're on?" inquired Tommy sympathetically.

"Worse than peculiar. Ominous. This prolonged silence, coupled with all you've told me, suggests that while it may have been originally a case of kidnaping it may now mean—but good God!—there's no good upsetting you unnecessarily."

"Go on, I'd rather know what you think."

"Well, then, it seems to me extremely probable that Clare de Bertincourt is dead."

"Do you mean murdered?"

"Perhaps not deliberate murder. An overdose of some knockout stuff intended to keep her quiet. It could easily happen, in which event her captors would be obliged to get rid of the body and say nothing."

"Then months, years might go by and we should not know the truth?"

"We may never know."

Rising abruptly, Charnwood walked up and down the room. The thought that Iris' torment might endure indefinitely gave a fresh turn to the rack, moreover he could not shut his eyes to the plausibility of Tommy's suggestion. At last, his face drawn with suffering, he picked up his hat and moved towards the door. His friend demurred, but he shook his head.

"I want to get back to the hotel and see if any answer to my telegrams has come. There may be a letter by the last post. God! If I have to leave Paris now——!"

"It's a biggish thing, this job you're on?" inquired Tommy sympathetically.

"So big it may ruin me to chuck it. Still, if I had to choose between it and Iris I wouldn't hesitate. But I naturally don't want to get in bad with the company. Why doesn't the chief answer my wires?" He struck the table with his fist.

"Well, if you have to leave, I'll do my best to deputize for you—though I don't see what either of us can do."

"That's the damnable part. There is nothing one can do."

A clock struck midnight as Charnwood crossed the moonlit space towards his own Rue de Bourgogne, which debouches into the square. At that precise moment a smart car swung round a corner and halted in front of the building in which the celebrated Marly had her abode. A voice shouted, "Cordon!" the heavy doors swung apart, and Charnwood turned in time to see a slender, immaculately dressed man vanish into the court.

He stood staring, long enough to see twin rectangles of yellow light flash forth from the actress' floor, and at one of them the figure of the man he had just seen, hastily sliding the curtains across.

Indignation rose in the watcher's breast, to be quickly mastered by triumph. One question, at least, was answered, for the nocturnal visitor walking into Suzanne's apartment with a confident air was Marcel de Bertincourt himself.

. . . . . .

The following day after lunch Charnwood was handed a message scrawled in the hotel clerk's crabbed writing and signed by a cipher he took to mean Roderick. Would Maj. Charnwood call to see her at six-thirty?

Well in advance of the appointed hour he was dashing up Helen's stairs, two at a time, eager to learn what tidings awaited him. The servant showed him into a firelit salon.

With a contraction of the heart he realized the identity of the wraithlike figure by the window. Almost before the door closed he had taken Iris in his arms.

"You're heard something?" he asked eagerly.

"No—no!"

The words were a hopeless murmur. Her hectic energy had burned out, leaving her an empty apathetic husk. Yet she had sent for him. That must mean something, surely.

"What is it, dear?" he asked gently. "But never mind, don't tell me just yet. Sit down, let yourself go for a bit."

Obediently Iris sank upon the sofa and let him remove her hat and fur. Only when his awkward fingers smoothed the waves of her hair did she give a slight shudder and draw aloof.

"Don't trouble about me—please," she begged. "It's you I want to talk about. You—and you only."

"Why me?" he exclaimed in surprise.

"Because I've suddenly realized how I've behaved to you, letting you hang on here in Paris wasting your time when it can't do any good. You must think me horribly selfish."

He knelt beside her, kissing her hands in almost angry protest.

"I can't allow you even to think such things!"

"No, don't stop me!" Her eyes were lit with a fanatical stoicism. "Promise not to oppose what I am going to say, for if you do it will only cause me greater suffering. My mind is made up—about us."

Her words struck him with unhappy foreboding. Plainly she was struggling with a difficult problem, held to her purpose by a sense of rectitude nothing could shake.

"Very well, then. What is it you want to say?" he prompted.

Lots of Free Advice Is Worthless, Too, Claims Doris Blake

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Why is it that other people must meddle in your affairs?" asks "J. T."

To which I must respond at once that I do not know why people make other people's business theirs, unless it is that in affairs of the heart everybody feels qualified to make suggestions. The interest is more often kindly-intentioned than it is mischievous. And, then, almost every person, no matter how unsuccessfully he or she runs love affairs, appoints himself and herself a judge of how love should operate. It's just one of those human weaknesses that should not be taken too seriously. In fact, it would be much worse if no interest were taken in your affairs at all. You don't have to subscribe to the other person's suggestions. There's that about it.

"J. T." has a responsible position in the business world. Her young man lives on a small, but modern farm; he has attended agricultural school and is a good, clean, honest, hard working boy. Now people tell "J. T." that, while the young man is good and all that, he is not of her standing. She admires the very traits in the boy that they appear to esteem lightly.

Now, the real question is why let other people meddle in your affairs, not why do they? You've given intelligence—and a heart—to decide your own problems. If the average person accepted the advice of every adviser-giver that comes across his or her path in the course of a year, say, that person would be going around in circles, as each adviser sees things from his point of view only. Of course, among the group you may find one whose word is of value, but in the conduct of life's affairs one has to shut his ears to a great deal that is poured therein, and use one's own head.

Personally I can see no social inferiority in the position of a young man with a modern farm. In fact, I'm swayed into exalting him for taking to farming in preference to one of the white collar jobs. Just on general principles I'd like the quality of a young man with courage enough to take to the earth to wrest a living.

However, if you, "J. T.," are going to be weak enough to be swayed by busy-body opinion now, I wonder if you're made of the stuff for a farmer's wife.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This is a stunning little plaid crêpe silk dress in a soft shade of green, and it is a two piece affair. The plaited frill edging the blouse is smart and the bows on the sleeves and blouse add chic. The skirt is circular—a cut that is always graceful and becoming. Eyelet batiste, printed silk crêpe and thin woolen are among the suitable materials.

The pattern, 3072, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 39 inch contrast.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

J. F.: TO CHECK EXCESSIVE perspiration use a twenty-five precent solution of aluminum chloride in distilled water. Apply it every other night until three applications have been made. My booklet on perspiration may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

G. N.: A BORACIC ACID SOLUTION will remove granulated particles from the eyelids. Use a teaspoonful of boracic acid to a glass of water.

Avoid Rigidity and Stiffness if You'd Keep Looking Young

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about the more graceful acceptance of years that is being shown lately by dress shoppers. How a woman, let's say, who is 40 and weighs 148 doesn't try to crowd her age and her pounds into a svelte young thing's frock.

Now, though I endorsed the beauty wisdom of the new trend, there is one point about accepting one's age and weight philosophically which must be advised against. It is, accepting rigidity along with the mature proportions. That's the one thing that will dissipate all the advantages gained otherwise. I mean that if you're 40 and weigh 148, those 148 pounds must be anchored to supple bones and muscles.

It's rigidity, far more than poundage, that creates the impression of age. You can see that in the oldness of a stiff, scrawny frame. There are plump women, smart footed, elastic muscled that you'd never associate with a day more than their age. In fact, they may look years younger than a contemporary without an excess pound, but who is stiff and rigid muscled.

Plastic is the word I should be using as the figure ambition of the moment. A plastic figure, at any age, is the thing that differentiates between a young and an old body. It doesn't matter if the waist is spread, as waists have a way of doing after one has wrestled with life for three or four good round decades, if that waist can bend at the middle without muscle strain. It doesn't matter if the leg silhouette isn't what it was at first beau age if it can carry you around in sprightly fashion.

Naturally, I'm not suggesting that you welcome fat on waist or leg, or on any other part of the anatomy. But what I want to get across is that a pound extra on waist or limb is not half so ageing as a stiff, rigid muscle under the pound.

With this anti-rigidity campaign now under way I want you all to be leaders in the movement. Don't wait until all the other women have learned the trick before you begin to think about it. Sure, it's a matter of exercising. Daily exercising. Bending, twisting and walking snappily. With the brand of summer sports available, such as swimming, tennis, golf, rowing and hiking you've a grand chance of limbering up those time stiffened muscles of yours, if yours are to be classified among the rigid.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

R. O. P. N. Club Loses a Member.

Until today I was a confirmed member of the Society for the Reading of Other People's Newspapers. I have been cured. This morning I was, as usual, straining my neck to read the paper of the fellow sitting next to me on the street car. Since the column I wanted to see was on the other side of the page I had to strain to the utmost.

Suddenly he folded up his paper, reached in his pocket, and then said to me in the sarcastic tones of sublime charity: "Here's 2 cents, mister; buy yourself a paper."

I could have curled up and died for embarrassment. J. A.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Lois, aged 4, after kissing her daddy good-by as he was leaving for work, said: "Bye-by, daddy, now don't get burn up."

Her older sister, quite puzzled, asked, "What do you mean, Lois, don't get burnt up?" "Well," she replied, "daddy told me if he got to work late he would be fired."

Freckles—How to Fade Them Out

By Carolyn Haines

Freckles are so unsightly, and so stubborn, too. Women who are troubled with them will be delighted to learn of this new facial pack that contains the pure juice of whole lemons, and magnesia, together with other secret ingredients.

It is so mild and so lovely, takes but ten minutes to apply and yet accomplishes simply marvelous results in fading out freckles and whitening dark, sallow skin many shades. It also removes fatigue lines wrinkles and blemishes.

It is called Boncilla Lemon-Magnesia Pack. You can buy in one-dollar size tubes or jars, containing many facials, at any good drug or department store.

I am glad to recommend it, and advise that you try it at once. The dealer will refund your money if you are not delighted.

Junior League Lauds Acts of Miss Schmidt

BY THALIA

DOROTHY SCHMIDT, having acquitted herself well and to the satisfaction of all concerned during her year as president of the Junior league, was rewarded at the annual meeting yesterday with [1] a "vote of thanks" from the league for the splendid work she has accomplished, [2] a spray of gardenias, and [3] reelection for another year's presidency.

The meeting was held yesterday morning at the Woman's Athletic club and was followed by the annual luncheon, attended by more than a hundred members. The other new officers are Mrs. Willard C. Boyden [Angela Johnston], first vice president; Marguerite Watson, second vice president; Mrs. Bruce Thorne, secretary, and Mrs. Theophilus Noel H. [Laura Jacoby], who also was reelected to her office. Mrs. Edwin Welch is keeping on with her directory job in charge of the Lake Forest activities, and the management of the children's theater is to remain in Helen Tieken's hands. Margot Adler is placement chairman; Mrs. Frank Hodgkins, chairman of the fine arts committee, and the other directors include Mrs. Shreve Badger, Mrs. J. Beach Clow, Mrs. John Lewis Cudahy, Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord, Janet Kirk, Rosemary Lytton, and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr.

Miss Katherine Rogers, who is Mrs. Louis Mitchell's house guest during her stay in Chicago, was the speaker for the luncheon.

Holdack or Two to Race Thrills at Louisville.

Born in Louisville—The Stuyvesant Holdack party, with the women all wearing orchid corsages, occupying one of the choice upper boxes just over the finish line. [Mrs. Vincent Darrow Fulton in black and green printed crêpe, and Mrs. Holdack in a black bolero dress with a coral blouse, all placed their party bets early in the day so as to get back to their boxes before the race began]. . . . The new Mrs. Pierre Donnelley, in a black and white ensemble, collecting her winnings after one of the preliminary races [she had been consistently lucky in picking winners all week and is visiting with her husband for a few more days of Kentucky racing. . . . Mrs. Payne Whitney, wearing her favorite black and white, maintaining a superior calm until the approach of the last race, and then growing so excited she couldn't hold a glass of water. . . . Lieut. Gov. Fred Stirling came today to collect at the $100 window. . . . Stuyvesant Peabody spent most of his time around the paddock and betting windows, making only occasional trips to see the races from his box. . . . Mrs. Arthur Caldie, in a brown printed dress and brown hat, dueling Twenty Grand from the opening fanfare' box.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter, wearing a "10 gallon" straw hat . . . people being amused at Prince d'Amour's tail, which a spectator described as looking like a rug beater . . . Mrs. Arnold Sirotz looking appropriately gay for Derby day in mustard tweed against white cross fox [she was much admired also on Sunday at the smart Meadowmere River Valley club, when she wore a lettuce green angora dress with a strawberry colored coat and hat . . . Other Chicagoans included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bodman Carter, Mrs. Carter excited because it was her first Derby, Larry Callahan, Bill Simpson, Ann Shedd in white angora, the Peter Arnolds, the David Pecks, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prentons.

Infinite Patience, Intelligence Will Cure Child's Fears

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Occasionally a description of one mother's method of dealing with a difficulty is suggestive to another. So, today we have an account of how the mother of the little adopted boy, already mentioned, overcame his terror of baths and shampoos.

"Then, we began on the joys of taking a bath, and made that our chief conversation for a couple of weeks, until he asked for baths. My husband and I continuously talked back and forth, 'Daddy, do you like to take a bath?' 'OF COURSE, I just love to take a bath.' 'Mother, do you want to take a bath tonight?' 'Yes, indeed, I like to be clean, and to be clean we take a bath every day.'

"Within a short time the baby was saying, 'I wanna take a bath.' When he said it, no matter what I was doing, I would stop and turn on the warm water.

"The sound of water going into the tub would still bring woops, so I overcame that by leaving it running a little and putting in floating toys for him to play with during the day.

"When I first attempted to bathe him [you remember they told me I'd not be able to get him in a tub] he would burst out in wails and screams. I found an angry scar about eight inches long on one arm which I took to be from a burn, and perhaps caused at the time of a bath. The first few times I climbed part way in the tub with him. Still, the ordeal was pitiful.

"His hair was a mess. I had to have it cut and a whole new outfit of clothes before I could offer him to my husband to see—and a layer of scales on his scalp that had never been completely dissolved. The first washing of it was a terrible ordeal, too.

"I certainly racked my brain to know what to do the next time his hair needed washing, because I did not know what had been done to him the first two years of his life to cause the mental upset, except pouring water on his head for punishment."

Food Talk.

"All of us prefer French dressing to mayonnaise on our salads. I should like, however, to provide a little variety in my dressings, especially when I am making a fruit salad. Can you suggest some variations?" a housewife telephoned me the other day.

The only acid this housewife was using in the dressing was vinegar. And the only kind of vinegar she ever bought was cider. Variations in French dressing may be obtained through the vinegars alone. Wine, tarragon, and malt are especially good.

Then there are the citrus fruit juices that are sufficiently acid for French dressings. Lemon and grapefruit juice may contribute all the acid. Orange combined with either lemon or grapefruit juice makes an excellent dressing. Grape and tomato juice and the syrup left from peach pickles, canned peaches or white cherries may be used for part of the acid. A small quantity of nonalcoholic wine adds a dash of flavor that is different and rare to many.

A few ways to vary plain French dressing are as follows:

1. Add 1 tablespoon of melted butter, 2 tablespoons of orange juice, and 1 tablespoon of pineapple juice to the basic recipe given below.

2. Add a clove of garlic and a dash of tabasco to the basic recipe and let it stand an hour. Then remove the garlic. This harmonizes with almost any vegetable salad.

3. Beat in slowly 1 cup of whipped cream. This is particularly nice on fruit salads.

4. Add 2 tablespoons of catsup or chili sauce and 2 tablespoons of finely minced pickle.

5. Add 2 tablespoons of catsup and 1 of cream cheese, a very little at a time, and beat with a fork. Roquefort cheese may be used if preferred. This is good on head lettuce.

6. Add 1 tablespoon each of powdered sugar, melted butter, lemon juice, minced onion, parsley, and 2 of minced green pepper.

7. Add 3 tablespoons strained honey or some thick fruit sirup for a sweet dressing on salads.

FRENCH DRESSING.
[Basic Recipe.]

6 tbsp. salad oil.
3 tbsp. lemon juice or vinegar.
¾ tsp. salt.
¼ tsp. pepper.
½ tsp. paprika.
Tiny bit of cayenne.

Put all ingredients into a bottle or cruet and just before serving shake until a thick emulsion is obtained.

A folder of salad dressing recipes of all kinds will be sent upon receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

EVERY OUTDOOR GIRL NEEDS This Cream

Do you love Summer sports? If you do—take this beauty hint. Before going outdoors always smooth on your skin Plough's Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream. This dainty cream assures perfect protection from sun and wind, prevents impurities from entering the pores and holds face powder on for hours with natural beauty.

To banish skin congestion (dirt-clogged pores) use Plough's Cleansing Cream. It removes deep-set dirt and other impurities and brings to your skin clear, fresh beauty.

To keep your skin young, replace its natural oils with Plough's Cold Cream. It erases wrinkles and restores youthful beauty.

Each of Plough's Peroxide, Cleansing and Cold Creams is economically priced at 22c, 35c and 60c.

Plough's BEAUTY CREAMS

Remove EXCESS WEIGHT as Pleasantly as you put it on

Watch your bathroom scales record the loss of excess weight after every bath with Fayro, pure mineral salts which, when dissolved in hot water, duplicate the waters of world-famed health resorts. Relax in your own tub just before retiring and you will lose between two and four pounds during each bath.*

In spite of its rapid action, there is absolutely nothing injurious in the Fayro formula. The mineral salts, of which it is compounded, invigorate and cleanse your skin in addition to opening your pores so that unneeded subsurface fat may disappear.

Hundreds of physicians and women from all parts of the United States have voluntarily written* to tell of the remarkable results they have obtained by the continued use of Fayro.

Dr. F., of New York City, writes, "Enclosed please find remittance for which you will send me Fayro Bath Salts for reducing on a clinical case. Results thus far have been excellent, and am favorably impressed."

"Some time ago I used Fayro and I will say I never saw anything do such splendid work. I lost twelve pounds but only used three boxes," writes Mrs. T., of Urbana, Ill.

You risk nothing in giving Fayro a trial. It is sold on the unconditional guarantee that if you are dissatisfied for any reason your money will be instantly refunded. More than a million and a half treatments have been sold on this guarantee.

One dollar at drug and toilet counters everywhere.

* Write for copy of sworn statement before Notary Public that no testimonial for Fayro has ever been solicited or paid for in any way. Fayro, Inc., North Side, Pittsburgh.

Fayro REDUCING BATH SALTS

Fayro is sold at all Walgreen, Economical Stores, and Wieboldt's, Chicago and Evanston.

Going to Dogs, Path to Art for This Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

IT IS with special delight that your attention is drawn to the exhibition of work by three Chicago artists. Their show opened yesterday in the Allerton house gallery. Marjorie Stempel can almost be called our own particular discovery, for though it was by accident that we ran into each other last spring in the Chicago galleries, where she was showing a number of pencil portraits of dogs, we were only too willing to look. The accident developed into an occasion and the occasion has given rise to the current exhibit of her work. These pencil portraits occupy one wall of the Allerton house gallery.

Several other artists have tackled dogs. In etching Marguerite Kirmse and Diana Thorne are distinguished dog portraitists. Miss Stempel uses the softer medium of pencil and possibly this gives her likenesses a special charm. Comparisons in this case are out of place. The etchings are thrilling, when well done, and no less exciting are these sketches. The distinctive feature of Marjorie Stempel's craft is her ability to fix the personality of the dog and the marvelous texture of fur, wet muzzle, and engaging eye she gets, which marvel she repeats with each portrait. You will lose your heart to the Boston terrier, the white West Highland, the Peke, and the Scottie. They, with their brothers, are a fascinating group.

It is with reluctance that we turn from them to greet another friend. John Goossens is a member of THE TRIBUNE composing room staff and an artist on his holidays, week-ends, and free time. He is an able painter, a discriminating composer of pictures, and an enthralling colorist. His wall at the Allerton house stands out for its color, its fresh, enthusiastic feeling and the arrangement of the pictures, both as a group and in themselves. Among the most charming and the most effective are "Still Life Arrangement." "Garden Flowers," "Snapdragons and Calendulas," and "Caravel."

The third exhibitor is Gasper J. Ruffolo, whose painting is remarkable for his success with quality and texture. Ruffolo shows portraits and landscapes. Of the latter, many of the smaller ones are thoroughly delightful. "Fisherman's Hut," "Evening on Lake Michigan," and "Sandy Slope" are picturesque and colorful, excellently done. He is a splendid foil to Miss Stempel and Mr. Goossens and yet in harmony with them as he, too, is an intelligent, skilled, and thoughtful artist.

The exhibit will continue through May and is well worth seeing.

American Legion Adopts Song by Herrin Woman

Herrin, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—The American Legion song composed by Mr. H. D. Yuill, a member of the auxiliary and the wife of the chaplain of Herrin post, was adopted as the state song at an executive board meeting of the American Legion in Chicago.

Cool Printed Frock for Warm Afternoon

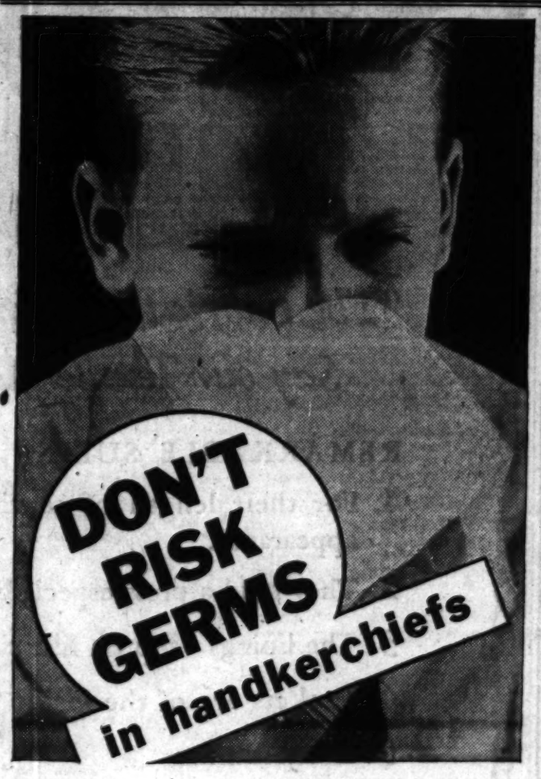
BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Whether the business girl be sportively inclined or no, she is more than likely to spend her week-end afternoons at the country club, and if her sports interest is more theoretical than practical, she will want to dress herself in a cool pretty frock that will refresh the eyes of the heavy sports when they roll back after the game.

The printed mousseline frocks favored by Paris couturiers for afternoon are just the thing, and they offer the added advantage of making very charming dinner dresses for hot weather occasions.

The Lenieff frock, sketched here, is of mousseline printed with large stylized green leaves on a white ground and, by the way, the newest prints have white backgrounds. The bodice is cleverly cut with short kimono sleeves and draped across the front so as to emphasize the curve of the figure. It has an open bib yoke of white and green rickrack edged with tiny ruffles of the mousseline. The short sleeves are edged in the same manner and tied with tiny green velvet ribbon bows. The tailored belt has a rickrack fastening in front. The skirt is full circular below the hips.

Lenieff makes the huge hat to go with it of fine green straw with a very shallow crown and a brim that is moderately wide in front and widens further toward the sides and the back, where it is split up to the crown, which makes it much more manageable. It is entirely covered with green and white printed mousseline, which droops a little over the edge of the brim all around, and it is trimmed with a sash of green velvet ribbon.



Kleenex Is Safe!

New, disposable tissues are used and destroyed . . . no laundering, economical

PAUSE just one moment, please, to consider the ordinary handkerchief. It's often used again and again. It collects germs—and stores them in pockets, purses, laundry bags. Tests show a single handkerchief (used during colds) may contain millions of bacteria.

At last a better way has been found. Everywhere you see people using Kleenex — soft tissues which are destroyed immediately after use. Thus, hordes of disease-producing germs are destroyed, instead of being carried back again to mouth and nose.

Costs less than laundry

Kleenex is so low in cost that it actually costs less than laundering. Thus it is ideal for children; for use during colds and hay fever.

You'll marvel at the exquisite softness of Kleenex. It is a tissue product — yet softer than cotton, more absorbent than old linen.

Each Kleenex Tissue is fresh, clean . . . and you use it but once.

For removing cold cream and cosmetics, Kleenex is perfect. It saves towels from stains.

Use Kleenex for dusting and polishing; for wiping spectacles and razor blades; in the nursery.

You'll find Kleenex at drug, dry goods and department stores, in packages at 25c, 50c and $1.00.

Bacteriological Tests Show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 bacteria per handkerchief.

2. That organisms representative of those associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

These reports are based on tests performed on handkerchiefs in the laboratories of Dr. Bertram Feuer, Chicago bacteriologist.

Parents Attend Schools Today to Study Youth

Public and parochial schools will celebrate Chicago Youth week today as boys and girls display their attainments to visiting parents and delegations from various interested organizations.

There will be displays of school work and handicraft, demonstrations of classroom exercises, special programs of music, speeches, and dancing. The purpose of youth day in school, according to William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, is to acquaint parents and friends with the school system, to develop coöperation in the interests of the children.

"Chicago has hundreds of millions of dollars invested in its school buildings and grounds," Mr. Bogan said. "It takes 11,000 teachers to give instruction to more than 500,000 who are enrolled. In addition hundreds of other workers are necessary. From the financial standpoint alone it is vitally important that parents and taxpayers know about the school program."

At Senn High school beginning at 8:30 and running throughout the day, will be relay races on the campus, ball games, R. O. T. C. drills, efficiency tests, and other events. In the girls' gymnasium will be track demonstrations, volley ball, proficiency tests, apparatus work, dancing, and baseball. In Senn hall will be dramatics, a concert, puppet show, debates, and glee club program. Youth day exercises will also be held in class rooms.

The Amundsen Junior High school will have an open house all day. This afternoon will be demonstrations of youth activities at Sullivan Junior High school and this evening at Manley Junior High school.

On Thursday evening a civic assembly program will be held for parents at Crane High school. Michael Zimmer will be the speaker, and the McKinley R. O. T. C. band will play and the Crane Glee club and mixed chorus from Creiger Junior High school, will sing.

Senn High School Band Leaves for Tulsa Test

The members of the Senn High school band will leave for Tulsa, Okla., this morning to participate in the national contest for high school bands there. Senn has won the national trophy for the last 3 years and if the band wins this contest they may retain the trophy permanently. There are 120 students in the band and they are led by Capt. Charles Ostergren. They will return next Sunday evening.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Vice President Curtis returned this afternoon from Louisville, Ky. He attended the races there last week. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gann. They were guests of Col. M. J. Winn. Louisville is the home town of Mr. Gann.

Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the secretary of the navy, had as her week-end guest their son, Charles Francis Adams Jr.

Sir Roland Lindsay, British ambassador, returned tonight from New York, where he went to attend the funeral of Mrs. Whitlaw Reid, widow of the former American ambassador to Great Britain, who died in France.

Mrs. Medill McCormick and her house guest, Mrs. Tiffany Blake of Chicago, have started by motor for their homes in Illinois. Mrs. McCormick remained here for the horse show last week. There her older daughter was a conspicuous rider and carried off some ribbons.

Mrs. Carpenter, wife of federal Judge George A. Carpenter of Chicago, has been at the Mayflower with the judge. She went today to Mount Vernon. There she will be for a week or more as vice regent of the Mount Vernon Ladies' association from the state of Illinois. The ladies are holding their annual council at Mount Vernon.

HURLEY DEFENDS WAR PLAN UNDER FREAR'S ATTACK

Congressman Criticizes Mobilization Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Criticism of the war department mobilization plan and intimated charges that the war policies commission was a war department creation brought on a spirited debate at today's session of the commission's hearings between Secretary of War Hurley, chairman, and Representative James A. Frear, Wisconsin Republican of the La Follette school, who appeared as a witness.

REP. J. A. FREAR. [Edmonston Photo.]

Representative Frear had testified that through the general staff's plan for arranging war time contracts it appeared that the military might take over control of industry, when Secretary Hurley interrupted.

Provides for Civilians.

"You have done a great injustice to the plans submitted," he declared. "The army plan, the Baruch plan—every plan the commission has considered seriously—provides for a civilian organization to come into existence at a time of emergency and direct industry."

Further points of argument arose during the interchange, including the question of the origin of the resolution authorizing the commission, the placing in it of a clause forbidding consideration of the conscription of labor, and what Secretary Hurley characterized as the witness' "imputations."

Secretary Hurley declared that "the army did not ask for a page of this act," and, then, noting "certain imputations" in Representative Frear's testimony, asked:

"Do you think it is fair to come here and imply that the army proposed this?"

"You won't find that in my testimony," replied Representative Frear.

Implied It, He Charges.

"But you implied it," persisted Secretary Hurley.

"Do you impute to the army responsibility for this resolution and its deficiencies?"

"No."

"But I gather you do impute certain motives to the army," persisted Secretary Hurley.

"Well, their sole idea is to conscript men," answered Representative Frear.

In a prepared statement Representative Frear said he favored either conscription of essential war time industries along with men, or no conscription at all.

He opposed, generally, what he described as the trend of the hearings by the commission, saying they appeared to be more in the nature of war preparation than in the interests of peace.

CASHIER IN EMMERSON BANK SHORT $36,000; SENTENCE IS 3 YEARS

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—[Special.]—A shortage of $36,835 in the accounts of William A. Wilkerson, former assistant cashier of the Third National Bank of Mount Vernon, Ill., whose president is Gov. Emmerson of Illinois, was made public today.

It was disclosed when Wilkerson, who had pleaded guilty at Danville on March 24 to making a false entry in violation of the federal banking code, appeared at East St. Louis before District Judge Wham for sentence.

Wilkerson was sentenced to three years in the U. S. reformatory at Chillicothe, O.

Before appearing for sentence Wilkerson's attorneys filed a plea for clemency for their client. Attached to it were letters from the board of directors of the bank and from leading citizens of Mount Vernon, including Gov. Emmerson.

WOMAN IN SAFETY ZONE KILLED BY HIT, RUN AUTO

Mrs. Nathalie Oliver, 60 years old, 6122 Woodlawn avenue, was fatally injured by a hit and run automobile driver at 65th and Halsted streets late last night. Mrs. Oliver was standing in a street car safety zone waiting for a car when the speeding machine hit her and hurled her fifty feet. She was taken to the German Deaconnes hospital where she died.

This death and four others increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 434. The other victims:

J. F. Parker, 46 years old, 257 West 61st street, an insurance agent. Killed last night when he was struck by an by an automobile while crossing the street at 31st street and South Park way. The police are holding the driver of the car, Miss Sedonia Williams, 18 years old, colored, 338 East 42d street.

Mrs. Augusta Rutzen, 73 years old, 4140 North Claremont avenue. Died last night at the Martha Washington hospital of injuries suffered May 8 when she was struck by a truck driven by Lloyd Fulton, 4124 North Kenneth avenue.

Mrs. Mary Kozlowski, 73 years old, 5709 South Justine street. Fatally injured when she was struck at Garfield boulevard and Loomis street by an automobile driven by Hugh Corrigan, 2925 West 57th street.

William Watson, 25 years old, colored, 5225 Indiana avenue. Died at the county hospital of injuries received May 2 when his auto collided with another car being driven by Theodore Govens, colored, 4758 Forrestville avenue.

MORE THAN 30 HURT IN LISBON BOMB EXPLOSIONS

LISBON, May 19.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Three bombs thrown early this morning brought Lisbon's total for the last 24 hours to seven and the list of injured to upwards of thirty persons, at least one of whom may die.

Police were stationed on all corners early today, examining all pedestrians after two bombs thrown from a taxicab into a crowd at the Café Martinho injured several persons. A second early morning bomb exploded near the central food market, but injured no one.

BIRD SHOT HALTS CHESTER PRISON BREAK; 5 HURT

Chester, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—An attempt by twelve prisoners to escape from the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane was foiled here late Sunday, it was learned today, when an alert guard fired and dropped five of them with bird shot.

DR. FRANK A. STUBBLEFIELD.

Only one of the prisoners was seriously wounded. He is Frank Litts, ex-cowboy, who was convicted of trying to blow up a horse meat cannery in Rockford two years ago. Prison officials fear that pneumonia may result from the wound. Litts was shot in the lung.

The other wounded inmates are James Cavanaugh of Pontiac, convicted of burglary; William Johnson of Edgar county, convicted of rape; Oscar Nash of Joliet, convicted of murder, and Thomas McGirk of Chicago, convicted of murder. All suffered light wounds.

The story of the attempted escape was told by Dr. Frank A. Stubblefield, superintendent of the asylum.

"Twelve of the prisoners in the exercise hall scrambled up the wall of the building we had been fixing," he said. "As they started, a group of guards, all unarmed, tried to deter them, but the twelve kept on.

"A tower guard observed the move, and he began firing at them. He did not try to kill them. This is proved by the fact the tower guard used bird shot instead of rifle bullets."

Dr. Stubblefield said that Litts, the former cowboy, had smuggled himself out of prison some time ago. He was arrested in Rockford where he again was preparing to blow up the horse meat cannery. Litts' explanation was that as a cowboy he could not let horses be killed for meat.

WOMAN DIES OF POISON.

Worry over financial difficulties, principally the payment of taxes on her property, was assigned yesterday as the motive for the suicide of Mrs. Cora Rocchelli, 60 years old, 357 East 117th street, who took poison last week.

MRS. BORN ASKS COURT TO RAISE HER ALLOWANCE

Mrs. E. Eunice Born, 4746 Greenwood avenue, first woman legislator in the state of Texas and once candidate for nomination for governor of the state, appeared before Superior Judge John J. Sullivan yesterday to ask an increase in alimony from her husband, Henry C. Born, president of the Born Refrigerator company. Born had been ordered to pay $130 a month pending conclusion of her suit for separate maintenance.

Born has been paying $70 monthly rental on his wife's apartment. The lease expired May 1, necessitating some other provision, she said. She declared her husband to be worth $100,000 with a weekly income of $200. Born asserted his income has diminished since the order was made.

SOX OVERTAKE BOSTON IN NINTH; WIN, 9 TO 8

VOIGT REACHES THIRD ROUND IN BRITISH MEET

Douglas Fairbanks Is Eliminated.

[Copyright, 1931: By the New York Times.]

HOYLAKE, England, May 18.—[Special.]—George Voigt, the most feared of the United States challengers, and Douglas Fairbanks, movie star, both enhanced their reputations as golfers in the British amateur championship here today. Voigt, after a shaky start, scored two victories, beating T. H. Bowman, recently in the last sight of the English closed championship, by 4 and 3, and in the second round eliminating F. Francis Ouimet, a player from Sunningdale, by 1 and 1.

Fairbanks won the plaudits of an amazing gallery by taking J. R. Ambrosiadis—a Liverpool player, who beat the redoubtable Tom Ball in his last amateur championship—to the last green before lowering his flag to a finish. A huge crowd followed the Fairbanks match, composed largely of diplomats and autograph hunters, and it contained several women who pushed perambulators and babies around the entire five mile course.

Fairbanks Is Stymied.

After slicing his drive at the fourteenth and playing short with his second, a good chip placed Doug in position for getting down in four, but Ambrosiadis's third laid him stymie, which cost him the hole and the match.

Voigt was as nervous as his opponent, Bowman, for the first three holes, but he took the lead at the seventh of them looked like a loser. He squared two up and, playing par golf, won a easy victory. He convinced the spectators with his smooth, even play that his reputation of being the best amateur to Bobby Jones is well earned and it is believed the big Englishman with a chance of stopping him in this competition is not likely.

Another Amateur Wins.

With Voigt another United States player, T. Maguire of Stockdale, survived the first round, while among the losers in addition to Fairbanks was L. B. Phillips, a Californian; Jim Thompson of Uniontown, who succeeded to L. H. R. Hornaby at the twenty-third hole, and Johnny de Forest of Rancho, who was beaten at the 5th by Douglas Grant, formerly of California.

In the second round J. H. Forshaw of the Winged Foot club, defeated Harry over Herbert Scheftel, an American student at Oxford university, and passed with Voight into the third round. E. Noel Layton, Michigan Golf, and Sir Ernest Holderness are the strongest British players to be defeat in the opening rounds.

THOSE PLAY TODAY.

HOYLAKE, England, May 18.—(AP)—America's quartet of invading professionals unlimber their golf clubs on an English soil tomorrow in the St. Lou's 1,000 guineas tournament, a 72 hole medal competition.

The Americans, Horton Smith and Al Espinosa of New York and Leo Diegel and Joe Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., got one break today when it was announced that Henry Cotton, youthful British pro, had withdrawn his entry in order to go back to Carnoustie to practice for the British open. Cotton recently beat Smith on the final day in the Southport professional tournament. Another British stalwart, the veteran Abe Mitchell, has scratched his entry on account of illness.

GENERAL CLINNIN TO SPEAK TODAY FOR BOXING BILL

Springfield, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—Chairman John V. Clinnin of the Illinois athletic commission will speak in behalf of the boxing bill when it is considered tomorrow by the senate committee on efficiency and economy. The bill passed the house of representatives in slightly amended form.

The principal changes which would be brought about by the bill are an increase in the number of rounds for professional boxing exhibitions from ten to sixteen and the placing of amateur boxing under strict control, limiting participants to four rounds, but only if they are 16 or more years of age.

Amateur boxing exhibitions are also dealt with professional bouts in the event to the state of a 10 per cent tax of the total gross receipts from the sale of tickets. Contests conducted by schools, the army or navy and military reserve units are exempt from the payment of this tax.

The only amendment tacked on to the bill in the house was the elimination of provisions for an increase in the salaries of the members of the boxing commission.

Lesnds Beats Ladurine by Knockout in Fifth

GOOD FOOD SPORT FAN'S ALIBI FOR SPEEDY EXODUS

He Sees His Show, Then Seeks Square Meal.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—As picturesque as any phase of these great American sports outings, such as the Kentucky Derby, the Poughkeepsie regatta, the football games, and the world series, is the mad scramble of the customers to get somewhere else the instant the show is over. Within an hour after the decision the special trains are clicking over the switches in the dark yards, proceeding cautiously, without much early foot, as the horse people put it in their curious jargon.

Then going into their stride and belting past the crossings and whistling posts, revealing blurry glimpses of luxury and festivity in the yellow light of the interiors, especially the interiors of the private cars, as they roar past the smoky cottages of the poof out along the line. Inside the cars, all moist and dusty and just generally gummy from the effort, the heat and the excitement of having a good time, the passengers are unbuttoning their vests and ringing for the porters to bring cork screws and gingerale or mineral water, and also, later on, the menu.

Come the Conductors.

The train conductor and the Pullman conductor, who are pretty good fellows as a rule, especially in the north, start at the head end, as the railroad people put it in a curious jargon of their own, and work back toward the tail end, holding up the passengers for their tickets and contriving to fish out an unsold lower for the fellow who had to buy an upper back in the station or changing over a couple of guys from one upper in 991-B and one lower in 986-B to compartment J in car 990-B, where they can slip down their suspenders, put their feet up or flick their ashes onto the floor and maybe start a game of dealer's choice, with a couple of other guys which is likely to last until 6 a. m. or until the losers are certain that they have had a non-legitimate run for their ten bucks.

Elsewhere the conductors, in my observations, are not as decent as those in the north, and this probably is explained by the fact that they go in for lodge buttons on their lapels and watch chains. A lot of those lodges, such as the Klux, are maintained so that people can get together on meeting night and hate some other class of people under formal conditions, and this trait is characteristic of prohibitionists, so when a fellow sees a conductor or brakeman coming with a mysterious button or emblem showing which cannot be recognized as the badge of one of the decent fraternal orders, it is a prudent idea to slide the pint back into the satchel and breathe the other way.

Yanked off Train.

Once, when Indiana was Klux, a party I know was yanked off a train and jailed up, at Gary of all places, for taking a private noggin of sedative in the vestibule, but, as I say, Indiana was Klux then. Since that time the head man of the Klux has been jailed for ravishing and killing a girl on a train while drunk, and upon his withdrawal from the scene the state began a swing toward civilization.

This anxiety to get going for home after a big sport event probably is due mostly to the desire for a decent meal, because there are only four or five cities in the United States with restaurants above the class of the beanery, even in the hotels, whereas the railroad diners, as a rule, serve pretty good material and well cooked under the most difficult conditions. When thousands of people are dumped into a place where the very best rooms normally rent for $5 a day, the managements of all the establishments in town which have a shot at the incoming victims just sight down the barrel and let fly with both triggers.

This is a little bit irritating, but, after all, it's their business, because any time the customers are wounded too deep they will quit coming and the annual show, whether it be horse

GOLF STROKES · RIGHT & WRONG

by Jock Hutchison

RIGHT.

To execute the explosion shot out of a trap, it is necessary to hit down on the ball. Take your stance with the ball about opposite the center of the body. Then use an upright backswing rather than a sweeping stroke, lifting the hands well and bringing the club head high above the head.

WRONG.

The beginner's stance, with his left foot opposite the ball, is such that the club head will have begun its upward arc before the impact, whereas the most important point about this stroke is to hit down on the ball. His hands and elbows are much too low and too close to the body. His muscles are tense and stiff.

Giants Whip Cardinals, 6-3; Threaten Lead

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—The Giants beat the Cardinals, 6 to 3, today and advanced to within a mashie-niblick shot of first place. Bill Walker let the Cards down with three unearned runs and six hits.

New York really won the game in the second inning off Jess Haines when Ott, Jackson and Verges singled and Leach doubled. Bottomley's fumble on O'Farrell helped swell the total to 4 runs. Jackson's double and Verges's single in the fifth brought another and the Giants picked up one more in the seventh. Score:

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 18.—The frolicsome and usually futile Phillies waited till one was out in the ninth today before giving the Cubs their fifth tanning of the current trip and their second whipping of the three game series here. The Phillies made two runs in the final inning to return themselves the victors by a score of 5 to 4.

Ed Baecht, making his second start as a Cub, was a pretty good pitcher until he began to weaken in the seventh. In the first half dozen innings only three hits and one run had been made off his offerings, the run being Buzz Arlett's seventh homer of the year. The Cubs had made two runs after two were out in the third and two after two were out in the fourth. The habitual Cub smugness was everywhere at the end of these first six innings.

Phils Get to Baecht.

In the seventh the enemy made their second run of the game on a single, a walk, an infield out and a long fly. In the eighth Baecht was saved from disaster through brilliant catches by Moore and Cuyler. The Phillies nevertheless made a run on three singles.

The Cubs were leading, 4 to 3, going into the ninth and there wasn't much consternation when Baecht was fanned by Benge, and Moore and English followed with silly little flies to Bartell and Friberg.

Then came the fatal Phil ninth. Mallon batted for Benge and the confident Chicagoans all but laughed in his face when he was called out on strikes. Brickell, who hadn't made a hit all afternoon, succeeded in bouncing a wicked grounder off Grimm's mitt for a single. Still there was no appreciable concern on the part of our boys. But things were different a few seconds later.

Bartell Squawks, Then Doubles.

Baecht threw a fast one past Bartell and Umpire Klem called it a strike. Daredevil Dick squawked as much as any batsman dares squawk at Mr. Klem. Then he took time out and powdered his hands with rosin. It was swell Philadelphia rosin, for Bartell drove a line double along the left line. Wilson had the ball on the way to the plate shortly after Brickell rounded third, but the throw got past Hartnett, Brickell scoring and Bartell pulling up at third. A double and third on Hartnett's error, they ruled it.

Baecht was yanked before the runners had stopped sprinting and Jakie May was called in. Jake, of course, gave intentional walks to Klein and Arlett to fill the bases. He pitched a wide one to Hurst. He came in with

Maps to Direct Boat Racers to Navy Pier

ENTRY BLANK ON PAGE 27.

Maps of the course in Lake Michigan from Milwaukee to Chicago for the outboard marathon which will be sponsored by THE TRIBUNE May 30 will be mailed to all contestants. A complete list of instructions drawn up by the racing committee also will be mailed.

The outboard marathon inaugurates the speed races for inboard and outboard motors at Navy pier on May 31.

Each contestant must have a blue print of the course if for no other reason than his own safety. The course will be patrolled by the coast guard and by airplanes, and drivers who do not follow the course obviously will be in peril in event of accident.

Four on Racing Committee.

The racing committee which is preparing the instructions and the blue prints is composed of H. E. Richardson, David Zimmerman, William C. Guyer, Owen Miller and James Mulroy.

The Milwaukee committee will have an additional supply for the contestants when they meet in Milwaukee the night before the race.

Entries have been received from seven states for the marathon and the outboard races at Navy pier. These states are Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Alabama, Iowa and Wisconsin. George Cost, Birmingham, Ala., who holds the world's record for class C outboards, has entered the races.

All of the 14 races on May 31 will be decided by two laps over the 2½ mile course except the contest for the Eugene F. McDonald Jr. trophy for the amateur outboard championship of the central west. This will be determined in two heats of five miles each.

Entry Blanks Ready.

Service motors are required in displacement boat races in classes B and C, while stock motors must be used in all races.

Applications for sanctions have been made to the American Power Boat association and the National Outboard association.

Official entry blanks are ready and may be obtained by sending the blank printed in these columns to the Motor Boat Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The list of 14 races at Navy pier May 31 follows:

Stock runabouts—50 to 125 horse power.
Stock runabouts—125 to 200 horse power.
Stock runabouts—225 to 300 horse power.
Open handicap race for inboard boats, based on manufacturer's advertised horse power.
Hydroplanes—125 cubic inches.
Class A outboard race for amateurs.
Class B outboard race for amateurs.
Class C outboard race, open.
Class D and E outboard race, open.
Class F and free for all, open.
Displacement boat race, handicapped for class B and class C amateur drivers.
Amateur displacement boat race, free for all.
Amateur outboard race for the championship of the central west.

Berlanger Wins 10 Round Decision Over Pete Latzo

SIMONS' DOUBLE CLIMAX TO SIX RUN BARRAGE

Bill Cissell Stars in Field.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Ted Lyons' comeback party yesterday was almost a total loss. It was so far as Ted's pitching was concerned, but not for the White Sox. With an unmistakable defeat about to engulf them, they set the wheels of victory in motion in the ninth and kept going until a six run rally had provided enough to knock off Boston's Red Hose for the third straight time. The score was 9 to 8 and the pleasure of driving in the trying and winning markers went to Mel Simons, who responded with a double when selected by Manager Hush't to do something in the pinch.

MEL SIMONS.

The reason that six runs were necessary in the ninth was that the White Sox slipped far to the rear earlier in the struggle when the visitors made it evident that Lyons will need more time before being ready to take up his 1931 labors in a big way. They shattered Ted's ambitions by showering him with hits which netted four runs in the sixth. That made it 6 to 1 against the Sox. They sneaked up a bit with a pair in the seventh but these were lost by a similar blast, touched off under Hal McKain in Boston's final. That stretched the count to 8 to 2 but it stayed that way only for about five minutes.

Kerr Starts Rally.

Kerr's third single off Horace Lisenbee set the parade going in the tempestuous conclusion. Jeffries did the same thing and McKain walked. This filled the bases and also terminated Lisenbee's reign. Rookie Ed Durham was shoved into the breach, but was hardly settled in his place before a triple to right rattled off Blue's bat for half of the eventual six runs. Then Cissell popped out and Reynolds grounded to short, Blue scoring.

Jolley's contribution was a single to right and he was promptly excused for Appling, a speedier runner. Eichrodt joined the parade with a single to center, Appling taking third. Then Simons was moved in as pinch hitter for Tate. He whistled a liner down the right field corner. Appling skipped over the plate and Eichrodt, rounding third just as Webb's return throw was reaching the relay man, was ordered to keep on moving. He did and slipped across the plate with the winning run just as Ruel reached down to tag him.

Cissell Shines in Field.

Lyons surrendered only one hit and a lone run in the first four innings, but this was due considerably to the agility of Cissell at short. In the second he threw out Webb on a hard chance after Lyons had deflected the ball. He stopped the next hitter, Oliver, by reaching out for a scorching liner. The above mentioned run and hit occurred at the start of the third. Pickering was the author of a healthy slap into the seats in left. Then Cissell proved himself of value by getting two of the other visitors who batted in this inning. One he threw out after a beautiful running pickup. In the other instance he leaped high for a line drive.

The Chicago Sox evened it up at one apiece in the home third, but really deserved at least two runs. Jeffries led off with a two bagger to the left field scoreboard, and Lyons tried to bunt him to third, but inadvertently he popped to Lisenbee. Blue lined to right for a double, Jeffries scoring. Cissell bounced a slow one to short and Rhyne scooped it up, but wisely refrained from throwing to first. Blue, thinking the throw

MICHIGAN CHOICE TO PASS ILLINOIS IN TRACK RATING

Both Win Eleven Big Ten Outdoor Titles.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Since 1918 Michigan and Illinois have divided Western conference track and field honors in the outdoor meets. Last year Michigan ended a three year rule of the Illini and scored its sixth triumph since 1918. Illinois has won seven times since that year. In the annual competition Friday and Saturday at Dyche stadium the odds favor the Wolverines to add a seventh victory in 14 years.

Scan the records since the first meet was held back in 1901 and you will find that Illinois and Michigan are tied with 11 victories each. So if Michigan wins, as it seems probable it will, it will have additional glory in distancing all members of the Big Ten by winning 12 meets. And Michigan has not been associated with the Western conference all of this time.

Illinois Second Choice.

Illinois is the only other outstanding team for the 1931 title, and its chances have been lessened recently by injury and illness. Paul Evans, an excellent miler, is lost to Coach Gill's squad and Lee Sentman is not in his best condition since he injured his knee in the shuttle hurdle relay at the Drake games this spring.

Eddie Tolan is the big gun in Michigan's drive for the title. Tolan, who finishes his Big Ten competition Saturday, should win both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Perry Austin, who won the Big Ten indoor two mile race, has an excellent chance to repeat his victory. Indiana's distance runners—the Hoosiers scored four of the five places last spring—bar his way. Austin ran the two miles indoors in 9 minutes 23 4-10 seconds. Henry Brocksmith of Indiana won the event last spring in 9:34.2.

Russell Quarter Mile Favorite.

The members of Michigan's mile relay team will account for two or three of the five places in the quarter mile. Edwin Russell, anchor man on the relay quartet, should win unless Coach Ned Merriam of Chicago decides to start Dale Letts in the race. Letts probably can win two races, for he is equally proficient in the quarter, half mile and mile. He won the half mile last spring in 1:56 and has been timed nearly three seconds faster this year. It's a fair guess Letts will compete in the half mile and mile Saturday.

Ralston Russell of Ohio State is good for first or second in the high jump if he is in form. Ted Shaw of Wisconsin and Hackle of Minnesota are the class of the others with Ed Gordon of Iowa, a more or less in and outer in his performances.

Pottle, in the pole vault; Eggleston in the hurdles; Goldsmith, shot put; Dougal, javelin, and Jack Campbell and Charles Smyth in the dashes, should pick up enough points to place Michigan in front.

Michigan Strong in Relay.

Michigan also rates to win the mile relay and in winning to establish a new Western conference record. The Big Ten record of 3:19.9 was set by Michigan in 1926. Elsnovich, DeBaker, Glading and Edwin Russell covered the mile in 3:18.1 at the Drake relays in April. Ohio State is a close second with Northwestern a dark horse in the event.

Illinois' chances depend on Sentman. If Lee can defeat Jack Keller of Ohio State, his sophomore rival, who ran the high hurdles in 14.3 seconds at the Penn relays (although he knocked over two hurdles preventing acceptance of the time as a new world record), Illinois may win. This, of course, takes for granted Sentman's victory in the low hurdles.

If Keller wins both hurdle races and Ohio can whip Michigan's mile relay team, then count the Buckeyes in the battle for the title.

Letts Perils 880 Mark.

While individual winners can be predicted in most of the 16 events, no more than three of the 21 year old records are seriously threatened.

Letts may break the mark of 1:52.2 in the half mile. Keller or Sentman has a chance at the 14.6 second mark in the high hurdles. Gordon possibly may better 25 feet 2½ inches in broad jump, while Sammy Behr of Wisconsin has a chance to upset his own mark of 49 feet 1½ inches in the shotput. Weldon of Iowa may better 207 feet 7 5-5 inches in the javelin, but the odds should be 50 to 1 that he won't. Michigan's relay team also stands a chance to get into the record lists.

MAROON TENNIS TEAM DEFEATS GOPHERS, 8 TO 1

Minneapolis, Minn., May 18.—[Special.]—The University of Chicago tennis team, led by Scott Rexinger, Big Ten champion, and Paul Stagg, defeated Minnesota, 8 to 1, here today.

Rexinger defeated Henry Yutze, Gopher star, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-5, and Stagg did the same to Charles Britsius, another Minnesota star, 7-5, 6-3. Summaries:

Hard Hitters Entertain at Stadium Show

Wesley Ramey, who is taking his boxing from the Rockford Maestro, Sammy Mandell, will begin training at the Arcade gymnasium today for his eight round bout with Johnny Jadick at the Chicago Stadium next Monday night.

Ramey is considered one of the real finds of the game. His professional experience is not extensive, but under the guidance of the former lightweight champion, he already has defeated Harry Dublinsky twice, Eddie Anderson once, and taken a fierce ten round fight from Steve Haliako. Last week he decisively outpointed Sammy Dorfmann.

His opponent, Johnny Jadick, is regarded as one of the best punchers in the 135 pound division, rating in this respect with Ray Miller, Danny Delmont, Tony Canzoneri, and Tommy Grogan. His great claim to prominence is his seven round knockout of King Tut at Philadelphia and their return fight at Milwaukee, in which he pounded out an easy decision, dropping Tut three times. Tut is one of the best rated 135 pounders in the game.

Jadick and Ramey will meet in one of the four supporting numbers to the Gorilla Jones-Bucky Lawless fight, which marks the Stadium's second venture in the three dollar top boxing business. Lawless will arrive tomorrow to complete his training, and Jones, a junior middleweight, will come here today.

Delmont, Chicago lightweight who punched out a decision over Davey Abad on the Stadium's last card, is training strenuously at the Arcade for his fight for Russ Miller. This is given the second position on Monday's card.

Lonely Heath Bird Waging Losing Fight

BY BOB BECKER.

The last heath bird to be found anywhere in the world is gradually approaching the day when his going will mark the extinction of another species of wild life in North America. This lonely bachelor bird, the last of his race, is living on Martha's Vineyard island, Mass. There was some doubt as to whether this poor old bachelor survived the winter, but he recently proclaimed his existence to a waiting world of bird lovers by emerging in good health from his winter hiding.

But no mate waited to greet him on the ancestral booming ground of his tribe, a meadow near West Tisbury, Mass. Apparently the bird didn't expect a mate, because he did not boom and strut as is the fashion of the prairie chicken during the mating season.

Still Looking for a Mate.

Many requests have been received by scientists who are watching this last member of the heath bird tribe to give this bird a female prairie chicken or some other near relative as a mate, but, as Prof. Alfred O. Gross of Bowdoin college, Maine, points out, past experience has proved that this procedure would be useless. Some years ago when the heath birds had disappeared from all parts of their range except on Martha's Vineyard, prairie chickens were introduced in large numbers, but they died off. This family of birds is not adaptable to new or changing environment.

Not since the spring of 1929 has this lone heath bird gone through his queer dancing and courtship antics. At that time his repeated performances went unnoticed except by photographers, bird students, and others who watched the solitary bird from blinds in the brush.

Others Face Same Fate.

The heath bird's fate can safely be predicted for our prairie chickens here in the middle west unless refuges are established. The prairie chicken cannot survive when his habitat is taken from him. He isn't like the pheasant, a bird that can exist and flourish most anywhere in a catch as catch can environment.

We have only to look at the situation affecting the prairie chickens in Illinois to see what is ahead. Undoubtedly intensive farming has taken more prairie chickens than any other factor in this state. The range, the natural habitat of the birds, is gone forever here and in other states, and the pheasant is now the king where thousands of covies of prairie chickens once were found.

Lake Forest Baseball Team Beats North Central, 6 to 4

Lake Forest defeated North Central college in a baseball game at Naperville yesterday, 6 to 4, in 12 innings. Lake Forest went into the ninth trailing by four runs, but rallied to tie the count. Orth, Lake Forest captain, tripled in the 12th and scored on Maske's drive to center field. Maske, in turn, scored on Katzenmaier's double to deep left.

JACK HOWE GETS HIS DANDER UP TO WIN AT AURORA

Bettors Desert Veteran, So He Shows 'Em.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Jack Howe, the nimble foot whose courage gives way on him many times in the stretch, got up his spunk yesterday and rambled along in front of his field all the way in the Chicago Women's Club Jubilee handicap at Aurora.

Maybe Old Jack was mad because the folks who usually make him a very short priced favorite deserted him. In the opening betting he was the choice at 2 to 1. But his former admirers simply wouldn't have anything to do with him, and his price drifted up to 4 to 1 at post time.

Price Peeves Jack.

Jack took one squint at the odds board and got mad. He must have been mad, for he outran such an early flyer as Peggy J. right from the beginning. And the longer he ran the madder he became. He trounced Peggy J. so quickly she was through at the head of the stretch. Sage Fire and Little Gyp took up the chase, but Jack was so mad by this time he wouldn't even turn around and look at them. He led Little Gyp to the line of finish by a length and a half. Bag Smasher was going fast near the end and grabbed third money. A length and a half is quite a distance for Jack Howe to beat any horse.

Jack stepped his 5½ furlongs before a ladies' day crowd of some 10,000 in 1:04 4-5, about as fast horses have run here this sprint. The mutuel price was $9.20.

Celtic Prince, at one time a good horse in the east, and which has been trying to win a race at Aurora ever since the season opened, took the Lilac Bloom purse at a mile and a sixteenth.

It was a good effort and so was Racketeer, Beton, and Playfellow's Son came up to challenge he ran close their feet, after staying in the way.

Racketeer was in the air when start came, but quickly recovered went after the leader. He was wide on the turn, but still clung to the most troublesome challenger in the last few jumps. Then he second money to Playfellow's Son by a slight margin.

Prince Never Weakens.

Celtic Prince's three earlier failures had not caused the players to down him, so he was the second choice in the betting at 3 to 1. He never weakened. Jockey A. Dickey did the next one and Don drove a single to left which permitted Bartell to walk home with the winning run.

Phillies Wait Until Ninth to Beat Cubs, 5-4

Open at Boston Today.

In losing today, the Cubs can't make a 50-50 showing on their first eastern trip even if they sweep the three game Boston series which opens tomorrow. Since leaving home the Cubs have lost a two game series with the Giants, a one day appearance against the Robins and, as previously mentioned, were taken for two out of three in this city. Blake is the probable pitching choice for the Boston opener and the fellows expect to go against Cantwell.

The Cubs were leading 2 to 1 at the end of three innings despite discouragements in the first two sessions. In the first and second innings they were unable to get the ball out of the infield, futility in the span including a strike out by Hornsby. Then Arlett lumbered up to the plate and whanged Baecht's second pitch many feet over the right field screen. Hurst lined to Baecht and Hornsby threw out Whitney, but Friberg singled to right, and Davis walked. Stoner popped to Grimm for the third out.

English Drives in Pair.

Bell started the third with fly to Klein, but Grimm opened with the first of his hits, a single to left and was moved to second by Baecht's sacrifice. Moore walked and English doubled off the right field wall, Grimm and Moore scoring. Hornsby grounded to Whitney, who tagged English for the third out.

The two runs made by the Cubs in the fourth also were acquired after two were out. Wilson and Cuyler grounded out, but Hartnett singled to left and went to second while Bell was beating out a hit to Bartell. Grimm again singled, this time to right, scoring Hartnett and putting Bell on third. Baecht singled to left, Bell scoring and Grimm stopping at second. Moore popped to Friberg.

In the fifth the Cubs again got two men on, after two were out, but this time failed to accumulate because Hartnett fanned. The Cubs got the first two men on in the sixth, but failed to produce a score. Bell, after pulling a muscle in running out a foul ball, walked, and went to second while Grimm was knocking his third successive hit. Lester then gave way to Jurges. Baecht flied to Arlett. The runners advanced while Davis was throwing out Moore, but died when English rolled to Friberg.

Wilson Hits Into Double Play.

Hornsby started the seventh with a single to left, but went down with Wilson in a double play. Friberg opened the home seventh with his second and the Phils' fourth hit off Baecht. Davis walked and the runners advanced while Koster, batting for Watt, bounced out to Grimm. Brickell sent a long fly to Moore and Friberg scored after the catch.

Klein opened the Phil eighth with a single off the right field fence. Then Moore made a nice running catch of Arlett's drive. Hurst forced Klein and stopped at second on Whitney's single to left. Friberg ran the count to three balls and two strikes before knocking out his third single, Hurst scoring and Whitney stopping at second. McCurdy batted for Rensa and gave Cuyler a chance to equal Moore's bacon saving catch. Ki pulled down Mac's drive while running full speed to the scoreboard.

You know the rest of this sad, sad tale.

MAIL CARRIERS GO FOR A WALK OVER GOLF LINKS

Taking a day off, the Chicago mail carriers walked around the Edgebrook golf course yesterday. About 250 of them turned out. Of the old guard Art Parks led in low gross with 38—37—75. John Hornbeck turned in 40—37—77 and Stanley Karp, with 40—39—79, was third. Among the more recent members the Myers family, M. F. and R. P., won first and second with 85 and 86, respectively, while H. J. Kleinhen, with 89, took third.

In the net division Fred Kuhn, with 88—19—69, topped the field, as A. Matron, who turned in another 69, had a 30 handicap. Charles Reedy scored 83—12—71. Some of the other low net men were:

Stanley Karp, 79—7—72; R. F. Wittkowski, 93—20—73; Art Orwiler, 93—20—73; Carl Cobelli, 87—13—74; A. R. Howsinger, 89—15—74; W. L. Benson, 91—17—74; Albert Nelson, 99—25—74; Ed O'Neill, 99—24—75; H. Sox Score Six in Ninth; Beat Boston, 9 to 8 would be made, overran third base and was nailed. A moment later Reynolds hit a fly to right, on which Blue could have scored had he still been in existence as a base runner.

Pickering's bat was the cause of another Boston run in the fifth. Oliver opened the inning with a double to right and was sacrificed to third by Van Camp. Pickering's single to center drove home the run. The Pale Hose endeavored to do a little business in this round, but didn't get far.

Lyons' attempted comeback started to fall apart in the four run sixth, when Rhyne singled with one out. Rothrock also hit safely for one base. Sweeney popped out and Lyons filled the bases by discreetly walking Webb. Oliver shot a single out to Jolley's precinct, Rhyne and Rothrock scoring, Webb going to third and Oliver hiking to second on the throw in.

Van Camp singled and the two runners scooted home. Another hit was supplied by Pickering but Lyons got out of the jam when Ruel grounded into a force play.

The Sox started off in the seventh as if determined to wreck everything in sight, but they subsided suddenly and had only two runs to show for their effort. Tate opened the inning with a double to left and a single over second by Kerr scored him. A fly to center ended Jeffries' chance and Watwood was asked to swing in Lyons' place. He responded with a single to right and when Webb kicked the ball Kerr continued to the plate and Watwood pulled up at second. Blue's best was a fly to center. Cissell did the same thing, except that he aimed his to right.

Frasier will operate in the series opener against Washington today. The latter probably will be led by Fred Marberry. Mr. Fonseca, traded by Cleveland for Kamm, will be in action if he arrives. He was due yesterday but nobody saw him.

Herman's Bat Helps Robins Win, 14 to 4

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 18.—[Special.]—Babe Herman got into his old time batting stride here this afternoon and pounded the Reds into submission while Brooklyn was taking the rubber game of a series of three, 14 to 4.

Herman hit a home run, triple, double, and a single, driving in five runs and scoring four himself. Cincinnati using four pitchers, Eckert, Carroll, Wysong and Ogden. Score:

Boston, Mass., May 18.—[Special.]—Ed Brandt pitched his sixth straight victory of the season for the Braves this afternoon, beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3 to 1. This gives Boston a two to one edge in the series.

Brandt held the Pirates to five hits, one of which was Eddie Phillips' home run into the left field bleachers in the fifth.

Ervin Brame started his first game of the season for the Pirates and held the Braves to six hits and made two hits himself. Worthington's two doubles were the big factors in the Boston run making. Score:

Grimes Tells How Pitcher Can Save Self

New York, May 18.—(AP)—As you get older you get smarter and you realize that pitching, like any other business, is a question of spreading yourself over a maximum of territory with a minimum of effort.

That's Burleigh Grimes' baseball philosophy. The embattled wanderer of the diamond, one of the few great survivors of the almost obsolete clan of spitball hurlers, is sailing serenely through his nineteenth season in the major leagues, crowding his philosophy to the limit. He has won five straight games for the St. Louis Cardinals and expects to pitch 20 more before the season is over.

"As I grow older I become more careful. I found out that trying to strike out everybody that came up to the plate didn't pay. I realized that baseball is a business and the smart thing to do is to spread that salary they pay you over as many seasons as possible."

"If you can pitch 20 wins in our league you're in the select circle," he went on. "There isn't much difference between getting 20 and 25 when you're throwing right. You can get famous by pitching those two and three hit games and striking out a dozen or so. But at the end of the season they add 'em up in the business office and a 9 to 8 win counts just as much for you as the other fellows' shutouts. The only difference is that you've got something left."

And It Costs, Too.

The Europeans who roll their eyes and drool at the mouth when they talk of those delicious American meats are referring, of course, to the prime steaks and the best roasts and chops, with no conception of the horrors of the minute steak, with its garnishment of soggy fried potatoes, or the gutta percha filet, swimming in creosote gravy, with which every customer of the distant sporting events has become familiar at prices which would seem to imply that every meat critter slaughtered in the U. S. A. was some kind of sacred cow.

Coming out of Louisville Saturday night, as the train drew nigh to Cincinnati, the dining car then being at ease, with the colored boys laughing and talking and fetching their own trays to a covey of tables up in one corner of the diner, I saw a little kid with yellow hair settle down at one of the tables.

"That's Kurtsinger," one of the porters said, and, for a fact, it was the same kid who a few hours before had chauffeured the great Twenty Grand around the circle at Churchill Downs to win the Kentucky Derby. A joyous, pleasant little fellow, more than 20 and less than 24 I would say this Kurtsinger was, too young and honest to effect any show of indifference to the great event that had happened in his life that day. He had a good face and his brown eyes shone as he pushed back the menu to talk about the horse and Mrs. Payne Whitney, the great American aristocrat, who had run an arm over his little shoulders in the inclosed green space before the stands in a happy, motherly embrace after the race was won.

"They told me to get on top and stay there," he said, "but the horse wouldn't do it at first. He was sort of heavy at the start, but when he got going I could feel how good he was. I didn't have to give him the whip, really, and I just let him run and touched him a little. Over there in the back stretch I could tell what he was going to do."

"You were born in Louisville, weren't you, Charlie?"

"Yeah, sure; just a little way from the track. I been reading and hearing and thinking about riders who rode winners in the Derby since I was, O, just a little kid. It sure was a big day for me; I'm telling you, a big day. They didn't hang the shawl of flowers over the horse's neck the way they always do. He was too excited. A big day for all of us."

BABE RUTH AND OTHER STARS TO PLAY IN JAPAN

Tokio, Mass., May 18.—(AP)—Japan has professional baseball stars just as good as Babe Ruth or Hack Wilson or least that's what Yoshi Tuki Kazami, general passenger agent of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Steamship line says.

What's more, there's going to be a chance to prove or disprove that statement, for, Kazami says, arrangements have been completed for taking a team of 14 American professional baseball players, including the mighty Babe, to Japan at the close of the regular season.

Kazami, who is a nephew of Kenichi Kazami, president of the steamship line, is honeymooning in the United States. He was a delegate to the convention of the International Chamber of Commerce in Washington.

Kazami said the American baseball players would meet teams in Tokyo and Kobe. He also said plans were being made to take over to Japan a team of other Holy Cross college or College university to meet Japanese college teams.

SIMMONS LEADS BIG SIX BATTERS WITH .433 MARK

Continuing to hit at a terrific clip as the Athletics ride roughshod over their western opponents, Al Simmons today is building up a long lead in the major league batting race. By getting three out of five against Cleveland yesterday, Connie Mack's slugger raised his average up to .433 and today was 40 points ahead of his closest rival, Bob Fothergill of the White Sox.

Earl Worthington of the Braves climbed back into the select circle when he connected for a pair of doubles against Pittsburgh. The top three in each league:

STEADY SELLING FORCES CHICAGO STOCKS LOWER

Losses Are Reduced in Final Trading.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Under constant fire from the professional sharp shooters playing the short side and the board room semi-pros who have grown confident with their recent successes in selling shares, stocks on the Chicago exchange were driven further back yesterday. In many instances they pierced hitherto unexplored price territory.

The retreat was orderly and in the final minutes of trading losses were reduced, but the closing list revealed uniformly lower prices. There was no "bad news" for the recession, which was merely a continuation of the process which has been under way for weeks.

Losses Are Limited.

Notable price changes were few. In the automotive, utility and investment trust shares the losses were generally fractional. In a few of the specialties such as Great Lakes Dredge and U. S. Gypsum the declines exceeded a point. The former issue, which has given a good performance in recent weeks, was under rather heavy pressure and was more active than it has been for some time. It gave up almost 2 points as ownership of approximately 7,500 shares was switched.

Gypsum sold down to 39 on a few hundred shares the first dealing here in the last few sessions. It has been pointed out that the building outlook does not warrant the expectation of an increase in sales by U. S. Gypsum this year but economies effected should help maintain earnings.

Develops New Lines

The company's earnings gained last year as the result of the settlement of the price war which had been cutting profits for several years. The increase was made in face of a 32 per cent drop in sales, it is pointed out by Standard Statistics.

The company acquired several concerns last year, but the greater part of the expansion program has been completed, it is stated. The management is now directing its attention to the assimilation of the firms acquired and the development of new lines.

COTTON AT NEW LOW

Cotton prices yesterday dropped to the lowest in 15 years and closed with only a small rally from the bottom, with losses of over $2.00 a bale. In Chicago futures were off 21@22 points, New York 24@27 points, and New Orleans 25@28 points. Spots in New York dropped 25 points to 9.15c, with New Orleans off 15 points to 8.95c. Galveston 9.10c and Houston 8.95c. Liverpool was 8@9 points lower with spot sales 4,000 bales, including 2,000 American. Stop loss selling and comparatively poor supports, coupled with the break in steel to below par and more favorable news from the south, were depressing influences. Covering by shorts gave the market its best support. Sentiment was bearish and a factor that detracted from the interest in cotton was the opening of the wool market on the New York Stock exchange.

The Hunter company reported sales of textiles 6% per cent in excess of production. On the other hand a London cable says British cotton trades plan drastic action to curtail production.

J. S. Bache & Co. say somethiag of a bullish nature is needed to overcome present hysteria. Exports for the week were 62,363, against 33,630 bales last year. Since Aug. 1 sales were 6,100,000 bales, against about 6,900,000 bales last year. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quiet and rather easy today. Finished goods were being revised downward and more business was developing. Raw silk was in moderate demand for spot delivery. Wool goods opened quiet. Fine denier rayon was in better call.

ENCOURAGEMENT AND CONGRATULATIONS!

TO young people away at school, the last few weeks before vacation are all important. A telephone call from "the folks" will cheer them on to finish their studies successfully. To those graduating a Long Distance telephone call is a very appropriate way to express your congratulations. If you can't be there in person a telephone call is the next best thing. The cost is small, wherever you call.

CLOSING OF PUBLIC LANDS TO OIL AND GAS SEEKERS HELD VALID

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—The closing of public lands to oil and gas prospectors under President Hoover's oil conservation policy was sustained as legal today by the Supreme court. The decision came in a case instituted to challenge Secretary Wilbur's action in prohibiting prospecting for oil or gas on the public domain as a means of making the administration's conservation policy effective.

Ethel M. McLennan, H. H. Simpson and W. R. Pyron sought permits through the land office at Sacramento, Cal., and Roy G. Barton through the land office at Las Cruces, N. M. All four were refused permits, and brought separate suits in the District of Columbia Supreme court to compel Secretary Wilbur to issue them.

They claimed that under the leasing act of 1920 they were entitled to the permits, contending the secretary was illegally ignoring its provisions. The court issued orders directing the secretary to proceed with the applications "according to law."

The District Court of Appeals reversed the trial court holding the action of the President and the secretary had amounted to a withdrawal of the public domain from exploration for oil and gas under the leasing act and the rejection of the applications was a valid exercise of the power to withdraw the land from oil exploration. Wyoming, Colorado, Montana, Utah and New Mexico joined the applicants when they took their cases to the United States Supreme court.

The government defended the secretary's order in aid of the President's oil conservation policy, as an exercise of reasonable discretion in the public interest, insisting that no citizen had a vested right to enter public lands to prospect for oil, and asserting that the 1920 leasing act did not specifically direct the issuance of such permits, but merely authorized them to be granted, and therefore was not mandatory.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer again today and prices advanced another 1-32 of a cent on continued good inquiry from refiners, while offerings were comparatively light.

After showing some hesitation at the start raw futures firmed up on increased covering against sales in the spot market, with final prices showing net gains of from 1 to 2 points. Approximate sales were 18,000 tons. Prices follow:

Hart-Carter.

Will you kindly inform me regarding your views of Hart-Carter preferred stock as an investment? Enclosed is self-addressed, stamped envelope. Thank you most kindly.—B. M. W.

Hart-Carter & Co., manufacturers grain handling machinery. Net earnings, which in previous years had shown a fairly stable record, were $130,852 for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1930. This was 59 per cent of dividend requirements on 131,987 shares of $2 preference stock. For the preceding twelve months net income was $356,516, which was 3.19 times dividend requirements on 134,400 preference shares and equal to $1.93 per share on 300,100 no par common shares. For the 1928 year net income was $879,912 and for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1927, net income was $738,366.

On Nov. 30, 1930, current assets were $1,610,896 and current liabilities were $103,363. This left a working capital of $1,507,533, against $1,793,503 the year before. Profit and loss surplus was $584,221, against $946,398 on Nov. 30, 1929.

With the dividend payable June 1, 1931, preference stock dividends will be cut from 50 cents to 25 cents quarterly. President Hartley stated that the current position at the time of the declaration of this dividend was about the same as on Nov. 30, 1930, but due to unsatisfactory business conditions generally, the directors desired to conserve cash resources. The preference stock is cumulative.

No dividends are being paid on the common.

The preference stock is convertible and the common more so.

Super-Power Co. of Illinois.

Please give me your opinion of Super-Power Company of Illinois 6% due 1970.—C. A. T.

Super-Power Company of Illinois, an Insull company, was incorporated in 1923. It has fifty year contracts with Commonwealth Edison company, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, Illinois Power and Light corporation, and Central Illinois Public Service company whereby they purchase the entire output.

Total operating revenue for 1930 was $3,429,813, against $2,464,800 for 1929. Interest was earned 1.95 times in 1930, against 2.02 times in 1929.

On Dec 31, 1930, current assets were $5,373,479, and current liabilities were $598,966. This left a working capital of $4,374,513, against $148,764 the year before.

The $10,000,000 first 4½s, due 1970, are secured equally with the $15,000,000 4½ per cent bonds, due 1970, by a first mortgage on all fixed properties, rights, and franchises of the company.

The first 4½s, due 1970, are available for a business man's funds.

ONE HORSE AND ONE MAN CHEESE FIRM PROSPERS

Kraft-Phenix Ends 25th Year.

BY O. A. MATHER.

In these days of sobering and even adverse news of business and industry, there is risk of being branded a Pollyana in recalling that the great businesses of America have survived storm and stress and ever grown greater. However, it may not be amiss to depart from a chronicle of events and tell a tale.

J. L. KRAFT.

In Chicago yesterday the largest cheese business in the world celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. In that relatively brief time, as big business goes, the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation has grown from a one man and one horse affair, starting with a total outlay of $65, to an international organization that last year had sales around $60,000,000 and has plants in fifty states and in Canada, Australia, Cuba, and England.

Depicts Early Efforts.

To commemorate yesterday's anniversary, employes of the corporation presented President J. L. Kraft with a photo depicting Paddy, the old cheese-wagon horse, which was Mr. Kraft's original "partner" in the business. The founder came from Canada to Chicago and his initial assets consisted of the horse and wagon and about $65, part of which he invested in 50 pounds of cheese.

The early vicissitudes of the business and its development were told by Mr. Kraft yesterday.

"I'm sells and coffee for my own breakfast and a bag of oats for Paddy was all I had left to show for my original outlay the second morning I was in Chicago," he said. "So Paddy and I started out with our original assortment of cheese just after dawn. We traveled around the neighborhood of Austin, in what afterward became our familiar route.

"Well, at the end of the first year we were $1,000 in debt, in spite of all the loyal Paddy did and all the sales I could make. In those days people didn't care very much for cheese. Our national per capita consumption was less than one pound a year. And that was easy to understand, for American made cheese of that day was an uncertain commodity. You bought it in chunks—and a chunk was ever like another.

"Bad luck certainly followed Paddy and us around that first year or two. Attempting to increase our sales by the addition of another horse and wagon to the original outlay, I borrowed some money. The second horse died and then Paddy fell and broke his leg. Misfortune seemed about to terminate the biggest cheese business in the world at the end of the year.

Starts Sanitary Marketing.

"But about that time our luck changed. Determination, lots of work and the faithful coöperation enabled us to carry on. Now, twenty-five years later, when business deliveries are carried on by truck, airplane, and railroad, I still consider Paddy one of the greatest assets of the business. We do well to remember him."

Later on Mr. Kraft conceived the idea of pasteurizing and marketing cheese in sanitary and convenient form to preserve its uniformity and keeping qualities. That idea, it is generally conceded throughout the industry, is largely responsible for increasing the national consumption of cheese from three pounds per capita a decade ago to almost five pounds last year.

World Wheat Conference Convenes to Seek Relief

LONDON, May 18.—(AP)—The world wheat conference convened here today, organized with Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner, as permanent chairman, and prepared to begin tomorrow morning detailed consideration of possible remedies for the sickly wheat market.

Expert technicians completed the agenda for the conference, in which representatives of eleven wheat exporting countries are seeking a diagnosis and remedy for the world's wheat ills.

Projects or opinions of delegates from all eleven countries will be heard tomorrow if time permits. Among the first to speak will be Samuel R. McKelvie of the American delegation, grain member of the federal farm board, who will outline the farm board's experiences in attempting to stabilize American wheat prices.

Outlines U. S. Program.

Mr. McKelvie outlined his country's program this afternoon at a conference with newspaper men. By July 1, he said, the United States will be faced with a carry over of roughly 275,000,000 bushels of wheat in the face of the new crop, as compared with an ordinary annual carryover of from 100,000,000 to 125,000,000.

"Consequently," he said, "we have come here prepared to coöperate. But we do not propose to join nor will we agree to join any international pool. Furthermore, we do not propose to dump one bushel of the farm board's holdings, but I don't mean that we will continue to hold the umbrella indefinitely unless other nations also take steps to remedy the situation."

Huge Supply Is Problem.

The immediate problem before the technicians is finding means to dispose of the constantly mounting world visible supplies, which in March set a new record at 830,000,000 bushels. It is the presence of this huge amount in "visible" stocks which authorities argue leads to lower prices. Scattered holdings, they believe, would have a less bearish effect on the market than those huge "visibles." Since March the "visible" total has been somewhat reduced.

Advance indications of what the respective delegations may submit are exceedingly meagre. Many groups came without definite instructions and others, as in the case of the Americans, came only to present their views or experiences without any set plan to propose.

The Polish group is believed to favor a world-wide cartel operating to control exports.

The nations represented are the United States, Canada, Russia, Australia, Argentina, Bulgaria, Hungary, India, Poland, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia. The American delegation includes Mr. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska; Dr. A. E. Taylor of Stanford university, and Nils A. Olson, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics.

FARMERS OPEN FIGHT

BY PAUL POTTER.

Officials of fifty leading farm organizations, including the national commodity agencies created by the federal farm board that last year handled 700 million dollars' worth of farm products, opened a "militant and aggressive campaign against those seeking to destroy coöperative marketing and farm organizations generally" in a conference here yesterday.

The opening gun in their fight came with the unanimous vote to send a telegram to James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board. This message urged "that under no circumstances shall the grain held by the stabilization corporation be put in the hands of the grain trade."

Action Held "Disastrous."

The move came upon the report that a delegation of grain men, after consulting with President Hoover, had been granted a hearing on a proposal to return the government owned wheat, some 250,000,000 bushels, to the trade for marketing.

"Any action to this end," reads the farm conference message, "would be disastrous to the coöperative associations handling grain and will seriously jeopardize chances of success of future activities under the marketing act."

The conference ended last night with the approval of a set of policies subscribed to by the American Farm Bureau federation, the Farmers' National union, the National Grange, and a group of national and regional coöperative agencies.

Announce Policies.

A national agricultural committee was named to set in motion these policies: That the first step toward securing economic equality for agriculture is the wider acceptance among farmers of true coöperative principles; and that national and public realization of the needs and possibilities for improving agriculture contained in the federal farm act must be brought about through a nation-wide educational campaign by all farm organizations.

A second meeting to put into action these policies is to be held in Chicago in a few weeks, according to E. A. O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau federation and of the newly created agricultural committee.

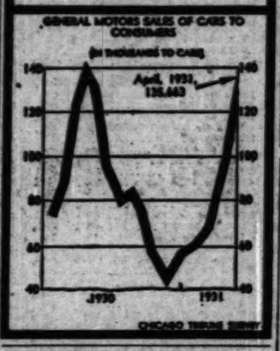
GENERAL MOTORS SALES GAIN FOR FIFTH CONSECUTIVE MONTH



DIRECTORS OF UNITED CARBON CO. OMIT $3.50 PREFERRED PAYMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Directors of the United Carbon company decided to omit the semi-annual dividend of $3.50 a share on the 7 per cent participating noncumulative preferred stock, of which there were 12,573 shares outstanding at the close of last year. Earnings for the first quarter were not sufficient to cover preferred dividends. Because of this and the fact that the company will require cash for drilling program, in Kentucky field in connection with the Columbia Gas and Electric contract, omission of the dividend was deemed necessary.

Profit for the March quarter amounted to $22,257 after all charges but before taxes, compared with $28,157 for the final quarter of 1930. In the first quarter of last year net income amounted to $263,300 after all charges and taxes, equal under participating provisions of shares to $2.12 a share on 21,069 shares of participating preferred and 52 cents a share on 393,973 common shares.

Coca-Cola company declared an extra dividend of 25 cent a share on common, in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1.75. A similar extra was paid three months ago. First quarter profit of Coca-Cola was $2,902,801 before federal taxes, against $2,849,156 in 1930, it was reported.

Adams Express company directors reduced the annual dividend rate on the common stock to $1 from $1.60 by declaring a quarterly payment of 25 cents a share.

The Standard Oil Company of Kansas omitted the second quarterly dividend. The directors said it was felt that cash and quick assets should be conserved.

Chain Store Tax May Be Higher, High Court Holds

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—In a five to four decision today the United States Supreme court upheld the right of a state to place a tax on chain stores higher than that levied on stores independently operated and in its majority opinion held that a taxing statute may discriminate between subjects of taxation provided the discrimination is based on a reasonable distinction.

JUSTICE OWEN ROBERTS. [Harris & Ewing.]

The case under consideration was that of Lafayette A. Jackson, owner of a chain of 225 grocery stores in Indianapolis, Ind., and the law which Jackson's attorneys had sought to attack was the Indiana statute placing a license fee on stores according to a scale so graduated that, while a one store owner paid only $3, Jackson paid $25 a year for each of his stores over 20.

Appeal from District Court.

The appeal was from the District court of the southern Indiana district, which had held the law unconstitutional. The majority opinion of the Supreme court, which was handed down by Justice Roberts, and which was concurred in by Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Holmes, Brandeis, and Stone, reversed the lower court's decision.

Justice Sutherland read the dissenting opinion, which was concurred in by Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, and Butler.

The majority opinion asserted:

"The principles which govern the decision of this cause are well settled. The power of taxation is fundamental to the very existence of the government of the states.

Classification Approved.

"The restriction that it shall not be so exercised as to deny to any the equal protection of the laws does not compel the adoption of an iron rule of equal taxation, nor prevent variety or differences in taxation, or discretion in the selection of subjects, or the classification for taxation of properties, or business, trades, callings, or occupations.

"The fact that a statute discriminates in favor of a certain class does not make it arbitrary, if the discrimination is founded upon a reasonable distinction.

"It is not the function of this court in cases like the present to consider the propriety or justness of the tax, to seek the motives or to criticise the public policy which prompted the adoption of the legislation."

Dissenting Opinion Given.

The dissenting opinion, on the other hand, pointed out that the advantages accruing to the chain stores "lie not in the fact that it is one of a number of stores under the same management, supervision, or ownership but in the fact that it is one of the parts of a large business."

The discrimination is unfair, the opinion held, since it may result in taxing one owner 1,800 times as much as another merely because his business is under many roofs, while that of the other is under one."

New York, May 18.—Both United States Steel and American Can fell below 100 on the New York Stock exchange today. Steel went to 99⅝ and Can to 96½, both recovering fractionally toward the close.

Although the street had been expecting and fearing the event for the better part of a week, it sort of knocked the speculative community off its collective feet and started a selling movement that bore the whole list down for losses of from 2 to 10 points. American Telephone and Telegraph broke 3½ points to a new low of 163; American Tobacco B crashed 8 to 114½; Atchison, Topeka and

CLEARING HOUSE AT GOTHAM CUTS INTEREST AGAIN

York, May 18.—(AP)—The New ...k clearing house voted today to ...ce the maximum interest rates ...ed on deposits by its member ...ks by ½ of 1 per cent, effective ...day. The new rates are the ...est since the clearing house as...med control over them in 1912.

...ion that the federal reserve bank of ...ork reduced its rediscount rate ...e all time low of 1½ per cent on ...y the cut had been expected. The ...ion of the lower rates was re...ded as an approval of the reserve ...y of easy money as a means of ...ting the bond market and ultimate...y business.

...e new maximum rates are 1 per ...t on demand deposits of mutual ...ings banks and ¼ of 1 per cent on ...e deposits of other banks of ...ilar investments. These rates ap...y also to time deposits for periods ...s than six month or less. All time de...its will bear not more than 1 per ...t interest. The last change in rates ...ed effective on Feb. 9.

...everal important banks recently ...ised the minimum deposit bal...es which they require of depos...s. This action and the new min...um rates which the banks will be ...ired to pay on deposits are ex...cted to persuade depositors to di...ert their surplus funds to the bond ...rket in keeping with the federal ...serve policy.

SOVIET BUSINESS.

CHICAGO BOYS' CLUB BUYS SITE ON EMERALD AVE.

Will Be Fifth in City-Wide Building Program.

BY AL CHASE.

County records yesterday disclosed the acquirement of a site by the Chicago Boys' club for the fifth of its city wide chain of gathering places for local youngsters. The newest club will be on the west side of Emerald avenue, ninety-two feet south of 34th street, or at least, three parcels of property at that location, totaling 103 x124, have been acquired from Joseph P. Darcey, the Chicago Title and Trust company and Dean Stanley.

The new club for boys will cost in the neighborhood of $150,000 and will be designed by Graham, Anderson, Probst & White. It will accomodate 2,500 neighborhood boys. It will contain a gymnasium, swimming pool, reading room and library and the usual manual training shops. Although theoretically the Chicago Boys' clubs are for youths of from eight to eighteen years of age, according to L. L. Valentine, president of the organization, there is no actual restriction po far as age is concerned.

Work to Start This Summer.

Work on the new club house will start some time this summer. The other four club buildings are at: 1725 Orchard street, 1300 Newberry avenue, 6405 South Hermitage avenue and 2301 South Ridgeway avenue. The club also maintains a 125 acre summer camp at Winona lake, Indiana. An addition to the camp mess hall is now under way which will double the capacity. The camp cared for 2,000 boys last summer.

William H. Lyman, manager of the Garland Building corporation, yesterday reported that it is now 89 per cent occupied. Since April four new tenants have been secured.

First Mortgage Trade Less.

First mortgage real estate financing, which had been on the upward trend since the first of the year, totaled but $11,133,000 in April, a decline of 39½ from March, according to the monthly investment review of Nelson, Hunt & Co. Total new realty stock and bond issues publicly offered by leading investment houses in the first four months of the year, it was stated, now aggregate $45,901,000, a decline of 86% from the total of $96,222,000 in the same period in 1930.

The University of Chicago purchased the six apartment building, lots 72x130, at 5726 Drexel avenue, from Carl W. Defebaugh for a reported $30,000, subject to $15,000.

OPEN NEW WOOL TOP FUTURES MARKET IN N. Y.

New York, May 18.—(AP)—The list of commodity futures markets was increased today by the opening of the wool top futures market by the wool associates of the New York Cotton exchange.

On the first call the September contract sold at 74.30 cents a pound and there were sales in each of the seven other contracts. Buying eased off at the close and closing prices were barely steady, 30 to 70 points below opening quotations, with the September position closing at 73.90 cents.

The unit of trading is 2,000 pounds of American fine tops, known as the "wool top exchange standard," and is based on delivery at Boston, with freight differentials covering deliveries at other points.

Suspend Proposal to Reduce Excursion Fares

Proposals of the Chicago Great Western railroad and the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railway to establish reduced round trip excursion passenger fares between Chicago and other points in Illinois and Minnesota have been suspended from May 16 to Dec. 16 by the interstate commerce commission. The proposals would have affected fares between Chicago, Forest Park and Maywood, Illinois, on the one hand, and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Rochester, Minnesota, on the other.

Business Personals

The Chicago Curb Exchange association membership of Stanley Morrill has been posted for transfer.

R. W. Clucas & Co. have been admitted to membership in the Chicago Stock Exchange. The firm already holds memberships in the New York and Philadelphia Stock Exchanges and the New York Curb Exchange.

The Chicago Mercantile Exchange has approved the applications for membership submitted by Charles V. Edens of the H. C. Bohack company and J. H. Wheeler, investment broker.

H. P. Hansen was elected a director of the Viking Pump company to succeed W. N. Hestrop, resigned. Charles W. Olson was elected treasurer of the company.

Ralph Linder Pope, president of the Northwestern Leather Company Trust of Boston, and Willis R. Kisher, president of the A. C. Lawrence Leather company of Peabody, Mass., have been elected to membership in the New York Hide Exchange.

The interstate commerce commission has authorized Samuel T. Bledsoe, chairman of the executive committee and general counsel of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, to hold the position of director of the Railway Express board.

PRICES IN GRAIN MARTS RETREAT ON LIQUIDATION

Canadian Rain Undermines Bullish Position.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in the grain markets again yesterday with September and December corn and oats selling at a new low for the season, and July wheat touched 58¾c, coming within ⅛c of the lowest figures so far for the crop year. Weakness in the securities market in New York, coupled with rain and snow in the Canadian northwest and rain this side of the international line, put sufficient pressure on all grains to carry them out of sharply. There was a noticeable lack of investment buying despite the low level of prices, support coming mainly from shorts and holders of July.

For weeks the wheat market has been sustained by reports of a drought in the three Canadian provinces, and the development of a period of unusual weather there caused what little bullishness remained to evaporate overnight. At no time did the market show a pronounced tendency to rally, and final trades were at net losses of 5@1¾c with July, 59¼c; September, 59¼c, and December, 63¾@64c. Old May was ¼c lower at Winnipeg showed more weakness than Chicago and lost 1⅝@1¾c for the day, with July, 69¾c. Liverpool finished ⅛@1⅛d lower, with July 1s.

Canada Needs More Rain.

Precipitation in the Canadian northwest was largely in the way of showers, and the amounts received up to 1 p. m. Monday were too light to be of material benefit. Out of 42 points which reported rainfall only 3 received ½ inch or more, while only 12 had ¼ inch or more. More rain and snow was received at many points after the official weather map was made up, however. Severe dust storms were noted in some sections, but the trade paid little or no attention to them, being far intent on liquidating purchases made higher up. There was also selling of July and buying of December which put the nearby delivery to a discount.

In four trading days July wheat has sold between 58¾@64¾c practically annulling the extreme made one time in February, and sentiment generally was about as bearish as it is possible to become. There was a fairly good foreign demand for North American grain, with only a scattered business in hard winters and Manitobas. Some of the latter were finally estimated at 100,000 bu in all positions. There was some buying at Winnipeg credited to the seaboard and the eastward.

Harvest Still Favorable.

Crop comments from the southwest continue unusually favorable, and the trade is now talking an early harvest with inferred longs in July in many instances to transfer their lines to the September. A decrease of 2,146,000 bu in the stocks in the domestic visible supply of wheat for the week, which now stands at 191,623,000 bu against 193,246,000 bu last year. Supplies on ocean passage increased 4,262,000 bu for the week and are 33,200,000 bu against 8,856,000 bu last year. World's shipments of 10,856,000 bu were the largest so far this year.

Local sentiment was predominantly bullish in corn, with the December, which represents the new crop, selling down to 47½c, or within about 4c of the low of 1931. Final trades were 4@5c lower with May, 55¾c; July, 54@54½c; September, 56, and December, 49@49¼c. Weakness in wheat and the stock market discouraged the bulls, and some stop loss orders were caught on the way down, with the best buying coming from scalpers of bids and on resting orders. The shipping demand was unusually poor, with only 11,000 bu reported sold. Weather over the belt was generally favorable for planting and receiving.

Supplies of corn at terminal markets are being steadily reduced despite the low shipping demand, the visible showing 1,490,000 bu for the week and 16,373,000 bu against 13,984,000 bu last year, the total of a year ago being below that of the current season for the first time in a number of weeks.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Bearishness predominated in wheat at the close, based on better weather conditions in the spring wheat sections and most favorable prospects for winter wheat in the southwest. The latter are so good that any change will be in the nature of a decline. Late in the day there were a few private reports from Oklahoma saying that conditions in the panhandle were not so favorable as a week ago. These, however, were not regarded as general. Railroad reports from there said that conditions were the best ever. Wheat prices are so low that traders are afraid to press the short side to any great extent and the disposition is to keep close to shore on both sides.

An impression prevails that the corn crop is going into the ground in the best shape in recent years. The market is getting no support from the outside, although prices are the lowest in 10 years. The visible supply is now larger than last year, for the first time this season. Industries are having a small grind and it is said there is no trouble in securing all the grain needed for their requirements. In fact, some of them are said to be carrying a good stock. May corn at Kansas City closed 6¾c under Chicago and Kansas City July is 51¼c. Those who are bearish claim that corn prices are relatively too high, as compared with wheat.

Monticello, Ill., said that some farmers were replanting corn; also that some of the first planted is coming up with thin stands.

H. I. Baldwin of Decatur, Ill., says rainfall in that district was about right last week and crop prospects are good. The greater part of the early planted corn is coming up to a pretty good stand. Much work was done last week and planting is about half finished.

RUSSIAN-INDIAN WHEAT

"Seeding in Russia up to May 10 aggregates 88,000,000 acres, as compared with 109,000,000 acres up to the same time last year," says Broomhall. "On May 1 sowing aggregated 56,000,000 acres, against 80,000,000 acres last year. Reports are of backward seeding in Siberia."

Latest official estimates of the Punjab Indian wheat crop are 182,370,000 bu, compared with 184,000,000 bu last year, and 128,800,000 bu two years ago. Total Indian crop is estimated at 340,000,000 bu, or about 40,000,000 bu less than last year. India's home consumption is about 310,000,000 bu.

RAINFALL BELOW NORMAL

"Rainfall for the week ended Saturday, May 16, was much below normal in almost every section of the central valley. Parts of central and southern Ohio had moderate showers, but Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri had less than normal," says Crop Expert R. W. Snow of Bartlett-Frazier company. "Oklahoma was entirely rainless, as was western Kansas and Nebraska, while eastern Kansas and Nebraska had only light showers. Central South Dakota had moderate showers, but the rest of the spring wheat territory was generally deficient. The week ends with most of our northwest very dry but with a fairly good moisture situation through the corn belt."

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT.

CANBERRA, Australia.—(AP)— Approximately 13,500,000 acres of land will be sown to wheat in Australia the coming season, compared with 18,000,000 acres last year, the government announces.

ANOTHER LOW ON LARD

Lard prices were again on the downgrade, with all deliveries selling at new lows for the season yesterday. A fair class of buying developed on the break, but the close was at the inside with net losses of 15@20c on lard and 17½@30c on bellies. Weakness and declines in grains, stocks, and cotton all contributed toward making a weak market, with selling of lard by eastern and foreign interests, while buying came largely from shorts who were taking profits. Hogs were down to the lowest since December, 1929, with arrivals decidedly larger than a week and a year ago. Cash trade in meats was slow. Liverpool lard was 6d lower, and exports for the week 9,716,000 lbs against 13,412,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 3,306,000 lbs against 5,859,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

WHEAT IN THE SOUTHWEST

E. H. Miller, the J. E. Bennett & Co. crop expert, is covering the territory from Oklahoma City to Wichita, Kas., 170 miles. finds wheat around Perry and Blackwell in only fair condition, as there are some thin stands with short heads. Grain men at Blackwell estimate the yield around there at 15 bu per acre. Approaching the Kansas line, condition of wheat improves and is good from there to Wichita. Grain men estimate the yield around 50,000,000 bu for Oklahoma alone and with favorable weather the crop might easily reach 100,000,000 bu. The next few weeks are the critical period and intense heat or hot winds would cause a material downward revision in these estimates. Condition of oats is excellent."

Reports of the Santa Fe railway indicate the best crop ever raised in the southwest. All fall sown grains are in excellent condition. Wheat is headed up to southern Kansas and is jointed over most of Kansas. Oats are heading over most of Oklahoma and Texas and harvesting will be under way by the end of May. Santa Fe railway officials say they will have many box cars for handling grain in the southwest than in any other season. Cars are now being stored at available points for moving the new crop as soon as harvested.

HIDE FUTURES

Futures on the New York hide exchange closed 20 points lower than Saturday. Total sales, 1,240,000 lbs.

April shoe production estimates reported to the New York hide exchange by the trade survey bureau of the tanners' council show production slightly above normal. This is considered interesting at this time in view of the fact that an upturn in business had usually been preceded by an increase in shoe production. It is estimated that manufacturers produced 36,000,000 pairs of shoes in April, compared with 29,153,000 in March and 29,001,000 in April, 1930. Prices follow:

GETS $24,000 FOR LOST LEG

Miss today was in possession of $24,000, following a settlement agreed upon by her lawyers and lawyers for over her suit for $50,000 for the loss of her right leg.

Miss 19 of S. Washtenaw av., an employe of a loop candy store, lost her leg when she was crushed between two cars at Forty-seventh st. and Kedzie av. last July.

Several cars were lined up in the street and in order to get across the street, she had to pass between two of the cars. One of them started in motion and she was caught between them.

She now uses an artificial leg.

A costly drive for someone!

Do you ever stop to realize, as you start out for a drive, that an accident like this may very easily cost you your car, your home and your savings? Verdicts of $25,000 and $50,000 against automobile owners are not at all uncommon, while even as much as $100,000 has actually been awarded!

Thus to drive a car without automobile public liability insurance is to run a tremendous risk. Such insurance, as written by the Affiliated Continental Companies, costs very little, yet it affords complete protection (up to whatever limit you buy) throughout the United States and Canada. Ask your agent or broker for a Continental policy today!

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 13,000; sheep, 10,000.

Sultry weather and bigger receipts teamed up yesterday and together dealt the cattle and hog markets one of the hardest jolts of the season. Prices hit a steep slide directly after a top heavy opening. Hogs did not stop going down until they were 25@ 50c under last Friday's level and at the lowest point since December, 1923.

They are only 10@25c above the lowest point since December, 1915, and are lowest for May since 1911. Cattle lost all of last week's late gains, falling back to the lowest level of the season. They are lowest for May in twenty years. Sheep receipts were meager and demand fairly good at strong to 25c higher prices.

It was a hot day in the cattle alleys yesterday and steers took on liberal water fills as soon as they were unloaded. Many of them had traveled several hundred miles. This fact caused buyers to hold back during the forenoon and bulk of business was transacted during the afternoon rounds at the full decline.

Price outs amounted to 25@50c, but considering the excess weight, some sales were only slightly lower. Many loads were still unsold at the close. A total of 22,000 head came on the market, the second largest total of the year. It proved a surprise to the trade which had been looking for moderate supplies for the next two weeks. Choice 1,074 lb steers topped the price list at $8.85 late. Butcher stock showed 25c decline, yearling heifers selling at $8.00. Calves were steady.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.00.

Hogs averaging 170@210 lbs were bid $7.00 for today's delivery, but there were no sellers at that figure on the "to arrive" market yesterday. Mediums averaging 210@260 lbs for delivery any time during the remainder of this month were sold at $7.00. June lights were offered as low as $7.25, but $7.00 was the highest bid for these contracts. September lights were offered at $7.40 and bid $7.00, while medium and heavy grades for September delivery were bid $7.35 and offered at $7.70.

Hog prices were 10@25c under Saturday's quotations. Weather conditions curtailed the local demand for pork and additional declines were recorded in fresh meat. Loins on the wholesale market were sold at 14½@ 18c, the lightest weights showing 4c loss compared with early last week and were hard to move at the reduction.

Top hogs slid down to $7.00, while the general average declined to $6.50. The low top in December, 1923, was $6.75 and the low average at that time was $6.50. Hog receipts at 46,000 were the largest since April 20. The total at 11 points at 115,000 showed a 20 per cent increase compared with a week ago. About 7,000 were left at the close. Outsiders bought 9,500, the largest shipments since March 23.

Sheep Decrease Again.

Sheep receipts at 12,000 were smallest of the year for Monday and with demand fairly good, prices ruled strong to 25c higher in face of the drastic break recorded in cattle and hogs. Choice Colorado wool lambs reached $9.60, highest since last Tuesday, while packers paid up to $9.50. Shorn lambs sold at $8.50@8.75. California spring lambs brought $9.50@10.25, according to quality. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged. Feeding and shearing stock sold steady.

CANDY MAKERS PROPERTY TAXED COURT DECIDES

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—Sweet chocolate and sweet milk chocolate, in blocks, bars, and small pieces, to be retailed in stores, were declared by the Supreme court today to have been properly taxed by the federal government as candy under the revenue acts of 1918 and 1921.

The suit was brought by the government against the Hershey, the Klein, the Wilbur-Suchard, and the York Chocolate companies, which paid $8,000,000 as excise taxes on the sales of such chocolate between 1918 and 1924. The federal District court decided in favor of the government, but the Third Circuit Court of Appeals found for the manufacturers.

The excise tax imposed by Ohio on the gross receipts of the East Ohio Gas company was sustained today by the Supreme court.

Order for Union Station at Los Angeles Sustained

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—The order of the California railroad commission requiring the Santa Fe, the Southern Pacific and the Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroads to construct a union passenger station at Los Angeles, was today sustained as valid by the Supreme court.

HEAR BANKS WITH LOTS OF CASH ON HAND ARE BUYING U. S. ISSUES

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—Banks with an abundance of cash on hand, due to decreasing loans, were said today by the federal reserve board to be increasing their investments in government securities.

Total loans and investments of city banks were larger in April than in any of the preceding months despite continued decline in loans both on securities and on "all other" forms of credit.

"This increase in member bank credit was due largely to the rapid growth of member bank investments in United States securities, which was continuous since the beginning of this year and became more rapid after the middle of March," the board said. "Since that time the government has issued more than $2,000,000,000 of new securities, about one-half of which has represented refunding operations, and the other half new borrowing. A substantial part of these government issues has been acquired by member banks."

Between March 11 and April 29 there was an increase of $560,000,000 in holdings of government securities reported by banks in leading cities. The board added a review of loans and investments since October, 1928, showed there had been little change in member bank credit in New York city since the beginning of 1930 and little change in other reserve cities since the last quarter of 1929.

"In country banks the rapid growth of credit stopped in the middle of 1928; the volume then remained practically unchanged until the last quarter of 1929 and after that time diminished continuously and rapidly," the board said. "This decrease in country bank assets has been due to continuous process of liquidation of local loans reflecting diminished demand for credit because of the decline in business activity and in the prices of agricultural commodities.

"This survey brings out the fact that for a period of more than two years there has been no growth in bank credit, and that at the financial centers liquidation of loans to trade and industry has been more than offset by purchases of investments and open-market paper, while at country banks liquidation of commercial loans has not been accompanied by increased purchases in the open market. It appears that the banks, taken as a whole, having an abundance of funds released from trade and industry, have not kept them idle but have employed them in the investment market."

Seventy Roads Testify in Jersey Lighterage Case

New York, May 18.—(AP)—Testimony as to the intricacies and expense of the New Jersey rail switching situation was offered today by the 70 railroads contesting the New Jersey petition for the abolition of free lighterage as the hearing before the interstate commerce commission examiners went into its second week. It is the contention of the railroads that the free lighterage service with which they provide New York City costs approximately the same as deliveries by rail to parts of New Jersey.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Indiana—Mostly cloudy and cooler, preceded by showers in east and south portions Tuesday; Wednesday partly cloudy and rather cool, possibly showers in extreme north portion.

Upper Michigan—Rain and cooler Tuesday afternoon and night; Wednesday partly cloudy and rather cool.

Lower Michigan—Partly cloudy and rather cool Tuesday, preceded by showers in southeast portion; probably rain and cooler again Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy Tuesday, with rain and cooler in west portion in afternoon and in east portion at night; Wednesday generally fair and rather cool.

Export Price of Copper Is Cut to 9.27c a Pound

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—A reduction of one-quarter of a cent a pound in the export price of copper, to 9.37½ cents, a new low record, stimulated foreign buying of the red metal today.

Export sales in the forenoon approximated 4,500,000 pounds, the largest volume for that period in weeks.

The cut in price brought the export quotation to parity with the domestic price—9 cents. With producers willing to sell at that level, a fair inquiry came into the market from domestic consumers. Copper metal prices now are around the lowest levels of the decline in the last year.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally advertised Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $20 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate approximately one-third less than the rate permitted by the Small Loan Law.

The only signatures required are those of husband and wife.

INCLUDED IN OUR BIG STOCK OF SLIGHTLY USED CARS OFFERED AT BARGAIN PRICES

And you can buy with confidence. 5 days' free driving trial goes with each sale.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER. 1928 Eight pass. Sedan. This Studebaker was owned in conjunction with Pierce-Arrows and it will be given careful attention by an expert chauffeur. Result is, today it's practically 100% in every detail. Will not remain long at our price of $695.

LINCOLN SEDAN. This 7 pass. was in storage for 17 months, so now it's practically 100% throughout. Will not remain long at our price of $295.

BUICK 8 SEDAN. Was traded in at a very favorable price, so we'll pass on the saving to you. Has distinctive velour upholstery and the finish is bright and shiny. Equipped with $175 worth of extras. Motor is A-1. Reduced to $295.

HUDSON SEDAN. 1928 model that was only driven a few thousand miles. It's the record for sparkling performance and beautiful appearance. A remarkable value at $695.

BUICK COACH. This 5-pass. 6 is a quality car from bumper to bumper. The appearance is attractive and we carefully inspected the motor and made adjustments wherever necessary. Has many extras. $345.

OLDSMOBILE SEDAN. 1928 that's exceptionally clean throughout. Examine this car and you'll find that every detail is in wonderful condition. The motor is A-1 and the price is one of keeping with its high quality. $395.

ESSEX COUPE. 1929 that never left the Chicago blvds. The finish has not a mar on it. Upholstery appears new. Motor is in excellent condition. Equipped with wire wheels, shutter front, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, rumble seat. $395.

ERSKINE COACH. 1929. At our price it's one of the most exceptional bargains in Chicago. Every detail of the exterior and interior appears new. $395.

REO SPORT COUPE. 1929 with rumble seat. This Reo is a real beauty. It's oiled and greased every 500 miles by the original owner, so now it's in top notch condition throughout. $695.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1929 Commander with wire wheels, side mounts, ball bearing spring shackles and many other valuable extras. The motor is in such fine condition that we are backing it with a 30 day exchange privilege. Here is a Studebaker that will satisfy the most exacting buyer. Special at $695.

WILLYS-KNIGHT SEDAN. 1929 De Luxe model 70 with wire wheels, and every essential extra. This car is a real beauty and the motor purrs smoothly and quietly. It's a pickup at our price of $545.

PACKARD SEDAN. 1928 six that we recommend as one of our best buys. The upholstery is luxurious and the finish is Duco-ed black color. Equipped with shock absorbers, driving light, spare tire, etc. Reduced to $785 for quick sale.
